Vienna, Febr. 2. The last week Major General Dunewald parted hence, to return to the Army in Germany, carrying positive orders with him to the several Officers, to have their Troops complete against the lar-ter end of this month. It is said that Count Montecu-culi, who continues at present disposed, is to command the Imperial Army again this next Campaign, and that he has directions from the Emperor to set out from hence on his way to Flingen on the 20 instant. The Empress is still in the same state of indisposition, and it's said at Court that her Majesty is with Child. Our Letters from Poland give an account, as of the generality of the Nobility of that Kingdom opposed the Coronation of the Queen, and that for that reason, the day appointed for the Coronation of their Majesties, had been put off till the 22 instant.

Ratisbonne, Febr. 4. Great endeavors are used in the Diet to compose the differences between the Elector Palarine and the Elector of Mayence, about the Billage of Bockelheim. It is said that the Emperor has communicated to the said Dyer a Letter he hath lately received from His Majesty of Great Britain, for the adjusting the Preliminaries of the Treaty, and his Imperial Majesties answer to the same. General Montecuculi, we hear, is expected at Flingen again, towards the latter end of this month, in order to the hastening the Imperial Army into the Field, which we are told, will consist in 40000 men, besides a flying Body of 15 or 16000, composed of the Troops of the Confederates, which will likewise act against the French in Germany, while the Danes Brandenburgs and Lunenburgs make head against the Suedes; and all this seems but necessary, for the preparations on the side of the French are very extraordinary; and it seems as if both parties were resolved to try their utmost this next Campaign.

Frankfort, Febr. 8. The difficulties that have been found since the beginning of this War to get the Troops of the Circles in a Body, so as to be able to exploit any thing with them, has produced, as we are told, a resolution, that instead of sending the said Troops, the several Circles shall for the future, furnish in money, the expenses they would amount to, with which new Troops shall be raised, to serve under the Emperors Colours. The Magistrates of Strasburgh are not a little alarmed at the great preparations they see made on all sides of them for War; they have already reinforced the Garrison in the Fort of Kehl, which guards their Bridge with 400 men.
It is said that the Neutrality or Cessation of Arms which was agreed between the Elector Palatine and the Garrison of Philipsburgh, is going to expire. The French

keep a good Garison in the City of Deux Ponts; and, it's said, they have likewise put Garisons into Ammweiler and Berg-Zaberne; the Imperialists, on the other side, will endeavor to remove them from thence.

Hamburg, Febr. 11. The Inhabitants of Altenab- belonging to the Danes, about half a Mile from this City, have been greatly alarmed by the Suedes, who came in several small Vessels from Stade, they landed at Nieu- mulen near the said place, and after some hours reim- barked again, and returned to Stade, without having done any considerable execution. From Berlin of the 7th instant they write, that some Brandenburgh Troops had taken by storm the Town and Castle of Ucker- munde, where were 80 Suedes, who were all cut off, or taken Prisoners. We have Letters from Stockholm of the 29th past, which say, That General Wrangel was returning into Sueden, in order to a retirement; that in his absence the Count Coninjsmark was appointed to command in chief the Swedish Forces in Pomeran till Spring, when the Velt Marschal Helmfeldt was to pass with a supply of fresh Troops into Pomeran, and command the Army the next Campaign. It is confirmed that the Brandenburghs have retaken the Island of Use- doms, in which were posted 200 Suedes; and that the Velt Marschal Dorffing is on his march likewise, to attempt something considerable. The Deputies of the Allies are repairing to Bremen, where they are to meet, in order to the agreeing into whose hands Carlsburg is to be put; the Imperial Minister the Baron de Lantzee is already arrived there.

Brussels, Febr. 14. The last Letters we receive from Naples, are dated the 21st past, they had not then any certain account what had passed after the Fight, or whether the French succors were got into Messina, or not; we here believe the latter, and are in expectation of another Engagement between the two Fleets. As to the Fight on the 8th past, it appears that the loss was almost equal on both sides, the French having lost one Man of War (some say two) and spent two Fireships without any execution; and the Dutch having likewise lost one Man of War, and sustained other considerable damage. Our Governor General the Duke of Villa Hermosa is still at Antwerp, but expected back here in three or four days. Here are several Officers in Town to seek service, though it's thought they will not obtain any, for now there is no more talk of making any Recruits or new Levies. From Liege they write, that the Dutch have quitted the Castle of Heer, after having demolished it, and conveyed the Corn that was there to Husselt.

Hague, Febr. 14. Yesterday the States General received a Letter from Lieutenant Admiral de Ruyter, dated the 9th past, on the Coast of Sicily, in which he gives an account of his having been engaged with the French Fleet the day before; that the Fight had been very sharp; that the French had lost one Man of War, which was sunk, and two Fireships, which were burnt by themselves; that on our side, the ship called the Es- sen had been very much shattered, so far, that she was sent out of the Fleet to get into some Port. And from fresher Letters, we understand that the said Man of War sunk in her way thither, the men having been all saved by the Gallies that towed her. But as to the main point, viz. whether the French succors are got into Messina, or not, neither the said Letter of the Heer de Ruyter, nor our other Letters from Naples, and other places, make any mention, so that we here persuade ourselves they are not got in, which will be so great a disappointment to the City of Messina, that it will be forced to submit for want of provisions; for we are informed from good hands, that the Inhabitants there had only wherewithall to subsist till the end of the last month. In the absence of the Prince of Orange, who is at present at Soestdike, here passes very little of business.

Paris, Febr. 15. Our Letters from Rome, Venice, &c. do now inform us of the Batel that was fought the 8th past, between our Fleet, consisting in 22 Men of War, under the command of the Sieur de Quésne, and the Lieutenant Admiral de Ruyter; that the Fight had been managed with great fury; that several ships had sustained great damage in their Masts, Tackle, &c. on both sides; that the Dutch had one of their Men of War sunk, as she was towing towards Alarum; that on our side no ship had been lost, but only two Fireships: as to the great matter of succouring Messina these Letters add, that the Sieur de Quésne had succeeded in it, having the morning of the Fight sent away the Vessels that were with him laden with provisions for the City, who had taken a way about, unperceived by the Dutch, and were safely arrived at Messina, to the great joy of those people, who were in great want of this supply; that upon a vice thereof, Lieutenant Admiral de Ruyter, declaring that since the Succors were got in, there remained nothing more for him to do, had taken his leave of the Spaniards, and was sailed with the ships under his command to the Westward. This is the account the last Advices from Italy gave us, of which we must expect a confirmation. It is now said again, that the Prince of Orléans is to command the Kings Army in Germany, and that the Marquis de orony was the other day with his Highness, to signify the same to him in the name of the King; That the Duke of Orléans will be Generalissimo of the Army in Flandres, and under him the Marschal de Schomberg, who is now on his way hither from the frontiers of Catalonia, according to our last advices from Per- pignan, having put the command of the Kings Forces in those parts, into the hands of the Duke of Nawails. The Kings Musketeers have orders to supply themselves with Tents, so that it's supposed they will now very suddenly begin to march. It is the general belief that the King will take his journey, which hath been so much spoken of, towards Germany; and some are farther of opinion, that his Majesty will have his Court some time at Metz in Lorraine.
