St. James's, September 14.

THIS Day the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London, in Common Council assembled, waited on His Majesty; and being introduced to His Majesty by his Grace the Duke of Devonshire, made their Compliments in the following Address, which was spoke by Sir William Moreton, Knight and Recorder.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons, of the City of London, in Common Council assembled.

BE pleased, Most Gracious Sovereign, to accept the cordial and respectful Congratulations of your Majesty's ever dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons, of the City of London, in Common Council assembled, on the Solemnization of your Majesty's most auspicious Nuptials.

Warmly interested from every Motive of Gratitude, as well as Duty, in whatever can affect your Royal Mind, we enjoy the highest Satisfaction in the Completion of our Wishes, by your Majesty's happy Union with a Princess of the most exalted Merit; a Princess, who by her Descent from an illustrious Lineage (respectable for their firm and constant Zeal for the Protestant Religion, and dear to us for their particular Attachment to your Majesty's Royal House) and above all, by her own most eminent Virtues, and amiable Endowments, was most worthy to engage your Majesty's Esteem and Affection, and to share the Honors of the British Crown.

We adore the Divine Goodness, that as in all your Majesty's other Conduct, so more particularly in a Choice of the highest Importance to your Majesty and your Kingdoms, hath so visibly guided and inspired your Royal Breast. A Choice, which we thankfully acknowledge the strongest and most acceptable Proof of your Majesty's paternal Attention to improve the Happiness and Security of your People, and to render the same stable and permanent to Posterity.

May the same Providence long preserve your Majesty, and your Royal Consort, to enjoy the Fruits of this blessed Marriage, in an uninterrupted Course of conjugal Felicity, and in a numerous Offspring, resembling their illustrious Parents in every public, as well as private, Virtue. And may the Imperial Crown of these Realms be worn with undiminished Lustre by their Descendants, till Time shall be no more.

Signed by Order of Court,

James Hodges.

To which Address His Majesty was pleased to return this most gracious Answer.

I Thank you most heartily for your Dutiful and Affectionate Address. This fresh Mark of your Attachment to My Person, and particularly the warm Sentiments of Joy and Satisfaction which you express on the happy Choice I have made of a Queen for My Consort, are most pleasing to Me. The City of London may always depend on My unceasing Care for their Welfare and Prosperity.

They were all received very graciously, and had the Honor to kiss His Majesty's Hand.

To the Queen's most Excellent Majesty,

Most gracious Queen,

We do, with that honest Warmth and Sincerity which characterize the British Nation, humbly assure Your Majesty, that as the many Virtues and amiable Endowments which Your Majesty possesses in so eminent a Degree, cannot fail to bless our beloved Sovereign with every domestick Happiness; so will they ever endear Your Majesty to a People, not more distinguished for their Love of Liberty, and their Country, than for their inviolable Loyalty and Gratitude to those Princes from whom they derive Protection and Prosperity.

Long may Your Majesty live to share the Felicity you are formed to inspire. And may Your Majesty prove the happy Mother of a Race of Princes, to transmit the Glories of this distinguished Reign to the latest of our Posterity.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Chancellor, Masters, and Scholars, of the University of Cambridge.

Most Gracious Sovereign!

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Chancellor, Masters, and Scholars, of your University of Cambridge, feel the warmest Sentiments of Joy and Affection, in offering our Congratulations to your Majesty, on this most happy and auspicious Occasion. We cannot but ascribe it to a Principle of the most tender Regard for your People, so conspicuous in every Part of your Majesty's Conduct, that your Majesty should turn your earliest Thoughts to a Matter so highly interesting to the Happiness of your Kingdoms, and so necessary to make that Happiness permanent to Posterity. Your Choice of a Princess for your Consort, endowed with such Virtues, and distinguished for such personal Accomplishments, as will add Lustre to a Throne, while they alleviate the Cares of it, gives the surest Prospect of Domestic Happiness to your Majesty, and of universal Satisfaction to your Loyal, and Affectionate, People.

As Her Majesty's Illustrious Line has shewn its invariable Zeal for the Protestant Cause, we have the firmest Hopes, under God, that this Alliance will perpetuate to us the most valuable Blessings, which a Race of British Kings, immediately descended from your Majesty, can secure to Britons; the free Exercise of their holy Religion, and the full Enjoyment of their civil Rights.

