Turin, June 8. Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Dutchess of Savoy are gone for three or four Weeks to the Vigne la Reine, a pleasant Seat of the King of Sardinia near Turin, whose salutary Air, it is hoped, may contribute to the more speedy Recovery of her Royal Highness, whose State of Health has never been very well since her late Lying-in.

The French Ambassador at this Court is preparing to go to Genoa, in order to pay a Compliment from the King his Master to both the Infantas of Spain and Parma, on their Passage through that Place; and the Spanish Ambassador here is likewise going thither, to be present at the Reception of these two Princesses.
