FINE STEEL,

By the KING's PATENT, for England and the Plantations.

JAMES GOODYER, of Guildford, begs leave to inform his Friends in the Iron Trade, and the Public in general, that he has brought to the greatest Perfection the Art of Making Steel directly from Pig Iron, without being first made into Bar Iron. One Kind of it is equal if not superior to any imported from Germany, being fit for Springs, and other Uses which require a mild Steel; the other Sort is exceedingly hard, and at the same Time strong bodied, hardens at a very low Heat, as low as Cast Steel, and at the same Time will bear a welding Heat. His Tilt Hammers and other Works being nearly finished, he hopes he shall be able to send a Quantity to Market in a few Weeks. As there are several Tons of each Sort under Hand, the many Orders he has received shall be executed as soon as possible.

This Day is published,

Price One Shilling and Six-Pence,

JUSTICE and POLICY, An ESSAY,

On the increasing Growth and Enormities of our great Cities; shewing the Breaches thereby occasioned in the Constitution; with a Method to repair them, and, through the Means of Morality and Industry, to place it upon a more firm Basis, by the Bands of Union, that Britain may become the Asylum of Worth, and the Empire, with the Commerce of it, justly established, instead of exchanging Religion for Trade.

ALSO,

Considerations upon the State of Ireland, with a Proposal for the Relief of it, and a Scheme for its Benefit, by employing the Poor universally; together with Reflections on Police in general, and the Exportation of Provisions from Ireland in particular. Also Thoughts on Conquests, Trade, Military Colonies, &c. &c. Divided into Seven Chapters.

Addressed to a NOBLE PEER,

By a Freeholder in Ireland and Stockholder in England.
