Cracow, July 26.

BY Letters from Favorow, of the 21 instant, we have an account, that the King after having had seven Fits of an Ague, was quite recovered of it; that the Queen intended in few dayes to begin her journey down the Vistula to Dantzick, and from thence to continue it to France, to the Waters at Bourbon, for the recovery of her health. After the Queens departure, the King would part immediately for Leopold, to put himself at the head of his Forces. The Letters add, That the Starostie of Culm having been abroad with a Party of Horse and Foot, had defeated 1500 Tartars, most of which were killed, and the rest taken Prisoners; and that understanding from these, that there was another Party of 3000 Tartars, who were carrying a great Booty, and many Christian Slaves to their Camp, he marched after them, and had the good fortune to surprize them, and totally to rout them, recovering the said Christians, and most of the other Purchase they had made.

Rome, Aug. 1. Since the death of the late Pope Clement X. the Colledge of Cardinals have held several Congregations to order matters concerning the new Election. The 25 past, the Pope was Interred in St Peters's Church with the usual Solemnity. To morrow the Cardinals will enter into the Conclave.

Vienna, Aug. 9. We are told that the Emperor will not declare his intended marriage, till after the conclusion of this Campaign. The Rebels in Hungary are very troublesome, and pretend to be assisted by the Ottomans; so that the Emperor will be obliged to reinforce his Troops in those parts.

Copenhagen, Aug. 11. The 8th instant, arrived here Colonel Schonevelt with 17 Companies of Foot, with which he will pass over into Schonen, where the Castle of Landseroon holds out still. The Besiegers batter it from seven Batteries, and very much annoy the Besieged with their Bombes and Granadoes; who, notwithstanding, make so vigorous a defence, that if they had men enough to make strong Sallies, it is thought they would entertain the Besiegers some time longer. A Party of Danes have been as far as Christiansstadt, where they met with a good Booty, having, among other things, taken the King of Suedens own Tent.

Stade, Aug. 13. Yesterday morning the Mareschal Horne, late Governor of the Dutchy of Bremen for the King of Sweden, having finally concluded the Treaty with the Allies for the delivering up of this place, took his solemn leave of the Civil Magistracy and Burghers; which done, the Germans, that had been in the Suehes service, were disbanded, the Horsemen and Dragoons being permitted to keep their Horses and Arms, and the Foot having some money given them. In the afternoon the Burghers came in Arms, and took possession of the Gates and Posts which the Suedes had quitted. This morning, about 8 of the Clock, 1500 Lunenburghs entered the Town, placing two Companies at the High Gate, upon which the Burghers retired from thence to the Market-place; at the same time the Mareschal Horne marched out on Horseback, accompanied with about 30 Horsemen, and was followed an hour after by the Suedish Soldiers, who consisted in five Companies, and together made about 750 men. The Artillery they are to take with them, viz. two Half-Cannon, four Field pieces, and one Mortar-piece, stand as yet on the Fish Market. The Suedes are to refresh themselves for 14 dayes in the Oudelandt, and then are to be Transported to Stockholme.

Hamburg, Aug. 18. On Friday last hapned here a very great Fire, which burnt towards the Water-side, and put the ships in great danger, it being about Low-water, but the Flood coming in, saved them; we reckon about Forty considerable Houses have been burnt, and the whole loss that has been sustained, may amount to above 100 000 l. sterl. From Pomeran they write, That Anclam holds out still, though the Elector pretends to be possessed of it very suddenly. The Danish and Dutch Fleet continue on the Coast of Pomeran.

From the Camp before Philipsburg, Aug. 14. Upon the News we received of the Retreat of the French Army, we gave three Salvo's of all our great and small shot, to notify the same to the Besieged; and on Wednesday last, a Summons was sent to the Governor of the place, to surrender the same: To which he answered, That it was not yet time to talk of that. In the mean time we batter the Town from our Cannon and Mortar-pieces without intermission, and at the same time we are Mining a Rave, in which lies before the Wall of the Town, which we shall attack to morrow or next day; and doubt not to be Masters of the place in 8 or 10 dayes.

