ON Thursday the 20th Instant the Court removed from Fridericksberg to this Place; on the same Day their Danish Majesties, accompanied by his Royal Highness the Duke of Gloucester, made an Excursion to see the Castle of Cronnenbourg at Elfseneer, and returned in the Evening on Board a Man of War, which had fallen down for that Purpose.

On Friday Four Regiments of this Garrison performed their Manœuvres before his Royal Highness, and at Night Count Moltke had the Honor of giving him, and their Danish Majesties, a Ball and Supper at his House.

Saturday the 22d was the Anniversary of the Queen's Birth-Day, which not having been observed since her Majesty's Arrival in these Dominions, by reason of the King of Denmark's Absence, his Majesty was determined to celebrate it with as much Magnificence as possible. The Court testified its Joy upon this Occasion by a very numerous and brilliant Appearance; and after their Danish Majesties had received the Compliments of the Foreign Ministers, Nobility, &c. the Honor of the Blue Ribband was conferred upon Count Reventlow, M. Rosencrantz Minister of the Council, and Count Larewig; That of the White, on Six other Persons of some Distinction; and the Key of Chambellan to Three more. In the Evening followed a Succession of new Entertainments at the Court Theatre, designed and executed purposely in Honor of her Majesty; and the Day's Festivity was closed with a great Supper at the King's Table.

On Monday began the Second Act of this Festival. At Six o'Clock in the Evening his Majesty and the Noblemen, who performed a Part in the Caroussel, richly habited in Turkish Dresses, and upon Horses finely caparisoned, set out in grand Procession through the City, attended by the Horse Guards and a large Band of Martial Musick. At Seven the Procession returned to the Great Area of the Palace, and as soon as the Noblemen, appointed Judges, had taken their Seats, the Exhibition began; one Quadrille being led by the King, the other by Count Ahlesfeld, Governor of the City. The whole Ceremony was very magnificent, and performed with the utmost Address and good Order, in the Presence of her Danish Majesty, the Queen-Mother, his Royal Highness the Duke of Gloucester, the whole Court, and several Thousand Spectators: The Performance concluded soon after Nine, and was succeeded by an elegant Supper and Ball. The Court returns this Evening to Fridericksberg, where there is a grand Firework to be played off; the whole Gardens are to be illuminated; and, after a magnificent Supper in a large Building erected for that Purpose, a Masquerade Ball is intended; to which 2000 Persons are to be admitted. It is a Circumstance very favourable to all these Entertainments, that the Weather is uncommonly fine.

Homburg, July 25. His Serene Highness Prince Charles of Hesse Cassel, with her Royal Highness his Consort, arrived Yesterday Evening at Altona in perfect Health; and this Forenoon a Deputation was sent out thither from the Senate of this City, to congratulate their Royal and Serene Highnesses upon their happy Arrival in this Neighbourhood. The Prince intends to stay at Altona till Thursday, when his Serene Highness will set out from thence with his Royal Consort for Sleswick, to take upon him the Government of the Duchies of Sleswick and Holstein, whereof he is Stadtholder.

Bonn, July 27. This Morning the Elector of Cologne set out for Arenberg in the Duchy of Westphalia, where the Diet is now assembled; His Electoral Highness, after a short Stay, will go to Munster, and remain there till November, when he proposes returning to this Residence.
