Hague, Sept. 17.

WE have received Letters To-Day, which inform us, that Marshal Broglio had, in the Night of the 12th, quitted his Camp at Immenhausen, and had fallen back, with his Army, towards Cassel, where he was making Preparations to strengthen himself. Prince Xavier had likewise been recalled from the Neighbourhood of Gottingen, and had retired to Munden and Witzenhausen. By Accounts from Prince Ferdinand's Army of the 14th, it appears, That his Serene Highness was to pass the Dymel that Day, with the Reserve under the Command of the Marquess of Granby; and it was expected, the whole Army would follow on the next Day, or the 16th. Major Bulow, who had been sent upon an Expedition against the French on the Side of Marbourg, has, it is said, been successful in entering that Town, destroying the Ovens, Cloathing, Spare Arms, and other Stores of the French Army: That he took 8 Officers, and several Men Prisoners, with a great Number of Commissaries, and their Train; and made a great Booty; and that he pushed Parties forward to Butzbach, and afterwards retreated towards Frankenberg.

Our last Accounts from Glogau mention, that the King of Prussia was encamped on the 8th between Striegau and Schweidnitz, as Marshal Daun was between the last mentioned Place and Hohen-Friedberg, and, according to Appearances, had laid aside, for the present, his Design of besieging Schweidnitz; and that the Russians were at Hernstadt, and pushed their Light Troops forward, from Time to Time, to the Oder; so that they had not yet entered Poland.