Spire, Aug. 15. The Duke of Luxemburgh finding he could not effect his design to relieve Philipsburg, the 10 instant, in the afternoon, caused his Inentry to decamp, and to march back towards Landaw, following the next morning early with all his Cavalry. In their Retreat, the French burnt the Village of Belikum, and obliged the Town of Landaw to pay them 2000 Ryx dollars, and besides to furnish a great quantity of Corn, to exempt them from the like Treachery. The 13 instant, the Enemy encamped between Weissenburg and Lauterburg, the Head-quarter being at St Rhemy, and intended to remove again from thence the next day. They take great marches, and it is said that they are going to besiege Friburg in Brisgow; and that in order to it, they will pass the Rhine at Brisac, or else lay a Bridge over the River a little above Strasbourg; whereupon 6000 Horse have been detached from the Imperial Camp under the command of Caprara and Schulix, who have passed the Rhine, and will march towards Friburg, to observe the Enemy. In the mean time Philipsburg is attacked with all the vigor possible, these 4 or 5 days past have been spent in battering the place, advancing the Trenches, and Mining the Enemies works. The Duke of Lorraine is there in person, and most of the Imperial Infantry will now be employed in order to the speedy reduction of the place, which cannot hold out long, though hitherto the Governor continues very obstinate in the defence of it.

Cologne, Aug. 18. From Strasbourg they write, That the French having given over all thoughts of succouring Philipsburg, Philipsburgh, were coming back towards Haguenaw, and that it was reported that the Duke of Luxemburg intended, by some considerable Action, to give the Imperialists a diversion. Philipsburgh in the mean time continues to make a good defence, and it's believed the place will hold out yet these 14 dayes. From Lipstadt they give us an account, That Stade was finally surrendered to the Duke of Zell, and that thereupon the Bishop of Munster had given orders for some of his Forces to part towards the Rhine, and it's said that the Vanguard of them is already arrived at Wesel.

From the Camp before Mastricht, Aug. 15. The 13 instant, in the morning, the Enemy made a Sally, to beat us out of the Lodgment we had made on the Counterscarp on the right hand of the Dauphins Bastion; that night, and the next morning, they made several other efforts to the same purpose, yet without any effect, though several men were killed on both sides: since they have not at all disturb'd us, and we have quietly kept our Posts as well there, as on the Left side of the said Bastion, have made a Line of Communication, and enlarged our Lodgments as far as the Palisadoes of the Counterscarp. We have likewise brought on the Miner, in order to his passing through, under the covered way, to the right side of the Hornwork, towards the Bolduc Gate, to Mine it; & though he was come this noon to the Ditch of the same, it will require yet 2 days to get under the work. We have raised three Batteries, one on the Dauphins Bastion, and the other on each side, under the favour of which, and of our Mines, we hope in 2 or 3 dayes to attack the Horn-work, and the Ravelin. Last night the Rhingrave was wounded with a Musket-shot, though, we hope, without danger.

From the same Camp, Aug. 17. Since mine of the 15, we have advanced with pretty good success; the last night the Count of Solms, who had the Watch with the Regiment of Guards, carried on the Trenches 60 paces along the Palisadoes of the Counterscarp towards the Ravelin, and this night the Work will be farther advanced; and besides, we shall endeavour to pass by the right point of the Horn-work, over the covered way, to the Ditch of the same, and to lodge there, to see, if under favor thereof, we can bring the Miners to the said point of the Hornwork, seeing in the said Ditch, the Earth is not high enough above the Water to make the Galleries between; and according to the success of this, it will be resolved, whether we shall first attack the said Hornwork, or whether we shall pass by it, and afterwards attack it in the neck. In the mean time we are preparing to attack the Ravelin to-morrow; and to-morrow morning we shall begin to fire from the three Batteries we have rais'd upon and on the two sides of the Dauphins Bastion. According to the report of the Deferters, the Governor has removed his Magazines to the Wycke side, being resolved to retire thither, when he cannot longer defend the Town on this side.

