St. James's, January, 12.

The following Address of the Merchants and Principal Inhabitants of the Port of Whitehaven, has been presented to His Majesty by Sir James Lowther, Bart. being introduced by the Lord of His Majesty's Bed-Chamber in Waiting: Which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Merchants and Principal Inhabitants of the Port of Whitehaven.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Merchants and principal Inhabitants of Whitehaven, humbly beg Leave to congratulate your Majesty upon the joyful Occasion of your Marriage. Although your Majesty's Happiness, as a Prince, was incapable of receiving any Accession by an Encrease of your Glory Abroad, or of the cordial Affection of your Subjects at Home; yet, to the Completion of your domestic Felicity, was wanting, a Princess adorned with every social Virtue and amiable Accomplishment, capable of sweetening the Cares of Government, and inspiring Delight into the Breast of a Prince of your Majesty's exalted Sentiments: Such your Majesty hath found in the Person of our now most gracious Queen, which, from the Interest we have in every Thing relative to your Majesty's Happiness, fills our Hearts with inexpressible Joy. This, Sir, we regard as the Consummation of your earthly Felicity, which leaves us nothing to wish for, even in our warmest Zeal for your Majesty, but that, together with your Royal Consort, you may long enjoy the Fruits of it in a numerous and virtuous Issue, capable of reflecting a Lustre and Dignity upon the Imperial Crown of these Kingdoms, which shall be the invariable Object of our most fervent Prayers to the Almighty Protector of all virtuous Princes.

The following Address of the Bailiffs, Aldermen, and Free Burgesses of the Corporation of Morpeth, has been presented to His Majesty by Thomas Duncombe, Esq; one of their Representatives in Parliament, being introduced by the Lord of His Majesty's Bed-Chamber in Waiting: Which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Bailiffs, Aldermen, and Free Burgesses of the Corporation of Morpeth in the County of Northumberland.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Bailiffs, Aldermen, and Free Burgesses of the Corporation of Morpeth, beg Leave to address your Majesty with such Sentiments of Joy, as naturally arise in the Breasts of a grateful People, at every Addition of Happiness to your Majesty and your august House.

Permit us therefore, Sir, in the Midst of that universal Joy, which reigns throughout every Part of these Kingdoms, to congratulate your Majesty, in the most humble and ardent Manner, on your Majesty's auspicious Marriage with the Princess Charlotte of Mecklenburgh Strelitz; a Princess, most eminently distinguished by every Accomplishment, that may engage your Majesty's Affections, and add a Lustre and Dignity to your Crown.

With what Satisfaction do we reflect on the Motives, which disposed your Majesty to this amiable Alliance! Motives, determined by the Beauties of the Mind, by a zealous Attachment to the Protestant Cause, and to the Interests of that illustrious Family, which we shall always consider as raised up by Divine Providence, for fixing the Stability of this Government
