Hague, October 28. Our last Letters from the Country of Hesse, which are of the 25th Instant, bring no News of Consequence from thence. Prince Ferdinand remained in his Head Quarters at Ovelgunne, as Marshal Broglie did in his near Cassel: And his Serene Highness had reinforced the Troops, commanded by General Wangenheim; and Marshal Broglie those under the Prince of Saxony: Both which Corps are on the other Side of the Weser.

The Hereditary Prince of Brunswick has left Brunyden, and marched on the 26th to Schernbeck, and on the 27th to Limbeck. In the mean While, the French Troops, under M. de Castries, continue on the Left Side of the Rhine, and the Garrison of Wesel is considerably reinforced.

The Russians, it is said, are on their March towards Posen, in order to take up their Winter Quarters there: And the Swedes have repassed the River Peenc.

Lord Chamberlain's Office, November 3, 1760.

HIS Grace the Lord Chamberlain is hereby pleased to direct, that all such of His late Majesty's Chaplains as are in London, or at a reasonable Distance, and able to walk, do meet in the Painted Chamber at Westminster on Tuesday the 11th Day of this Instant November, at Six o'Clock in the Afternoon, to attend the Funeral of His late Majesty of Glorious Memory, and to go in the Procession as they shall be respectively called out by the Heralds.

Admiralty-Office, November 3, 1760.

HIS Majesty has been graciously pleased to signify to my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, That He does not require the Officers of His Fleet, or Marines, should wear any other Mourning, on the present melancholy Occasion, than a black Crape Scarfe round the Arm, and black Crape Sword Knot, with their Uniforms, except when they come to Court.

J. Cleveland.
