After which His Majesty was pleased to make the following most gracious Speech:

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

HAVING thought it necessary to give so early a Commencement to the present Session of Parliament, I am glad to find, that by your Zeal and Assiduity in the Dispatch of the Public Business, I am now enabled to relieve you from your Attendance, before the Scafon of the Year is too far advanced.

I cannot put an End to the Session, without expressing My entire Approbation of your Conduct, and thanking you for that clear Demonstration, which your Proceedings, through the whole Course of the Session, have afforded to all the World, of the affectionate Attachment of My Parliament to My Person and Government, as well as of their steady Adherence to the true Interest of their Country.

It was with much Satisfaction that I observed your particular Attention to those great National Objects, which, at the Opening of the Session, I recommended to your more immediate Consideration. The Result of your Deliberations, respecting the late Acquisitions in the East-Indies, has shewn, that you were not more attentive to the immediate Benefit arising therefrom in Point of Revenue, than to the Securing, at all Events, the permanent Commercial Interests of this Country, and guarding against every possible Discouragement to our own Manufactures, Manufactures, and to the Industry of My Subjects. What more remains to be done, for securing the Possession of those valuable Acquisitions, you will, I doubt not, proceed to provide for, with all convenient Dispatch, at your next Meeting.

The Measures which I had taken regarding the late unhappy Disturbances in North America, have been already laid before you. They have received your Approbation; and you have assured Me of your firm Support in the Prosecution of them. Nothing, in My Opinion, could be more likely to enable the Well-disposed among My Subjects, in that Part of the World, effectually to discourage and defeat the Designs of the Factious and Seditious, than the hearty Concurrence of every Branch of the Legislature in the Resolution of maintaining the Execution of the Laws in every Part of My Dominions. And there is nothing I more ardently wish for, than to see it produce that good Effect.

With Respect to Foreign Affairs, My own Determination, as well as the Assurances given Me by the other Powers of Europe, continue the same as I communicated to you at the Beginning of this Session: And, however unsuccessful My Attempts have proved for preventing the unfortunate Rupture which has happened between Russia and the Porte, I shall not fail to use My good Offices towards restoring Peace between those Powers; and I trust, that the Calamities of War will not extend to any other Part of Europe.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

My particular Thanks are due to you, as well for the Supplies which you have granted Me for the Services of the current Year, as for the Provision which you have made for enabling Me to discharge the Debt incurred upon Account of My Civil Government. Your Readiness in relieving Me from the Difficulties increasing upon Me from the Continuance of that Debt, I shall ever consider as an additional Motive for Me to endeavor to confine the Expences of My Civil Government within such Bounds, as the Honour of My Crown can possibly admit.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

It gives Me great Concern, to be obliged to recommend to you, with more than ordinary Earnestness, that you would all, in your several Countries, exert your utmost Efforts for the Maintenance of Public Peace, and of good Order among My People. You must be sensible, that whatever obstructs, in any Degree, the regular Execution of the Laws, or weakens the Authority of the Magistrate, must lessen the only Security, which My People can have for the undisturbed Enjoyment of their Rights and Liberties. From your Endeavors in this common Cause, I promise Myself the most salutary Effect: On My Part, no Countenance or Support shall be wanting; for as I have ever made, and ever shall make, Our excellent Constitution the Rule of My own Conduct, so shall I always consider it as equally My Duty to exert every Power, with which that Constitution has entrusted Me, for preserving it safe from Violation of every Kind; being fully convinced, that in so doing, I shall most effectually provide for the true Interest and Happiness of My People.

Then the Lord Chancellor, by His Majesty's Command, said;

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

It is His Majesty's Royal Will and Pleasure, That this Parliament be prorogued to Wednesday the 14th of June next, to be then here held; and this Parliament is accordingly prorogued to Wednesday the 14th of June next.
