

riage, and Coronation; which, as it enlarges our Prospect of future Security, so it gives us Room to to anticipate the Happiness of after-Ages.

It is with exquisite Satisfaction we behold the ancient British Blood and Spirits unite and gather fresh Strength in your Royal Person.

As the Spreading of the British Stem in your Royal Line, is interesting and important to every true Briton; so the universal Joy of your loving Subjects receives its Completion, from the happy Choice your Majesty has made of your Royal Consort, and our Queen; a Princess remarkably eminent for Patriot Virtues, and endued with all other Accomplishments worthy of the Royal Stock of which She is descended: A Princess carefully bred up, and firmly grounded in Protestant Principles, from a Series of great and pious Ancestors of the illustrious and ancient House of Mecklenburgh, who zealously embraced, cultivated, and strengthened, the glorious Work of the Reformation, in its early Days.

From such virtuous Combination, and happy Union of heroick Spirits, must needs proceed a numerous, noble Progeny of heroick Personages, who, (we trust) will, in their Generation, gladly discharge the great Duties incumbent on their high Callings; and under whose Shadow, Posterity will rejoice, and rest secure in the happy Enjoyment of their Rights, Civil, and Religious.

Permit us, Sir, in acquitting ourselves of the other Part of our Duty, to congratulate heartily your Majesty on your auspicious Coronation, amidst the joint Acclamations of all Ranks and Degrees throughout your Majesty's Dominions. And, as your Royal Consort bore Her Part in the Celebration of that high Festival, (the Anniversary whereof will, in succeeding Years be a pleasing Record to all true Patriots) so we heartily make our Gracious Queen the adequate Tribute of our Greetings upon the same.

That your Majesty may long reign gloriously and happily over your extensive Dominions; be ever victorious, and a powerful Curb on the Disturbers of Mankind's Repose; and your Royal Line flourish to latest Posterity; is the Tenor of our humble Suit to the Almighty; whom we also intreat for His plentiful Blessings on Her Majesty the Queen; and the Continuance of His inestimable Favours on her Royal Highness the Princess Dowager of Wales; and on all the Royal Family. These are the fervent Prayers of,

May it please your Majesty,
Your Majesty's most dutiful, loyal and affectionate Subjects.

An Union with a Princess, endowed with so many Virtues, so universally approved and acceptable to these your Kingdoms, must needs fill our Minds with all that Satisfaction and Delight, which it is natural to feel on the Possession of present Blessings, and a Prospect of a long Succession of them to our Posterity.

Act up, Great Sir, in every other Instance, to the Dictates of your own ingenuous Mind: Shew those Powers, who dare to rank themselves among the Number of your Enemies, that you both can, and will command such Terms only, as are consistent with a lasting and honourable Peace; and when that desirable Work shall be accomplished, pursue still further the Plan of your upright Intentions; cultivate and improve the liberal Arts; cement the Love, and lighten the Burthen of your faithful Subjects; and, above all, encourage and enforce, as you have already done, sound Religion and Morality, the Basis and Perfection of all social Felicity: So shall Love and Confidence at Home, Honour and unsullied Glory Abroad, keep Pace with your growing Years; and your Name, which is engraved on the Hearts of the present Generation, be had in Reverence to the remotest Ages.
