Landshut, June 17. General Fouquet, who had under his Command the Major Generals Schenken-dorff, Malachowski, Grant, and Colonel Rosen, having marched Yesterday from Schweidnitz, with fifteen Squadrons of Dragoons and Hussars, eight Battalions of Infantry, and three Free Battalions, arrived, at Ten o'Clock this Morning, before the Gates of Landshut. This Post was guarded by a considerable Body of Austrian Troops, consisting of the Regiment of Modena Cuirassiers, the Archduke Joseph's Dragoons, Palfi's Hussars, and another Regiment of Hussars; together with the Regiments of Foot of Platz, of the Archduke Joseph, of Konigsegg, of Simbschon, of Breysac, and several Regiments of Croats and Hungarian Infantry; the Whole commanded by the Generals Gaisrugg, St. Ignon, Jahnus, and Gourcy. We begun the Attack upon the Enemy on three Sides, and it lasted till Four o'Clock in the Afternoon; when the Enemy, being drove from every Redoubt one after another, were at last forced to retreat. We have repossessed ourselves of all the Heights, where most of the Redoubts have been destroyed by the Enemy.

As their Corps was much superior to ours, they covered their Retreat in such a Manner, that we have only been able to make a very small Number of Prisoners, consisting of fifty Men, one Captain, and two Lieutenants.

Our Loss does not amount to more than about twenty Men killed and wounded.

From his Prussian Majesty's Head Quarters at Radeburg the 22d of June, 1760. The King having thought it proper to cross the Elbe, executed his Design on the 14th in the Afternoon, at a Place opposite Zadel, without the least Opposition from the Enemy, tho' their Patrols had discovered our Motions, and their Proximity made the Attempt difficult. A sufficient Body of Troops was left to guard the Borders of the Tribsch, and the Bridges that had been laid below Meissen for that Purpose. His Prussian Majesty took Possession of the Camp of Broschwitz; and Marshal Daun, after having crossed the River, came and occupied that of Reichenberg. On the 18th the King begun again to march, in order to gain the Enemy's Right Flank. The Saxon Dragoons and Hulus had advanced to Gros-Dobritz; but, on the Approach of his Prussian Majesty's Van-Guard, they threw themselves, with Precipitation, into the Wood of Steinbach, and went to join General Lascey, who after having called in General Brentano's Corps, encamped on the Heights of Bernsdorff, with the Brook of Primnitz before him. The Prussian Van-Guard continued their March towards Radeburg. The Enemy, on their Approach, evacuated the Town; a Troop of their Warrafins, not having been quick enough in their Flight, were cut off. The Saxon Dragoons and Hulus, supported by all the Enemy's Cavalry, were then attacked by the Hussars and Dragoons of the Prussian Van-Guard; who forced the former to pass the Brook, pursuing them, Sword in Hand, to their Camp. After which, the Enemy's Artillery beginning to play upon the Prussian Van-Guard, prevented their further Progress. They took however some Hundreds of Horses. The Rapidity of their March, not having permitted the Army and Cannon to keep up with them, made it necessary to defer the Attack to the next Day.

The Strength of General Lascey's Corps; the advantageous Ground he occupied; the Proximity of Marshal Daun's Army, who in less than two Hours could have joined him; all these Circumstances seemed to make a Battle unavoidable: Notwithstanding which, and contrary to all Expectation, General Lascey, taking the Advantage of the Darkness of the Night, filed off to the Camp of Reichenberg, in fortifying which the Enemy have employed a great Part of the Winter Season. The Prussian Hussars, in Pursuit of General Lascey's Corps, made some Booty, and took some Stragglers.

Hague, July 1. We have received News, by our Letters from Hesse, that the respective Armies in those Parts are in full Motion. Prince Ferdinand left his Camp at Fritzlar on the 24th; and marched to Frillingdorff. And, by our last Accounts, which are of the 28th past, we know that his Serene Highness's Head Quarters were then at Diederhausen, the Army being encamped on the Hills between Ziegenheim and Freysa; General Imhoff commanding at a small Distance on the Right, and the Hereditary Prince of Brunswick on the Left, who had marched thither from the Country of Fulde, after some successful Skirmishes with the Enemy, particularly on the 18th at Hofenfeldt, and on the 23d at Zielbach, in which his Highness took some Officers, and several Men and Horses of Berchini's Corps, without any Loss on his Side. In the mean while M. de Broglio, we are informed, being joined by Prince Xavier of Saxony from his Right, and by M. de Guerchy from the Left, has assembled his Army, and encamped on the 22d between Merlan and Laubach. He has since marched to Neustadt, where his Camp was fixed on the 28th, with a strong Post at Wassenberg. In this critical Situation of the Armies, which are now within so little Distance of each other, we are in Expectation of hearing soon of some important Event.

DR. JAMES's Powder for FEVERS, and other Inflammatory Distempers, published by Virtue of His MAJESTY's ROYAL LETTERS PATENT, will remove (as has been experienced in many thousand Cases)
any continual acute Fever in a few Hours, though attended with Convulsions, Light-headedness, and the worst Symptoms:
But if taken in the Beginning of a Fever, one Dose is generally sufficient to perform a Cure.

It is likewise a most effectual Remedy for all internal Inflammation, Pleurisy, Quincies, acute Rheumatisms, and the Low-ness of Spirits, and Uneasinesses proceeding from slow and latent Fever, which are generally mistaken for Vapours and Hysterics;
It is extremely effectual in the Small Pox, Measles, and St.
Anthony's Fire; and a single Dose remarkably stops the Progress of a Cold, and certainly prevents the ill Consequences arising from that very common Disorder, the Source of almost all Distempers.

This Powder (which is a very safe and pleasant Medicine to take) is sold by J. Newbery at the Bible and Sun in St.
Paul's Church-yard, London; and by Mrs. Smart, at Mr.
M'Mahon's, in Caple-street, Dublin; at 2s. 6d. the two Doses, with good Allowance to those who buy it for charitable Uses, or to sell again.

See a Dissertation on Fevers, and other Inflammatory Distempers, sold at the Places above-mentioned. Price 6d.