That wonderful Series of Providential Events, which has appeared in the happy Progress of your Majesty's Arms, affects us with the greatest Joy; and cannot fail to excite our devout Acknowledgements unto Him, who is the God of Armies. As these Successes render your Majesty's Reign truly Glorious, and your Kingdoms universally respectable; so the particular Impression they must make on your Enemies, by their seeing the Weight of British Power, and seeing the Hand of Heaven in Support of your Cause, will dispose them, we hope, to concur with your Majesty, in the desirable Work of establishing a Lasting Peace in every Quarter of the World; and we, as particularly bound by our Office, and Character, shall not cease to implore the Great Disposer of all Events, that He would graciously assist your Majesty's truly Christian Disposition, and earnest Endeavours for that Purpose.

We gratefully acknowledge your Majesty's Regard for, and Protection of those ancient Seats of Learning, which your Royal Progenitors so amply endowed, and so generously encouraged; and we most humbly entreat your Majesty's gracious Acceptance of these our faithful Assurances of our affectionate and zealous Attachment to your Majesty's Royal Person, and Government; of our constant Attention to answer the good Ends of our Institution, by insilling into the Minds of the Youth, placed under our Care, and Inspection, such Principles of Religion, and Loyalty, as may make them dutiful Subjects to your Majesty, and useful Members of the Community: And our most earnest Petitions shall be offered at the Throne of Grace, that God would grant your Majesty a long, and glorious Reign over us, as the Sum of our Wishes for the publick Prosperity, and the surest Means of Happiness to your People.

To which Address His Majesty was pleased to give this most Gracious Answer.

THE repeated Assurances of your Zeal, and Affection, for My Person, and Government, are extremely acceptable to Me; and can never be more so, than upon the present Occasion; which, I trust, will be as conducive to the Happiness of My People, as it is to My own.

You may always depend upon My Protection, and Favour.

His Grace the Duke of Newcastle, Chancellor of the University, accompanied by the Vice Chancellor, and the other Members of the University who before waited on His Majesty, were introduced to the Queen by his Grace the Duke of Manchester, Lord Chamberlain, when his Grace the Duke of Newcastle made the Compliments of the University in the following Speech.

May it please your Majesty,

TO accept from the University of Cambridge, ever zealous to express their Duty to His Majesty's Royal Person and Family, their most sincere Congratulations on this joyful Occasion; which gives them the great Satisfaction of seeing the Domestic Happiness of their most gracious Sovereign improved by an Alliance with a Princess of such distinguished Virtues and Accomplishments, and opens the fairest Prospect to all His Majesty's Subjects, that the various Blessings, which they enjoy under His Auspicious Reign, will be continued, and secured to their Posterity.

Long may your Majesty possess the Affections of that People, whom your Presence has filled with such uncommon Joy; and may Heaven vouchsafe so to bless your Royal Nuptials, that, from this happy Union, a Race of Princes may arise, who, endowed with the same Hereditary Virtues, and educated in the same generous Principles, for the Support of the Protestant Cause, may transmit the Renown of British Monarchs, and the Liberties of the British Nation, entire, and uninterrupted, to remotest Ages.

Repowa

The Queen's most Gracious Answer.

I Return you My Thanks for this Mark of your Duty to the King, and Affection to Me, and I feel most sensibly your kind Congratulations.

His Grace the Duke of Newcastle, Chancellor of the University, accompanied by the Vice Chancellor, and the other Members of the University, who before waited on their Majesties, were introduced to her Royal Highness by the Right Honourable Lord Boston, Chamberlain to her Royal Highness; when his Grace the Duke of Newcastle made the Compliments of the University in the following Speech.

May it please your Royal Highness,

THE University of Cambridge begs Leave to approach your Royal Highness, with their most sincere Congratulations upon the happy Nuptials of their most Gracious Sovereign, with a Princess so eminent for her Personal Virtues, and Endowments; and descended from an Illustrious House, always zealous for the Protestant Religion.

May your Royal Highness long live, to see a numerous Progeny arise from this Happy Alliance; who, emulating the Virtues of their Royal Parents, shall also place their chief Glory in the Protection of our Holy Religion; the Encouragement of useful Learning; and the Support of the just Rights of a Free, and Loyal, People.
