AT a General Meeting of the Woolstaplers and Dealers in Wool, held at the Half Moon Tavern in Cheap-side, London, on the 31st of January, 1765; It was unanimously resolved to Prosecute every Person who shall put or wind within any Fleece of Wool, any Clay, Lead; Stones, Sand; Tails, deceitful Locks, Cot Calls, Comb, Lambs Wool, or any other Thing, in order to deceive the Buyer thereof, either in Quality or Weight, contrary to the Laws made in that Behalf; and that the Costs of every such Prosecution should be defrayed out of a Fund then raised for that Intent.

If therefore any Buyer of Wool finds himself aggrieved by any such Deceit, and will send Information thereof in Writing, unto Mr. Hills, Attorney, in East-lane Rotherhithe, London, Clerk to the Company of Merchants of the Staple of England, the same will be forthwith communicated by him to the Committee for the Management of such Prosecutions.

IF any of the Grandchildren of Abraham Killingbeck, heretofore of Foulmire in Cambridge-shire, and next of Kin to Frances Carter, late of Saffron Walden in Essex, Widow, deceased, will apply to Mr. Thomas Wright, of Walden aforesaid, they may come into a Share of the Residue of her personal Estate.

New Inn and Assembly Room at Margate,

May 10, 1765.

MITCHENER begs Leave to acquaint the Public, that he has carried every Accommodation for Bathing in the Sea to the highest Degree of Perfection. He has lately opened a Warm Salt Water Bath for the Use of those to whom it might be inconvenient to venture into a Cold one; it may be brought, in a few Minutes, to any Degree of Heat which may be required, according to the Regulation of Fahrenheit's Thermometer, which has been provided for that Purpose: The same Bath may occasionally be made use of as a Cold one, whenever the Sea may be so rough as to render Bathing in the Machines unpleasant. Many new Houses have been lately built, and are daily building; great Improvements are making in others, that the Lodgings may be as convenient as possible for the Reception of Company. He never did, nor ever will spare any Expence to procure the best Provisions, Wines, Tea, &c. which can by any Means be had. The Number of Subscribers to his Assembly-Room amounted in the last Year to 515, which has greatly exceeded that of any former Season: Having received so great Encouragement from the Nobility and Gentry, he thinks it his Duty to acknowledge it with all Gratitude; and to assure them at the same Time, that nothing in his Power shall ever be wanting which may merit their future Favours.
