Cracow, June 8.

FOR some time past our Letters from several parts have given us an account of the small preparation that was made by the Turks for the War; from whence we argued their disposition to a Peace, but at present our advices begin to speak in another stile, and assure us, That the Enemy will be very powerfull in the Field this Summer; That Sultan Nurdan with the two sons of the Cham of Tartary had already passed the Niester, and was advanced at the head of a great Body of Men even on this side Caminiac, having sent our parties to ravage the neighbouring Country; one of which had the confidence to appear under the Cannon of Sloczau. At the same time we have advice, that the Ottoman Forces, under the command of Ibrahim Bassa, approach our Frontiers on the side of Walachia. The King, to resist this great power, has sent our orders for his Troops to march with all possible diligence to Ieopol, where is appointed the general Rendezvous. The Queen is at present very ill of an Ague.

Stockholm, June 17. We have already told you of our Fleet's having met with that of the Danes on the 4th instant, and of our having then had the advantage, the Enemy being forced to retreat towards the Sound; but having been reinforced with the Ships that Admiral Tromp brought to their Fleet, they came out again, and on the 11 instant there happened a second Engagement, our Admiral the Heer Cruyss in the Crown, a ship of 120 Guns, was in the Van, and upon the Enemies approach, gave orders to make every thing ready; and accordingly the Guns on one side being let free, in order to the firing a broad-side; and on the sudden command being given to tack about, and that being done without fating the Guns again, they all run over to the other side, and by their weight over-set the ship, in which confusion, the lighted Matches became mingled with the Powder, and set fire to it, which blew up the ship except the Fore-castle; from whence some few Men leaped into the Sea, but only three were saved; This loss was followed by that of the second Ship in our Fleet, called the Sword, of 92 Guns, which was burnt by a Fire-ship, who seemed to have been an Admiral, having all the marks of such. These losses in the beginning of the day, so discouraged the Suedes, that they returned home in great disorder; and accordingly most of the Fleet is arrived in the Dollars; but they talk of being out again in 14 days. We have this day advice, that the Apo, a ship of 84 Guns, being at anchor in the Dollars, and the men on shore, broke from her Anchor, and running against a Rock, received so much damage that she immediately sunk. The Enemies Fleet is still upon our Coast.

Vienna, June 18. The 16 instant his Imperial Majesty parted from Neudorf to Neustadt, to visit there his sister the Queen-Dowager of Poland, where he continues till Saturday. In the mean time we expect here every day the Electoral Prince of Brandenburg. From Upper Hungary they write, That the Tartars had made an attempt upon Zitmar; but that they had been repulsed with the loss of 200 Men.

Strasburg, June 26. The French under the command of the Duke of Luxemburg continue encamped at Brampt, reaching as far as the Wantzenaw; several parties have for these three days past the Rhine, but they still return without exploiting any thing. The French are endeavouring to buy a great many Boats; and we are told that they intend to lay a Bridge over the Rhine at Alt nheim.

Spire, June 27. The 25 instant arrived here 22 pieces of Cannon for Battery, and several Mortar pieces; which hav been brought from Coblenz, Mentz, Francfort, and have been sent to the Camp before Philipsburg; from whence we have advice, That the 24 instant at night the Trenches were opened, which will have two Arches, the one commanded by Prince Herman of Baden General of the Imperial Artillery, who advanced the Trenches on his side that night 250 pieces; the other Arch is under the direction of the Marquis of Baden Durlach, on which side the Besieged made yester ay 1 fallv, and by the treachery of the Sentinel, who let them pass without giving any notice to the next guard (for which he was this morning han~~g~~ed) surprize^d the Lesiegers, of whom it's said 40 were killed, and several taken Prisoners; the French had likewise several killed, however returned with their Prisoners. The Batteries are not yet finished, but will be in a day or two, when above 50 pieces of Cannon will be employed against the Town. The Duke of Lorrain is still encamped at Croon H'offenburg, his Men being much incommoded by the great heats. His Highness upon advice that several French parties pass the Rhine below Strasburg, had commanded Major-General Schultz to pass the Rhine with 3000 Horse at Lauterburg, to observe the Enemies motion.

Coogne, June 30. On Saturday last the Duke of Osnabrug took a review of his Forces between Bonne and Mulheim; and the same day part of the Infantry marched towards Bonne. This day and to morrow the whole Body will pass the Rhine, and then will take their march towards Munster, Eyffel, and the Country of Luxemburg, where they will be reinforced by several Spanish Regiments, as likewise by the Regiment of Auget, which is at present at Treves; besides 3000 Men which will join them under the command of the Marquis de Gratz. And when these Troops are together, we shall see how they will be emp oyed. We have Letters from Berlin, of the 24 instant, which tell us, that the Brandenburg Troops were already on their march, and that his Electoral Highness intend d to prætence the day following, to go to his Army. The Letters add, that they bid news there of a Victory which the Danes Fleet, had obtained over that of Sueden, the latter having lost eight Men of War.

Brussels, July 3. On Wednesday about one in the morning his Highness decamped from Lombe, and took his quarters that night, between Hall and Enghien. Yesterday at the point of day our Army decamped again, and marched to Nivelles, from whence this morning they have taken their way to Gennep: and we have Letters from our Camp, which say, That last night his Highness
