St. James's, February 5.

The following Address of the Lord Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum, Justices of the Peace, Grand Jury, Gentlemen, Clergy, and Freeholders of the County of Westmorland, having been transmitted by Sir James Lowther, Bart. Lieutenant of the said County, to the Earl of Halifax, one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, has by him been presented to His Majesty: Which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the King's most Excellent Majesty.

Most gracious Sovereign,

PERMIT us, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Lord Lieutenant and Custos Rotulorum, Justices of the Peace, Grand Jury, Gentlemen, Clergy, and Freeholders of your County of Westmorland, assembled at the General Sessions of the Peace held at Appleby on the Tenth, and by Adjournment at Kirkby Kendal on the Fourteenth Day of January, 1763, to offer to your Majesty our most humble and sincerest Congratulations on the Return of Peace.

Infligated by Humanity, we rejoice at the Period put to the Calamities of War; but, as Lovers of our Country, how much more ardent is our Joy, when we find, that your Majesty's wife Councils have improved your glorious Successes to secure to your Subjects more solid Advantages, arising from a Peace as honourable to the British Nation, as the Events of War have been prosperous, and from extended Empire inexhaustible in Sources for augmenting Commerce.

When we consider our Enemies, divested of their Possessions in every Quarter of the Globe, by repeated Victories which have raised these Kingdoms to the Summit of Glory, acknowledging our Superiority, and relinquishing, by the Terms of Peace, every Claim that gave Rise to the late War; strips of their extensive Possessions on the Continent of North America, and our Settlements there so effectually secured from Encroachments and Disturbances by an incontestible Boundary, as to be enabled to open to their Mother Country unbounded Resources of Wealth; our Fisheries so greatly extended, and those of France restrained, that, by increasing our Commerce, they must add to our Naval Power, our surest Bulwark; our Possessions in the West Indies increased by so many new and valuable Acquisitions, without prejudicing our former Settlements there; our Territories in the East Indies so greatly extended, and strongly established, with such Restrictions on the Settlements of our Enemies, as must for ever preserve to us a Superiority; the Acquisition of the Gum Coast in Africa, and the Establishment of our Trade in the Bay of Honduras, so very important to the Manufactures and Commerce of this Nation; our Satisfaction arises to the highest Pitch of Gratitude to your Majesty, for your Wisdom and Goodness in securing these great and valuable Advantages to your People, so much beyond what, in former Negotiations, have been thought attainable, while you had additional Difficulties to surmount from an unprovoked War with Spain, and the pernicious and avowed destructive Union of the House of Bourbon: A War, which is no less the Admiration of the present Age, than it must be the Wonder of Posterity, from the vigorous and effectual Prosecution of it in those Parts where our Enemies most sensibly felt the Weight of your Majesty's Arms, the Successes of which, in so little a Time, not only speedily concluded it, but enabled your Majesty to procure the Confirmation of every ancient Treaty between the Two Kingdoms, greatly beneficial to the Commercial Interest of your Subjects; to adjust Disputes of the greatest Consequence, which former Wars and Negotiations had left undecided; and to add to your Dominions a large and valuable Province, a further Security to our Colonies, at the same Time that your Majesty saved from Destruction the Kingdom of an invaded Ally, deserving every Protection and Support, suffering for his Steadiness and Attachment to your Majesty and your Kingdoms, and nobly sustaining every Danger, rather than violate the sacred Ties of Friendship and Alliance.

We must still further acknowledge how greatly we are indebted to your Majesty's paternal Tenderness and Regard, for closing this long and expensive though successful War, when we consider ourselves extricated by it from Burthens too great to support, and our Posterity saved from the Distresses and Dangers, which an Increase of an enormous Debt must have brought on our Country, and which the Exultation of Success, and the delusive Glare of Victory, might for a While conceal.

After such Reflections on your Majesty's paternal Regard and great Wisdom, thus nobly and seasonably displayed, allow us, most gracious Sovereign, to express our Gratitude for those domestick Improvements, and that necessary Economy, which your Majesty's Goodness, ever anticipating the Wishes of your People, hath been pleased graciously to recommend from the Throne; an invariable Adherence to which can alone preserve the Independence, or promote the Greatness of the British Empire; and which are not less beneficial than the glorious Acquisitions of a successful War.

Blessed with a British Monarch, the great and declared Purpose of whose Heart is to promote the Good of His People, and who, on every Occasion, hath so attentively promoted it, what pleasing Prospects on the happy Return of Peace may we not entertain.

It is our earnest Wish and devout Prayer to Heaven, that your Majesty may be long preserved the Happiness and Glory, the Delight and Protector of your People, to employ that Peace so happily and gloriously re-established, in perfecting the great Works your Majesty hath condescended to promote and recommend: The Completion of which must endear your Majesty's Person and Government to all your dutiful and faithful Subjects, and to the latest Posterity; leaving it a Doubt, in After-Ages, whether, under the auspicious Reign of George the Third, the British Empire hath been more extended by the wise Improvement of a successful and glorious War, than the Stability of the Constitution fixed and preserved, and the Happiness of the Subjects promoted, by a virtuous Prince, in the Times of Peace.

Ratiffon, January 20. This Day a Decret de Commission was dictated by the Minister of Mentz, by which the Emperor acquaints the Diet, that the Queen of Hungary, for the Sake of Peace, was willing to forego the Advantages accruing to her from the Concursum of 1757, by which the War against the King of Prussia was adopted by the States of the Empire, and dispenses them from furnishing the Succours thereby granted; and that his Imperial Majesty thereupon consents to their taking such Measures as may re-establish the Publick Tranquillity, &c.

Ecqne, February 1. The sudden Thaw, which is come on within these few Days, may occasion some little Delay in the March of the British Troops through the Province of Guelderland. The three Regiments of Horse, of the first Division, were in Time to take Advantage of the Frost in passing the Rivers. The Second Division has likewise begun its March.

We have received an Account, that the Bishop of Lige died there the 27th of last Month.

Some Letters from Berlin say, that it is the general Opinion there, that the Peace between Prussia and Saxony is concluded; and Th: with the Empress Queen in great Forwardness.
