Warsaw, April 7.

THE Dyet, which is still assembled, hath at length come to a resolution concerning the number of Troops that shall be always kept on foot, viz. 12000 in ithuania, and 12000 in Poland, for the maintenance of which, a necessary Fond will be provided; and it hath been likewise ordered, that none of the Troops which are now on foot shall be disbanded, till the Palatin of Culm, designed Ambassador Extraordinary to the Port, be returned from thence, with the Ratification of the late Treaty. The King hath declared to the Dyet his intentions of confirming all former Treaties of friendship and alliance between the Emperor and this Kingdom, as likewise between us and the Elector of Brandenburg. The Palatin of Lublin, appointed to go Ambassador to the Treaty at Nimeguen, is preparing for his journey. Their Majesties will after Easter go to Prussia, and particularly intend to make some stay at Danzicke, where great preparation is accordingly making for their receptions.

Naples, April 7. This week our Viceroy has given out Commissions for the raising more Forces for the service of Sicily. Some days since 30 French ships passed almost in sight of this Port, being laden with provisions for Misina; of which we hear three have been cast away in bad weather near Catanea, and another taken near Siracusa. The Viceroy of Sicily remains still at Palermo, and, as we are informed, hath signified to the Consuls of the Foreign Nations residing there, that they should each fit out a Brigantine to be employed for the security of their Commerce against the French Privateers, to which they answered, that they could do nothing therein, without direction from their Principals.

Madrid, April 8. The Kings departure for his journey to Arragon, remains fixed for the 22d instant, and all things are providing accordingly. The Cardinal d' Arragon, the Count de Villa Ombrosa, President of Castille, the Count de Medelin, President of the Council of Indies, and the Duke d' Alba, are appointed to govern matters during the Kings absence. Upon the representation made by the Council of State, the King has caused a Decree to be published, in which it is declared, that his Highness Don Juan of Austria, shall for the future be treated on all occasions as Infante of Spain; and accordingly on Sunday last his Highness accompanied the King to the Chappel; where he had a Chair given him, at a small distance behind the King. On Monday last the Count de Herrach, the Emperors Ambassador went hence to Toledo, to wait upon the Queen, to whom he had matters to impart from the Emperor.

Vienna, April 18. The news we receive from Hungary is not very good; for notwithstanding the offers of pardon and free enjoyment of their Religion and Estates made them by the Emperor, the Rebels continue in Arms, and commit great disorders, having, as is said, been lately supplied with large Sums of Money, with promise of more; and besides, we are somewhat jealous that the Turks give them privately all the assisstance they can, notwithstanding we are assured by our Minister at the Port, that the Grand Signior is resolved to confirm the peace he has with the Emperor, and to make War upon the Moscovites, who are in possession of part of the Ukraine, which is claimed by the Ottomans.

Copenhagen, April 20. We are sending every day fresh Troops over to Schonen, and especially the Cavalry; and we hope in a month or six Weeks to see our whole Army in the Field, which will be considerably reinforced by the Troops furnished by the Bishop of Munster, and the Landgrave of Hessen Cassel. The Suedes have not of late attempted any action, their King it seems expecting fresh Supplies from Sueden; and in the mean time giving his Soldiers time to refresh themselves. Christiansstadt holds out still, and if the Besieged cannot make their Provisions serve but one Month longer, they will assuredly be relieved. The Sieur Mauritius, who hath been some time a prisoner, as you have been heretofore told, is now sentenced to die; and yet we do not know the Crimes charged upon him. The Sieur Guldenstien is expected here from Norway yet before the end of this month; he will have the chief command of the Army under the King: the Duke of Holstein having wholly quitted this service.

Hamburg, April 20. We have Letters from Berlin of the 18th instant, which say, that their Electoral Highnesses of Brandenburg were expected back there from Wesel in six or seven days; That in the mean time their Troops began to march from their several quarters, and that it was certain they would begin the Campaign with the Siege of Stetin, which has in a manner been blocked up this Winter: and as we persuade ourselves, is in want of several things necessary for its defence. The States of the Lower Saxony, having been lately assembled at Brunswicke, and have, as we are told, among other things, resolved to send a Deputation in their names to Nimeguen.

Francfort, April 21. The Imperial Troops are now marching from their respective quarters, and, will, it is believed have their Rendezvous near Oppenheim; where they will pass the Rhine, and follow those other Troops that are already descended towards the Moselle; and when all these Forces are joined together, the Duke of Lorraine will have an Army of 40000 fighting men; with which, it is said here, that he will enter Lorraine. The Troops of the Circles, with some of the Emperors, will be employed under the command of the Electoral Prince of Saxony in Briffow, from whence we hear that the French work hard on the Fortifications of Brifac; as if they apprehend that place would be besieged. The Marquis de los Barbades, the first of the Spanish Ambassadors for the Treaty at Nimeguen, is arrived at Ratisbonne, on his way thither. The Leinberg and Munster Forces continue in their quarters.

Strasburg, April 23. The Imperial Troops which have had their Winter-quarters in these parts, are on their march, which are to be joined by those of the Circles, and several Regiments of the Elector of Saxony.

ony, and the whole Body is to be commanded by his Son the Electoral Prince. It is said here that his Army will besiege Brifac, and that the French upon an apprehension thereof, are making great provision of all things necessary for its defence. They likewise fortifie Schlestadt, and have caused all the Works to be undermined. As for Monbelliard they have demolished and abandoned it.

