Westminster, November 13.

THIS Day His Majesty came to the House of Peers, and being in His Royal Robes seated on the Throne with the usual Solemnity, Sir Francis Molyneux, Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, was sent with a Message from His Majesty to the House of Commons, commanding their Attendance in the House of Peers. The Commons being come thither accordingly, His Majesty was pleased to make the following most gracious Speech:

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

WHEN I last met you in Parliament, I renewed to you the Assurances, which I had before given you, that it was My fixed Purpose to preserve the General Tranquillity; maintaining at the same Time the Honour of My Crown, together with the just Rights and Interests of My People: And it was with much Satisfaction that I indulged the Hope of being still able to continue to My Subjects the Enjoyment of Peace with Honour and Security. Since that Time, those very Considerations, which I then promised you that I would never sacrifice even to the Desire of Peace, have laid Me under an indispensable Necessity of preparing for a different Situation.

By the Act of the Governor of Buenos Ayres, in seizing by Force one of My Possessions, the Honour of My Crown, and the Security of My People's Rights, were become deeply affected. Under these Circumstances, I did not fail to make an immediate Demand from the Court of Spain, of such Satisfaction as I had a Right to expect for the Injury I had received. I directed also the necessary Preparations to be made, without Loss of Time, for enabling Me to do Myself Justice, in case My Requisition to the Court of Spain should fail of procuring it for Me. And these Preparations, you may be assured, I shall not think it expedient to discontinue, until I shall have received proper Reparation for the Injury, as well as satisfactory Proof, that other Powers are equally sincere with Myself in the Resolution to preserve the General Tranquillity of Europe. In the mean Time, I have called you together thus early, in order that I may be able to receive from you such Advice and Assistance, as, in the farther Progress of this very important Business, may happen to become requisite.

With respect to the State of My Colonies in North America, although I have the Satisfaction to acquaint you, that the People in most of them have begun to depart from those Combinations, which were calculated to distress the Commerce of this Kingdom; yet, in some Parts of the Colony of the Massachusetts Bay, very unwarrantable Practices are still carried on, and My good Subjects oppressed by the same lawless Violence which has too long prevailed in that Province.

I hope, and trust, that the Precautions, which have already been used for securing this Country against the Visitation of that fatal Calamity, which has of late appeared in some of the distant Parts of Europe, will, with the Blessing of God, prove successful. But if, from any Alteration of Circumstances, it should at any Time be found, that farther Provisions will be wanted, I cannot doubt of your ready Concurrence for so salutary a Purpose.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I will order the proper Estimates for the Service of the ensuing Year to be laid before you. They must unavoidably, in our present Situation, exceed the usual Amount. Every unnecessary Expence My Concern for the Ease of My good Subjects will ever make Me careful to avoid. But I should neither consult their Interest, nor their Inclination, if I were to decline any Expence, which the Publick Security, or the Maintenance of the National Honour, does at any Time require.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

I am sensible how little I need say to you, at this Time, to prevail upon you to unite in whatever may best promote the true Interest of your Country. In all your Deliberations upon Points of a Domestic Nature, let the Extension of our Commerce, the Improvement of the Revenue, and the Maintenance of Order and good Government, be always in your View. With respect to Foreign Measures, there will, I am persuaded, be no other Contest among you, than who shall appear most forward in the Support of the Common Cause, in upholding the Reputation, and promoting the Prosperity of the Kingdom. For the Attainment of these Ends, you shall ever find Me ready to exert Myself to the utmost. I have no Interest, I can have none; distinct from That of My People.

THE Names of those who were nominated for Sheriffs by the Lords of the Council at the Exchequer Chamber, on the Morrow of St. Martin, in the Eleventh Year of the Reign of King George the Third, and in the Year of our Lord, 1770.

PROPOSALS FOR RE-PRINTING BY SUBSCRIPTION A DICTIONARY OF THE

Arabick, Persian, and Turkish Languages,

Compiled and first Published by

MENINSKI,

IN FOUR VOLUMES FOLIO:

Revised and Corrected by

WILLIAM JONES, ESQ.

Fellow of UNIVERSITY-COLLEGE, Oxford,

Translator of the Life of NADER CHAH from the Persian.

With an ENGLISH TRANSLATION and

INDEX.

IT is unnecessary in these Proposals to point out minutely the particular Excellence of the Dictionary which we propose to reprint, since it has been for near a Century admired by all Europe, and its extreme Scarcity universally regretted. A Work which for so long a Period has met with general Approbation, and has been sought with such Ardour by Men of every Rank and Profession, must, certainly, have a real and intrinsic Merit, to which no Commendation can add, and from which no Censure can detract.

