

The London Gazette.

Published by Authority.

From Tuesday December 9, to Saturday December 13, 1760.

St. James's, December 13.

THE following Address of the Lord Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum of the County of Middlesex, the Deputy Lieutenants, and Justices of the Peace of the said County, and of the City and Liberty of Westminster, was presented to His Majesty by his Grace the Duke of Newcastle the Lord Lieutenant, attended by the Earl of Kinnoull, and the Right Honourable the Lord Carpenter; by Sir William Beauchamp Proctor, Bart. and George Cooke, Esq; Representatives for the said County, the Honourable Major General Cornwallis, one of the Representatives of the said City and Liberty, and by a great Number of the Deputy Lieutenants, and Justices of the Peace of the said County, City and Liberty.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty.

Most gracious Sovereign,

YOUR Majesty's most faithful and loyal Subjects, the Lord Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum, the Deputy Lieutenants, and Justices of the Peace of the County of Middlesex, and City and Liberty of Westminster, in the said County, beg Leave, in the most dutiful Manner, to express our Sorrow and Concern for the sudden Death of your Royal Grandfather, our late most gracious Sovereign; a King, whose glorious Reign will make a most shining Figure in the British History; and transmit his Name, with lasting Renown, to succeeding Ages.

This Loss could not be repaired, or the Nation's Grief alleviated, but by the Blessing of your Sacred Majesty's happy Accession to the Throne of your Ancestors. On which Occasion, with Hearts full of Joy, we most sincerely congratulate your Majesty; and most earnestly pray to God, that your Reign may be long, happy and prosperous. That those rare Excellencies of Mind, which your Majesty has so early discovered, may gather Strength and Vigour, from Year to Year, and be productive of that Gratitude, Confidence, and Affection, from your own Subjects; and that Weight, Honour, and Influence Abroad, which ever have been, and always must be, the Effect of the united Blessings of Piety, Virtue, and Magnanimity, in a British Sovereign.

And permit us, Great Sir, to give you the sincerest Assurances of our Zeal and Attachment to your Majesty's Sacred Person and Government. And that our constant Attention shall be employed to secure to our Fellow Subjects, as far as in us lies, those Rights, Liberties and Privileges, which your known Love for Justice, and the admirable Constitution of your Kingdoms, gives them so just a Title to. And we assure your Majesty, that our utmost Efforts shall be exerted to produce that Peace, Decency, and good Order, so much the Object of your Majesty's Wishes; and at the same Time to discountenance and suppress all Vice and Immorality, by a candid, diligent and impartial Execution of the Laws.

Which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously: They had all the Honour to kiss His Majesty's Hand: And His Majesty at the same Time was pleased to confer the Honour of Knighthood upon Henry Cheere, Esq; one of the Deputy Lieutenants, and a Justice of the Peace for the County of Middlesex, and for the City and Liberty of Westminster.

The following Address of the Principal Inhabitants of the Borough of Cirencester, has been presented to His Majesty by the Right Honourable Lord Bathurst; Which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,

The humble and unanimous Address of the Principal Inhabitants of the Borough of Cirencester, in the County of Gloucester.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE humbly beg Leave to approach your Royal Person, to mingle our Grievs with those of your Majesty on that mournful Event, the sudden Death of your illustrious Grandfather, our late excellent Monarch; in whom the great and the amiable Qualities were most happily blended; whose Wisdom and Fortitude, whose Justice and Clemency, will endear his Name to all future Ages; and the Glories of whose Reign will be conspicuous among the splendid Ornaments of History. We most sincerely lament him, and distant Nations will join in lamenting him, as not only the common Father of his own Subjects, but, under Providence, the Assertor and the Champion of Europe's Rights and Liberties.

Permit us at the same Time to congratulate your Majesty on your happy Accession to the Imperial Throne of these Realms, and to the Government of a free, prosperous, united and loyal People. We who have been honoured with the Presence of your Royal and August Parents, cannot help entertaining a peculiar and most affectionate Veneration for your Majesty, and thinking ourselves as it were peculiarly concerned in your Prosperity and Glory. What could comfort us under a Sense of our late inestimable Loss, but the Elevation of a Prince, who is equally formed to govern, to bless and to charm adjoining Nations? We pay our respects, not merely to your supreme Rank in the Community, but likewise to those Virtues and Endowments, from which even that Rank will derive Ornament and Lustre. Your engaging Character when Prince of Wales, formed by a most accomplished Princess; your late Royal Declaration, that you glory in the Name of Briton; your esteeming the Loyalty and Affection of your People the most permanent Security of your Throne; your accepting the Services of a constitutional Militia; your Promise of Encouragement to Military Merit; your magnanimous Resolution to support your Allies, and prosecute the War with Vigour; your tender Concern for the unavoidable Burdens of your Subjects; and your truly Royal Purpose to protect their Trade, to maintain inviolable their Civil and Religious Liberties, and countenance the Practice of Piety and Virtue: These are Omens of our national Happiness, will render your Majesty the Delight of these Kingdoms, the Admiration of the World, and the Favorite of an all-ruling Providence. 'Tis a great Felicity, of your Majesty's Government, that you are enthroned in the Hearts of the most unanimous Subjects, whose only Contention it is, who shall be most ardent in their Expressions of Loyalty, and their Regards for the common Good.

The recent Successes of the British Arms we joyfully and devoutly acknowledge; and are highly pleased with the Reflection, that the singular Humanity with which they have been attended, renders our Victories rather a Happiness than Misfortune to the Inhabitants of the conquered Countries. The Abilities and Valor of your Majesty's General Prince Ferdinand;