Dublin Castle, June 6.

THIS Day the House of Lords and Commons waited upon the Lord Lieutenant with their respective Addresses; which are as follow:

To his Excellency Francis Seymour, Earl of Hertford, Lord Lieutenant General and General Governor of Ireland.

The humble Address of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in Parliament assembled.

May it please your Excellency,

WE His Majesty's most Dutiful and Loyal Subjects, the Lords Spiritual and Temporal in Parliament assembled, beg Leave to congratulate with your Excellency on the approaching Conclusion of this Session of Parliament, distinguished by the many useful Bills returned from Great-Britain, which will be lasting Benefits to this Kingdom, and will remain as the most honourable Monuments of the Wisdom and Success of your Excellency's Administration.

We had long, my Lord, wished to see your Excellency fill that high Station, to which His Majesty's Goodness to His People of Ireland has called you.

The best-founded Hopes were universally entertained of the Justice, Honour, and Humanity of the Chief Governor, as those Qualities were known to have eminently adorned the Manners, and distinguished Character of the private Man.—But our most sanguine Expectations of an Administration honourable and agreeable to His Majesty, and satisfactory and beneficial to His People, were raised from your Excellency's constant Exertion of your Power to promote the inseparable Interests of Great-Britain and Ireland, and your unwearied Endeavours by publick and private Protection, and by the powerful Influence of your own Example, to encourage the Trade, Manufactures, and Agriculture of this Kingdom.

The several wise Provisions made this Session in Favour of our Trade and Manufactures, for the Preservation of Peace and Order, for the Encouragement of Tillage, and above all that important Bill for granting a Bounty on the Exportation of Corn, long wished for, and often attempted, and now by His Majesty's peculiar Favour returned under your Excellency's Administration, will satisfy our fellow Subjects, and must convince Posterity, that our Expectations have been answered, and that our most flattering Hopes have been crowned with Success.

These Considerations, my Lord, added to the Mildness, Prudence, and Impartiality of your Administration in the high Office of Representative of the best of Sovereigns, must naturally excite our warmest Wishes, that His Majesty may be graciously pleased, according to His usual Paternal Goodness, to continue a Governor to preside over us, who has given such a Prospect of Happiness, and rendered himself so justly dear to His Majesty's Dutiful and Loyal Subjects of Ireland.

To which Address his Excellency has been pleased to return this most gracious Answer, viz.

My Lords,

YOUR favourable Acceptance of my Endeavours for the publick Service, and this peculiarly affectionate Mark of your Approbation and Esteem, are extremely agreeable, and highly honourable to me. I must be happy in the Persuasion, that an Administration, which has received the Sanction of your good Opinion, and in which your Lordships have expressed so much Content and Satisfaction, must have been, in some Respects, useful to this Kingdom. It is the greatest Honour to you, and the highest Pleasure to me, that my Perseverance in my Duty to His Majesty, and in my Regards to the true Interests of this Kingdom, will be the only Means of injuring the Continuance of your Confidence and Regards.

To his Excellency Francis, Earl of Hertford, Lord Lieutenant General and General Governor of Ireland.

The humble Address of the Knights, Citizens, and Burgesies, in Parliament assembled.

May it please your Excellency,

WE His Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Commons of Ireland in Parliament assembled, return your Excellency our most sincere Thanks for your prudent, just, and wise Administration, and for the many good Laws, so highly beneficial to the Peace and Tranquility, and to the Trade, Manufactures, and Tillage of this Kingdom, the Return of which was obtained by your Excellency's Interposition, during this Session of Parliament; particularly for the Acts for the Establishment of County Infirmaries and the Preservation of Corn, which will prove the Means of preserving the Health, and providing for the Support of the People;

People; and also for the Act for the Improvement of our Fisheries; and more especially for that useful and important Law for the Encouragement of Tillage, so long wished for by the People of this Kingdom.

We think ourselves indispensibly obliged to testify our Sense of your Excellency's strict Attention to the Execution of Justice, by the vigorous Prosecutions so effectually carried on against the Disturbers of the Publick Peace; and to lay before your Excellency the strongest Assurances of our Affection and Gratitude for the faithful Discharge of your Excellency's high Trust, with equal Regard to the Constitutional Rights of the Crown and the Liberties of the People; and of our well-grounded Confidence in your Excellency's known Attachment to the true Interest of this Kingdom.

And we can have no Doubt that your Excellency will, upon your Return into the Royal Presence, represent, in the most favorable Manner, to the best of Princes, the Duty, Zeal, and Loyalty of his faithful and affectionate Subjects of this Kingdom; their entire Reliance on His Majesty's Goodness; their constant and invariable Resolution to maintain the Rights, and to support the Honour and Dignity of the Crown, with the same Zeal and Attention with which our great and amiable Sovereign has ever preserved the Liberties of all his Subjects.

E. Sterling, } Cler. Dom. Com.
H. Alcock, }

His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant's Answer:

I Receive, with the greatest Satisfaction, those repeated and affectionate Declarations of the Approbation and Esteem of the House of Commons: I am highly pleased to find, that my Administration has been agreeable to you; and I am extremely happy to hear, that you think it has been useful to the Publick: No one of my Predecessors ever wish'd more ardently to promote the Prosperity of Ireland; and if I could possibly want any Inducement to continue my best Endeavours for that Purpose, my Gratitude to your Regards, and for the Confidence you have placed in me, would be an additional Incitement.

I shall continue to represent to His Majesty, in the strongest Manner, your Duty and Loyalty, your Fidelity and Affection to his Person, Family, and Government; and that your Zeal for His Service can only be equal'd by what must be altogether as agreeable to the best of Princes, your zealous Attachment to the Interest of your Country.

the Magistrate; to explain to the People the Excellence of our happy Constitution; to promote and confirm, in them, a just Sense of the many Blessings they enjoy, and the most grateful Sentiments of the Justice, Moderation, and Benignity of the King's Government; and particularly, to point out the great Benefits which this Kingdom has obtained this Session of Parliament, by His Majesty's Goodness in assenting to so many useful Laws.

I have great Satisfaction to find, that the Act to prohibit the Exportation of Corn for a limited Time, has produced the desired Effects, by preventing the dreadful Calamity of a Famine; I have used every Endeavour in my Power to promote the Design of this Law, by encouraging the Importation of Corn, and by lessening the Price to the Poor in those Places, where, by Application made to me for that Purpose, it appeared to be most necessary: Apprehensions of the same Calamity had occasioned a Law of the same Nature in Great Britain, but with an Exception for this Kingdom; an Instance of the most affectionate Attention from His Majesty, and from our fellow Subjects of that Kingdom, of which, I am persuaded, we shall entertain the most grateful Remembrance.

I cannot take my Leave of you, without assuring you, that I look upon myself as obliged in Justice, in Interest, and in Gratitude, to represent your Concerns to His Majesty in the most favourable Manner; to continue my constant Endeavours, in every Situation, for the Advancement of your Trade, the Assistance of your Manufactures, and the Encouragement of your Tillage; to maintain the Honour and Dignity of the Crown; and to promote the Prosperity and Happiness of the People of Ireland.

And then the Lord Chancellor declared, that it was his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant's Pleasure, That this Parliament be prorogued to Thursday the 10th Day of July next; and the Parliament was accordingly prorogued to Thursday the 10th Day of July next.
