

to support the Honor of the Crown, and the just Rights and Liberties of the People.

As nothing can be more conducive to these great Ends than the Independency and Uprightness of the Judges of the Land, in the impartial Administration of Justice; I have it in Charge from His Majesty to recommend this interesting Object to Parliament, that such Provision may be made for securing the Judges in the Enjoyment of their Offices and Appointments, during their good Behaviour, as shall be thought most expedient.

I shall be happy to co-operate with you in this great Work, so graciously recommended by the King, and in whatever may tend to the effectual and expeditious Distribution of Justice throughout every Part of this flourishing Country, whose Constitution and best Security is a Government by Law.

Deeply interested as We are in the Domestic Happiness of our most amiable Sovereign, you cannot but reflect with Pleasure on the Increase of His Majesty's Family by the Birth of a Princess Royal; and affectionately attached as We must be to every Branch of that illustrious House, I am persuaded you feel most sensibly the affecting Event of the Death of his Royal Highness the Duke of York, whose many and eminent Virtues had justly endeared him to His Majesty and all His Subjects.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I have ordered the proper Officers to prepare and lay before you the necessary Estimates, and have no other Supplies to ask but such as have been usually given; trusting, at the same Time, to your Wisdom and Zeal to make further Provisions if the necessary Support of Government, and the Safety of this Country, shall require it.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

The Protestant Charter-Schools have, from their first Institution, met with the constant Assistance and Protection of Parliament; the same Disposition, I am persuaded, will still continue, as they are the great Sources of Industry, Virtue, and true Religion.

The Linen Manufacture calls likewise for your utmost Attention; and it would be a pleasing Circumstance to me, if during my Administration, I could see Foreigners entirely prevented from interfering in any Article of this important Consumption.

You may depend upon His Majesty's gracious Disposition to consent to all such Laws as shall be for the Welfare and true Interest of this Kingdom.

On my own Part you may be assured, that I will, with the utmost Satisfaction, concur with you in every Thing that may promote the Publick Good; and upon all Occasions contribute my best Endeavours for advancing the Happiness and Prosperity of the People of Ireland.

Vienna, October 7. On Saturday Night the future Queen of Naples was suddenly seized with a severe Pain in her Back, and violent Fever. She was bled on Sunday; but the Fever rather rose than abated after the Bleeding; and Yesterday at Noon the Disorder shewed itself to be the Small-Pox. This has spread a general Alarm, though there is as yet no bad Symptom; and her Youth, and the Goodness of her Constitution, are strong Circumstances in her Favour. The Orders for the Journey were immediately countmanded; and Yesterday Messengers were dispatched to Florence, Naples, and Madrid, with the News of this unhappy Event. The Arch Duke and the Two Arch-Duchesses, who have not had the Small Pox, removed immediately from Schönbrunn to the Palace in Town.

The Empress has conferred the Government of Transylvania upon General O'Donnell.

Brussels, October 16. On Wednesday his Royal Highness and the Court came here from Mairimont for the Winter Season; and Yesterday being St. Theresa, the Name-Day of her Imperial Majesty, at Noon there was a great Gala at Court; in the Evening a Drawing-Room and Supper; and at Night a Mask'd Ball at the Great Theatre.

Berlin, October 17. Last Sunday the 11th, in the Afternoon, his Prussian Majesty returned to Potsdam; and on Monday the Prince and Princess of Orange, with their Retinue, set out for the same Place, where they remained till Wednesday in the Afternoon, when they proceeded to Brandenburg; the next Day to Magdebourg; and thence to Brunswick, where they proposed stopping for three Days. From that Place they will continue their Journey directly to Loo, at which Place it is reckoned they may arrive about the 27th Instant.
