Falmouth, Jan. 3.

ON Thursday last arrived here the Constant Endeavor of London, in seven Weeks from Virginia, the Master tells us of a Rising of some of the Indians, and that several English had been killed by them.

Portsmouth, Jan. 6. At Comes in the Isle of Wight, are at present two Merchantmen bound for London, from the Canaries.

Deale, Jan. 7. This day, about Noon, the Dutch East-India ships sailed out of the Downes, the Wind at S. and by E. and at the same time about 50 Sail of English ships.

Ditto. This morning appeared on the backside of the Goodwin, a Fleet of about 100 Sail of Dutch Merchantmen, with their Convoy; and about Noon, the Dutch East-India ships, thit had been some time in the Downes, sailed, and joined them.

Warsaw, Decemb. 20. Our last Letters from the Court, left it in great sorrow for the death of one of the young Princesses, aged about two years: in the mean time the preparations are made for the Coronation on the 2d of February, and the holding a Diet presently after. Dorofensko has, after all his windings and turnings, deceived as well the Turks and Tartars, as us, in putting himself under the protection of the Moscovites, which he has really done, though it's thought to be only to gain time; and that when opportunity offers, he will turn again to his old friends the Turks, who have his Wife and Children as Hostages in their hands.

Naples, Decemb. 24. The 18 instant came into this Port two Dutch Men of War, to call upon the Vice-Admiral de Haen (who was here) with the ships under his command, and the 20th they all set Sail for Palermo, where it's said Lieutenant-Admiral de Ruyter is arrived, and has joined the Spanish Armada. On the said Dutch Men of War, arriv'd here the Prince of Piombrino, General of the Gallies of this Kingdom.

Florence, Decemb. 31. From Naples we have advice, that the 18 instant arrived there two Dutch Men of War in 13 dayes from Barcelona, they left de Ruyter at Cagliari, where he was taking in Provisions and Soldiers, and intended soon after them to sail for Palermo. The said two Men of War, with those that were before at Naples, sailed the 20 for Sicily, having provided themselves with Fireships, and other necessaries. And from Palermo we have advice, that de Ruyter appeared near that Port; and that at Messina were arrived several Vessels laden with Corn, and other Provisions. Young de Ruyter with the Smirna ships under his Convoy are arriv'd at Legorn, having met Sir Fohn Narborough Cruising near Sapienza. From the Levant we hear, that the Plague is very violent in the Turkish Territories.

Copenhagen Jan. 4. On Sunday in the evening their Majesties arrived here very unexpectedly. All the discourse now is, that the King will make some attempt upon Schonen, which formerly belonged to this Crown, especially if the weather do any thing favor; though others will tell us, that, within three weeks, or a month at farthest, his Majesty will return towards Hamburgh, to be present at the Siege of Stade, which the Confederates seem resolv'd to take in hand, so soon as they have made themselves Masters of Carelshurg. The King of Sueden has by the English Minister here, demanded Passports for the Plenipotentiaries he means to send to the Treaty at Nimeguen, and we are told they are the Heer Oxenstern, and the Heer Guldensterne.

Vienna, Decemb. 29. Though the action of General Sirffoldo upon the Hungarian Rebels that were fled to Drebezen, was very brave, yet it is not altogether approved in this Conjunction, when this Court would not give the Turks any just cause of complaint, as now they seem to have, for that Drebezen was under their protection. The Emperors Plenipotentiaries will part in a few dayes for Nimeguen. Count Sauches is sent for to Court, and it's believed he will have some command this next Campagne.

Strasburgh, Jan. 6. The 4th instant, the Governor of Brisac sent to our Magistrates, to desire leave of 14 or 20 Boats, purposely prepared with all sort of combustible matter, might pass under our Bridge, being designed to burn the Bridge which the Imperialists have at Lauterburgh, but our Magistrates desired to be excused. At the same time, we hear that some Imperial Horse are drawing together on the other side of the Rhin, to have an eye upon the French, who make great preparations every where, and they tell us they will be very early at our doors this next Spring; they continue their Fortifications at Saverne, Hagenaw and Schlestadt; the latter place they are the forwardest; but at Hagenaw, some dayes since, one of the new Bastions fell down, and buried several pieces of Cannon in its ruins. From Vienne they write, that the Marquis of Baden Doulach, General of the Empire, had promised the Emperor he would this next Campagne have an Army of 16 000 men composed of the Troops of the Circles, which we can hardly believe, especially if they are not more forward to furnish their several Quotas than hitherto they have been. It is said that the Bishop of Wirtzburg, and the Bishop of Bamberg, have offered the Emperor to raise each 6000 men at their own charge.

Elogne, Jan. 10. The Dutch Troops, sent to the assistance of the Elector of Treves, decamp'd yesterday from Molsheim in the Countrey of Berg, and are march'd towards the Moselle; they were forced to quit those quarters sooner, than they intended, for that the Boors threaten'd to fall upon them, on which occasion a Dutch Lieutenant-Colonel having some sharp words with a principal Officer in the service of the Duke of Newburg, was struck with a Halberd by a Soldier that stood by, and was mortally wounded. The French Parties over-run this whole Diocesis, and exact Contributions every where.

Wesel, Jan. 14. The 9th instant, some Troops march'd out from hence towards Dorsfen, belonging to the Elector
