

hath lately posted 1000 Men with two pieces of Cannon at Brusshal; and hath sent a Party of Horfe to join the Duke of Lorraine. Yesterday the Troops of the Circles began to decamp, and to pass the Rhine, having their head-quarter at Middelberg, and the rest of the Imperial Troops will follow them in few days, in order to the taking their quarters in Suabia, Franconia, and Brisgovia; 100 Men are to be drawn out of each Regiment of Horfe, and 150 out of each Regiment of Foot, who are to remain in the several Posts, for the blocking up the Garison of Philipsburgh. The Baron de Kilmarsick, who hath been some time Prisoner at Brissac, passed through this City yesterday on his way to the Imperial Army.

Cologne, Nov. 2. Our last Letters from Brussels, advised us, that the Pope who is chosen for Mediator by the Roman Catholick Princes engaged in this War, makes difficulty to send his Nuncio to Nimeguen, or to any other place where the Roman Catholick Religion is not publicly professed, and that therefore Cleves had been proposed, where both the Roman and Protestant Religion are publicly tolerated for the Popes Nuncio to reside at, between which place and Nimeguen, there may be a quick and easie communication. The Inhabitants of this Diocess complain extremely, that notwithstanding the War has already ruined them, such heavy contributions are exacted from them, as are at present demanded by the Imperialists. The Duke of Holstein with the Lunenbourg Troops has passed the Rhine, and are gone into Winter-quarters. Our last Letters from Alsatia told us, that the Armies, as well the French as the Imperial, are upon the point of breaking up, and going into Winter-quarters.

Metz, Nov. 5. The Troops of Lorraine, and those of the other Confederates, under the command of the Duke of Lorraine, who were advanced towards Keyserlauterne and the Rhine, having been joined by 1200 Horfe, sent from the Imperial Army, under the conduct of Colonel Gondola, and by 1200 Foot, of the Garison of Mayence, are returned again towards the Saar, having with them two pieces of Cannon, which made us apprehend, that the Duke designed to besiege Sarbrucke, and our Governor gave the Marechal de Rochefort immediately advice thereof, who presently commanded the Sieur Villars to march with 200 Miqueeters, and to put himself, with them, into Sarbrucke; but we since understand, that the Enemies finding the season too far advanced, to begin a siege, are retired towards the Imperial Army, to take their quarters in Westeravia. The Marechal de Rochefort has quitted Vauquemont, and is gone to Boulas, where he expects the Troops he left at Moyevie.

Liege, Nov. 7. The hopes we had of seeing our selves free from forreign Troops this Winter, from the overtures that were made by the French, are now quite vanished, and instead thereof, we must resolve with our selves, still to bear that heavy burthen of quartering of Soldiers, for in place of being rid of the French, we have likewise got the Dutch among us, who have taken their quarters at Hasselt, St. Tron, Peer, &c. It is said that Deputies will be sent to the Hague, to represent to the States, and to the Prince of Orange, the miserable condition of this Countrey, which is so destroyed, that it is not able to produce wherewithal to feed its Inhabitants.

Hague, Nov. 8. We have not any further particulars of the damage occasioned by the late great Inundation about Amsterdam, Haerlem, &c. But from North-

Holland we have the confirmation of their being in a much better condition than was expected. We are told, that the States have given orders to their Plenipotentiaries for the Treaty at Nimeguen, to hold themselves ready to part, they being willing that their Ambassadors should arrive there among the first, to manifest their disposition to a Peace, to which people in general are very much inclined. However, this does not hinder, but that there are discourses likewise of the continuance of the War, and its said, that at his Highnesses return from Westdike, consultations will be held concerning the making necessary provision for the next Campaign. The Danish and Brandenburg Ministers expect ere long to hear some great news from Biemen and Pomerania, as to the first they promise themselves that the Confederates without any great difficulty make themselves Masters of Stade, by the help of the disagreement among the Garison, of which great part are Germans, and for the rest Wismar, it's thought, will not be long able to defend it self against the King of Denmark, but time will shew.

Paris, Nov. 9. Our last Letters from Alsatia are, of the second instant, they advise, that the Imperial Army was decamped, that part had already passed the Rhine at Lauterbourg and was marching to winter quarters, that a body of men drawn out of the several Regiments, remained for the guard of the Posts about Philipsburgh, under the command of General Vermuller; That these Troops were to be relieved within a Month, by fresh from the main quarters. That the Duke of Lorraine is likewise on his march with his Troops, whose Winter quarters are assigned together with the Imperialists in Suabia. The Prince of Conde is expected here, within few days; some have reported that the Marechal de Mortemorency would go and command the Kings Forces in Alsatia this Winter, but without any certainty. From Lille they write of the sixth instant, that the Army commanded this Summer by the said Marechal, was gone into Winter quarters.
