The following Address of the Magistrates and Councillors of the antient Borough of Rothsay, has been presented to His Majesty by Mr. Wedderburn, being introduced by the Lord of His Majesty's Bed-Chamber in Waiting: Which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Magistrates and Councillors of the antient Borough of Rothsay.

WE your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Magistrates and Councillors of the antient Borough of Rothsay, humbly beg Leave to approach your Majesty, with the most sincere and respectful Expressions of our Joy, on the happy Occasion of your auspicious Nuptials.

As every Event of your Majesty's Reign has evidently shewn, that the Prosperity of your People was the first Object of your Royal Mind, Gratitude as well as Duty must ever make your Majesty's Happiness the first Object of your Peoples Wishes.

An Alliance with a Princess possessed of every amiable Endowment, as it compleats your Majesty's Happiness, spreads the most universal Joy in the Minds of your faithful Subjects, whose utmost Wish now is, that the Blessings they enjoy may be transmitted to their latest Posterity.

The following Address of the Magistrates and Councillors of the Borough of Rothsay, has been presented to the Queen: Which Address Her Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the Queen's most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Magistrates and Councillors of the antient Borough of Rothsay.

May it please your Majesty,

TO permit us, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Magistrates and Councillors of the antient Borough of Rothsay, to indulge the Sentiments of Joy with which we are impressed on your Majesty's Nuptials, by congratulating your Majesty, with the utmost Deference, on this most fortunate Event.

The Testimonies of Duty and Affection, which arise in the Countenances of His Majesty's Subjects, when admitted to His Presence, are the Expressions of their Hearts. Their publick Addresses and their most private Conversations are dictated by the same Spirit; they are ardent, grateful, and sincere.

One Wish they still had remaining.

They longed to behold Him happy, who had made them so.

His Majesty's most gracious Declaration from the Throne, that He is most completely blest in His Choice, has diffused an inexpressible Joy amongst His Subjects, and inspired the Fervency of their Prayers, that the Blessings which Heaven has bestowed may have a lasting Continuance.
