

Crown of these Kingdoms may ever descend to One of your Majesty's illustrious Family.

These, and all other Blessings, we pray Heaven to pour down upon your Sacred Majesty, and your native Country; a Nation that will glory and rejoice in your Birth and Eminence, in the Wisdom of your Councils, the Valour of your Arms, and the Justice of your Government.

Given under our Common Seal at the Town-Hall of the said Borough, the Fifth Day of November, in the First Year of your Majesty's Reign.

The following Address of the Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of the Town of Shrewsbury, has been presented to His Majesty: which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of the Town of Shrewsbury, in Common Council assembled.

May it please your Majesty,

TO permit your Subjects the Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of your Town of Shrewsbury, to share humbly in the Sorrows of your Sacred Majesty, to lament with the Piety and Honour which they owe to the best of Princes, the Loss of their beloved Sovereign; and as a Testimony of Gratitude to His Memory, to profess the fullest Hopes and Transport which they sensibly feel in your Majesty's Accession to His Crown and Dignities.

With happy Omens your Majesty ascends the Throne with the entire Confidence of your People in those princely Virtues and just Sentiments of Government, which you have early learnt from the Example and Practice of your Royal Grandfather, and our late patriot Prince your Father, and in your declared Affection to the Country which boasts your Birth; and at a Time when the Commerce and Dominions of Britain are more extended than ever, and her Character in Arts and Arms is apparently the Envy and Terror of the most ambitious and dreaded Power in Europe.

May Providence continue its Blessings on your Majesty's Arms and Councils, and crown you with a long and prosperous Reign over a dutiful and grateful People; may you ever reign, and, with your great Ancestors, think it only glorious to reign in the Hearts and Affections of your Subjects; and may you long enjoy, and think it the greatest Blessing of Royalty, to enjoy the Power of blessing Nations that serve and love you.

Given under our Common Seal the Third Day of November, in the first Year of your Majesty's Reign.

The following Address of the President and Fellows of the Royal College of Physicians in London, has been presented to His Majesty: Which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the King's Most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the President and Fellows of the Royal College of Physicians in London.

May it please your Majesty,

WE your Majesty's most faithful and loyal Subjects, the President and Fellows of the College of Physicians in London, a Society founded by one of your Royal Predecessors, and honoured with the constant Patronage of succeeding Princes, beg Leave to approach your Throne with the humblest Profession of our Duty, and of our unfeigned Joy in your Majesty's happy Accession to the Government of these Realms.

Permit us, most gracious Sovereign, to congratulate you on the auspicious Juncture at which you are called to rule us; when by the Blessing of Divine Providence on the wise Councils of our late excellent King, and on the unblemished Equity and Mildness of His Administration, the Glory and Happiness of Great Britain are raised to a Height unequalled in any former Period. These distinguished Circumstances, which will for ever make the Memory of your Royal Grandfather revered by this Nation; would render our Grief for the Loss of him most permanent, did not your Majesty's Virtues, so conspicuous in an early Season of Life, promise a Continuation of the same Felicity to your People.

May your Majesty's future Government be distinguished by every Blessing which the Favour of Heaven, and the Gratitude of good Subjects, can secure to the best of Kings: May your Majesty ever reign in the Hearts of all your People, and surpass your Predecessor in Years and Glory.

Given under our Common Seal this Tenth Day of November, 1760.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Mayor, Bailiffs, and Capital Burgesses of Monmouth, in Common Council assembled.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects the Mayor, Bailiffs, and Capital Burgesses of your Town of Monmouth, with the utmost Duty and Humility, beg Leave to condole with your Majesty on the Death of our late Sovereign, your Majesty's Royal and August Grandfather, of glorious Memory, and at the same Time to congratulate your Majesty on your happy Accession to the Imperial Throne of these Kingdoms, with the general Voice and Approbation of a free and united People.

Your Majesty's so early and gracious Declaration, confirmed by your immediate, affectionate Attention in Consequence, to the Honour and Welfare of this your native Country, and at so critical a Juncture, must certainly endear your Majesty to every thinking Briton, and make him in Tongue and Heart a grateful, dutiful, and faithful Subject.

To see all our Party Feuds and Distinctions so happily vanished, our Commerce so well protected from the Violence of a long and destructive War, new Colonies and Territory almost daily added to the British Empire, and every other Part of the Publick Service so duly attended to and exerted under the Care and Vigilance of an able, faithful, and active Ministry, cannot but give the most sensible Pleasure to your People, and make them cheerful in their Supplies for so useful a Purpose.

Permit us, Royal Sir, in particular, most humbly to assure your Majesty of our inviolable Attachment