Nimeguen, Aug. 19. We have news here that 6000 men of the Munster and Lunenburgh Troops that were at Stade, arrived yesterday at Wesel, that they were to pass the Rhine there, and so continue their march to Mastricht.

Hague, Aug. 21. The confirmation we have from Germany, of the Retreat of the French Army, under the command of the Duke of Luxemburg, gives us ground to hope that Philipsburgh will now be surrendered very quickly. We hope the same of Mastricht, though that Siege proves a work of great difficulty, and that the French are preparing, as they give out, to relieve it. The last Letters we had from the Princes Quarter, are dated the 18 instant, they tell us, That they were endeavouring to pass between the Hornwork and a Ravelin, which latter they meant to attack very suddenly; That the night before, the Besieged had made a Sally, and dislodged the Besiegers; That that morning, viz. of the 18, the Besiegers had begun to fire from three Batteries, which they had made on the Dauphins Bastion; and that a Mine which the Besieged had under a Hornwork, having sprung, as is supposed, through some Accident, had done them a great deal of mischief, having, as is said, destroyed a whole Battalion of Foot that was posted there. of which our next will give us the farther particulars. Our last Letters from Brussels are of the 19 instant, they say, That the French Army was marching by the Grand Chaussée to Charleroy, where the Vanguard was already arrived; That the Duke de Villa Hermosa who decamped the 18 from Mariekirke, arrived the same day within two Leagues from Brussel, having marched 9 hours; That that morning the 19, his Excellency pass'd the Chenal, a League beyond Vilvoord, and meant to be that night at Spoelwin, his highway to Louvain, about which time it was believed his Infantry, which he embarked at Ghent, would be arriv'd at Malines. The Count Waldee decamped the 18 from his quarters near Brussels, and intend'd to lodge the next day at Lilemont.

Charleroy, Aug. 18. The last Account we have of the Siege of Mastricht, comes by Letters from Limburgh, of the 16 inst. which is, That the Besiegers used great endeavors to advance to the Bolduc Gate, and that they lost a great many men daily; that hitherto they had been only able to lo:ge themselves on the point of the Counterscarp; however that they gave out, that the Prince of Orange had resolv'd to pass between two Hornworks, and an Half-moon, without Attacking them, and to approach directly to the Walls of the Town; which we can hardly believe, considering the hazard of it, and the great number of men that must needs be lost in so difficult a work. This morning the Marschal de Crequi caus'd all the Cavalry that has been encamp'd hereabouts, since the beginning of this month, to march, in order to their joining the Marschal de Schoenberg, who was yesterday at Senoff.

Tournay, Aug. 21. The Marschal d'Humieres is returned to Lilles, his Troops, which were employ'd in the Siege of Arre, and the taking the Fort of Limbe being about 10000 men, besides the Garisons that were left in those two places, having join'd the Marschal de Schoenberg, who, as our Letters tell us, was to encamp yesterday at Charleroy: He will have a very considerable Army, and we are here in expectation to hear very suddenly of some great Action. For it is said that he will endeavor to raise the Siege of Mastricht, as we may believe that the Enemy will not omit any thing on their part to prevent it, so that it must come to a Battel. The Duke de Villa Hermosa was, according to our last Advices, marching with great diligence, to join Count Waldeck on the other side of Brussels.

Paris, Aug. 27. In our last, we told you of a Report that was spread ab out Town, that Philipsburgh was taken by the Imperialists, which is since contradicted, our last Letters from Alsace giving us an account, That the place still makes a brave defence, and may do so for some time longer, the Governor being resolv'd to hold it out till the last. The Duke of Luxemburg, as these Letters inform'd us, was encamp'd about Wesfenburgh, from whence he intend'd to remove, for the conveniency of Forage, which they there very much wanted. In Flanders we hear, Marschal de Soubise is drawing together what Force he can, in order to the relief of Mastricht; and we are assur'd, that he will have an Army of 35000 men. From Sicily they write of a Conspiracy that had been discovered there, and that several considerable Persons were concern'd in it. The arrival of our Fleet was daily expected at Messina.