It may not however be improper to subjoin a few Arguments in Favour of this Work, and demonstrate its peculiar Usefulness in facilitating the Attainment of the Persian (a Language at present of such Importance to the Honourable East-India Company) more especially as those who are unacquainted with the Subject might possibly imagine that a Dictionary including the ARABICK and TURKISH as well as the PERSIAN, was not necessary for those who wish to acquire a Knowledge of the PERSIAN only.

The Dialects of Arabia and Persia were extremely different in their Origin; but they were entirely united and blended together when the Arabs spread over Asia their Arms, their Religion, and their Learning. The conquered Nations received with Eagerness the Literature of their Conquerors: They considered it as a Mark of Erudition and of Elegance to use Arabick Words and Expressions, and to fill their Writings with Allusions to the Arabian Poems and Proverbs: Besides, from a Principle of Piety, they adopted the Language and even the Letters of their Koran. The Ottoman Conquests in After-times diffused their Dialect over half the East; it became even the Language of the Court of Persia, where it is still spoken, and made its Way into many Parts of India; thus, by Degrees, the Idioms of those Tongues were almost changed, and became Dialects of one vast Language, which mutually enrich and illustrate each other; like a Number of little States, resigning their private Laws, and concurring to form one extensive Empire.

Several very learned Turks, it may also be observed, have translated and explained in their Dialect the most celebrated Poems of Persia, which would be absolutely unintelligible to us without such Explanation; and even their Military Terms, in some of the modern Persian Histories, are borrowed from the Turks. As the proper understanding of one Word or Phrase, therefore, determines often the Sense of a whole Passage, where such Word or Phrase in the Writings of a Persian happens to be Turkish or Arabick, it is obvious that a Dictionary where these three Languages are displayed at one View can only solve the Difficulty; and that a Dictionary of the Persian alone could in such Case afford no Manner of Assistance. Exclusive also of the Advantage which the Persian Student must receive from an Acquaintance with the Arabick and the Turkish, these Languages may be of Importance to the Honourable East-India Company's Servants in their commercial or political Concerns at Mocna, Bassora, and other Places under the Turkish Dominion on the Red-Sea or Persian Gulch; the Arabick being in many of those Countries the vulgar Tongue, and Turkish the Language of the Great Officers of State.

To conclude: These three Languages, or, more properly, these three Dialects of one Language, are by no Means so difficult as we are taught to believe: A moderate Application for a few Months will enable the Learner to proceed with Ease and Pleasure, and in a few Years he may read and write them with Facility; in which Study the Dictionary of MENINSKI will afford him all the Assistance he can require; as the best Orientalists have derived their Knowledge from it, and its Utility been so peculiarly experienced by Gentlemen in India, that they have sent Commissions to England to purchase it at any Price; whilst Dictionaries of the Persian only, have been considered of no Value, as inadequate to teach the Language.

The Oriental Words and Phrases are explained by MENINSKI in Five European Languages, Latin, French, Italian, German, and Polish: But for the Use of our Countrymen, to whom those Languages may not be familiar, we shall add an English Translation, and an Index of every Word.

The Types designed for this Work are entirely new, and are copied from the most elegant Arabian Characters, in which all the Books of polite Literature in the East are written; and which are intelligible to every Mahometan, as the Koran is expressed in no other: But that nothing may be omitted, we shall insert several Plates of Persian Odes, engraved from the most beautiful Manuscripts in the common flowing Hand used in India.

From FIFTY TO SIXTY GUINEAS is the present Price of a Copy of MENINSKI: But in order to bring this great and useful Work within the Compass of general Purchase, the proposed improved Edition will be delivered to Subscribers at TWELVE GUINEAS: It is hoped therefore the Subscription will be proportionably liberal; and that those who consider this Publication as an Object of Encouragement, will send their Address as early as possible.—A Copy will not be sold to Non-Subscribers under SIXTEEN GUINEAS.—This Work it is expected will be published in 1773.

A List of the SUBSCRIBERS will be prefixed to the Work.

SUBSCRIPTIONS are received and RECEIPTS given by W. and J. RICHARDSON, No 12 and 13 in Salisbury-Court, and No 76 in Fleet-Street, where may be had Proposals at large.

Six Guineas to be paid at Subscribing, and Six Guineas on the Delivery of the Book in Sheets.
