After which His Majesty was pleased to make the following most gracious Speech:

My Lords, and Gentlemen,
THE Season of the Year, and the Dispatch you have given to the Publick Business, make it proper for Me to put an End to this Session of Parliament.

The Temper, with which you have conducted all your Proceedings, has given Me great Satisfaction, and I promise Myself the happiest Effects from the Firmness as well as the Moderation which you have manifested in the very critical Circumstances which have attended your late Deliberations.

With respect to Foreign Affairs, I have nothing material to communicate to you. I will continue My Endeavours to appease, if possible, the Troubles which still prevail in some Parts of Europe, or at least to prevent them from spreading farther. In all Events it shall be My first and constant Care to watch over the Interests, and to preserve undiminished the Rights of My People.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,
I return you My Thanks for the Supplies you have so cheerfully granted for the Service of the current Year, as well as for your Attention to make Use of every Opportunity of reducing the National Debt. The Provision you have been able to make in this Session for discharging so considerable a Sum, without laying any further Burthen on My Subjects, cannot but be highly advantageous to Publick Credit.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,
I must earnestly recommend to you to exert, in your respective Counties, the same Zeal and Prudence that you have shewn in Parliament for promoting the Peace and the Welfare of the Kingdom: Nothing can be so favorable to the Wishes of Those, who look with Jealousy on the Strength and Prosperity of this Country, as the Prevalence of Animosities and Dissentions amongst Ourselves: Let it therefore be your Care to discountenance every Attempt to infuse groundless Suspicions and Discon-