Metz, April 24. The Imperialists who have wintered in the Country of Wersemborg, are on their march towards the Rhine, which they will pass at Oppenheim, and so follow the Duke of Lorraine, who has ere this passed the Moselle at Treves. We are told that his Highness, when all the Troops are come up to him, will have an Army of near 40000 fighting men, who we promise our selves will make great progresses this Campaigne on the side of Lorraine.

Trier, April 25. Yesterday arrived here the Duke of Lorraine, and was welcomed with a discharge of all our Cannon; his Army consists in about 18000 men; to-morrow they will pass the Moselle, over our Bridge, and take their march towards Lorraine. We do not as yet certainly know what his Highnesses first action will be, though much has been said of his besieging Metz, which the French do not seem much to apprehend. The rest of the Imperial Troops as we hear have all quitted their quarters, and are marching with all diligence towards the Rhine, which they will pass at Oppenheim, and so come down likewise towards these parts, while the Troops of the Circles, under the command of the Electoral Prince of Saxony, block up Brifac. A very great Magazine hath been provided here, and another at Luxemburg, for the service of the Imperial Army this Campaigne.

Cologne, April 27. The States of the Dutchy of Fuliers, and of the County of Berg are assembled at Dufeldorp, the Duke of Neulurg having demanded 300000 Crowns of them. We expect 9 or 10000 Munster Troops suddenly in these parts, in their march towards the Spanish Netherlands. From Coblenz they write, that the Duke of Lorraine advances towards Luxemburg, and that the Marschal de Crequi has drawn several Troops together, to observe his motions.

Nimeguen, April 24. The Heer Heugh, Ambassador of Denmark, who went to confer with the Elector of Brandenburg at Wesel, returned hither yesterday. Very little of business that we can hear of, has passed here of late; for since the several Ambassadors gave in to the Mediators the respective demands of their Masters, hardly anything of moment has been transacted here. The Troops designed for the forming a Body near Ruremond, are on their march, and in a day or two they will be fixed in the Station they are to hold. It is said that there are present in Maestricht above 10000 men.

Hague, April 30. The 26th instant the Heer Pensioner Fagel returned hither from Flanders, where he had been to wait upon the Prince of Orange, at his quarters at Eckelo, from whence we since received Letters which give us an account, that one man having been drawn by Lot out of each Company of the Sieur Falckenburgs Regiment (being all nine) who had very ill behaved themselves in the late Battel, they had, according to the sentence of a Council of War, been hanged for an example to the rest. The Letters add, that several persons, who were supposed to be killed or taken prisoners, came daily to the Army, which we doubt not but will be in a condition to act against the Enemy some time the next month. The Heer Van Termuelen, Envoy of the Bishop of Munster, who was at Birffels, to perfect the Treaty by which that Bishop obliges himself to put several thousand men into the service of Spain is arrived here, and having dispatched the affairs he came about, means in few days to return towards Manifer, to give his Master an account of his Negotiations. The Troops which are appointed to have their Station at Ruremond, for the keeping in the Garrison of Maestricht are now all on their march, and are to be commanded by the Count de Horne, General of our Artillery. From Germany they write, that the Duke of Lorraine had with the Troops under his command past the Moselle at and near Treves, taking his march towards Metz. Several fresh Regiments are on their march to the Army, and amongst the rest, the English Regiments who have had their quarters at Breda.

Dunkirk, April 27. The King having given the necessary orders at Cambrai, parted from thence the 20th instant; that day his Majesty dined at Bouham, and lodged at Douay; the 21st his Majesty came to Beihune, was the 22d at Ferouanne, and the 23d at Calais; from whence he parted again the 25th, and having visited the Fortifications of Gravelines, arrived here in the evening. This day his Majesty is gone to Beques, and to-morrow will return to Calais: the 29th he will go from thence to St Omer, where his Majesty will continue two days, and after that, will visit Beihune, Douay, Valenciennes, Crauc, Courtray, Oudenarde, Lise, and Tourney; some of which places it is said the King intends to demolish; and on the 15th or 16th the King will draw his Forces together again, which are dispersed into quarters of refreshment.

Paris, May 1. The Duke of Luxemburg, with other principal Officers of the Army have been here several days, and have, as we are informed, the Kings leave to remain there till the 12th instant, when they are to return to the Commands, and about that time the Troops which are now in quarters of refreshment, will be drawn together again. The Duke of Orleans is expected here on Monday next; but his Majesty we are told has written to the Queen, that he will not return thither till after the end of the Campaigne. We have now the particulars of the surrender of St Omer, viz That the Garrison marched out with Bag and Baggage, Drums beating, Colours flying, and two pieces of Cannon. All the Officers of the Troops designed to be employed in Germany this Summer, parted hence 2 days since. From Lorraine our advices inform us, that the Duke of Lorraine was pass'd by Treves with an Army of 18 or 20000 men, and that he took his march towards Luxemburg; and here is this day a report in Town, that some Troops of the Marschal de Crequi have defeated the Duke of Lorraine's Vanguard, of which we must expect a confirmation. From Marseilles we have an account of a Fire that happened there the last week, and burnt several Houses, and among others, one in which was a great many Stores for Ships and Gallies. The King has given the Lieutenancy of Languedoc to the Marschal de Soubourg, with leave to sell the same. The said Marschal is appointed to command the Kings Forces in Catalonia this Campaigne, where, it is said, the Spaniards will have a considerable Army, and that the King of Spain will be there in person, with Don Juan of Austria this Summer.
