

Baggage towards Nomeny, and caused the Army to draw up in Battalia between Clemery and Menicours; the Right Wing was commanded by the Marquis de Grana, and the Left by the Count de Starenberg. In this Encounter the Count d'Arc, General of the Artillery, and the Count de Dietrichstein, Lieutenant Colonel of the Regiment of Heyster, had their Horses killed under them. Yesterday arrived a great Convoy with Provisions from Treves, and to morrow we expect another from thence.

Luxemburg, June 21. Here are arrived several Deferters from the French Army, who say that many wounded men have been sent to Metz, that the French did the Imperialists great hurt with the Battery they placed on the Hill near Morville, who having only four pieces of Cannon, were forced to retire with some loss and disorder. Yesterday we heard great shooting from the Armies. The Marechal de Schomberg has not yet join'd Monsieur de Crequi; yesterday he was encamped with 1500 Horse and 1000 Foot between Tvoh and Arlon, expecting more men from Flanders under the Count de Montal, after which he intends to continue his march towards Sedan.

Metz, June 22. The Marechal de Crequi having resolved to extend the Right Wing of his Army to the Seille, and to possess himself of Posts from whence he might see the Right Wing of the Imperialists, caused several Bridges to be laid at Longneville, and the 14 instant marched towards Morville, leaving his Right Wing near Mousson, to oppose the passage of the Enemies. The next day he arrived at Morville, and had a view of the greatest part of the Right Wing of the Imperialists, who perceiving his motion, advanced in great diligence to possess themselves of a Wood on the Right Wing of our Army, but were prevented by the Marechal de Crequi, who had before placed there 10 Squadrons of Horse, and three Battalions of Foot; and the rest of the Army being drawn up in Battalia, he gave Orders for the discharging the great Guns: upon which, the Enemies caused their Artillery to advance, but being not in a condition to play in three hours after, were forced, after some loss, to retire. The next night they re-passed the Seille, and encamped at Clemery between Nomeny and Port-sur-Seille. In this Action, one Lieutenant Colonel, and 40 of the Gardes du Corps were killed, and about 50 wounded. The Marechal de Crequi had a Horse killed under him by a Musket shot. The Enemies desert in great numbers, and suffer much for want of Bread and other Provisions. The Marechal de Crequi has sent several Parties towards Vic, to incommode them on that side.

Brussels, June 25. Since our last we are informed, that the French Army continues still at Ninour, and that a great Detachment only is marched towards Tubise. Yesterday we had advice, that they marked out a Camp at Gauré betwixt Ghent and Oudenard, and that their Army would suddenly move thither. The Prince of Orange continues still encamped at Lokers. Letters from Luxemburg of the 21 say, that the 15 instant the Imperialists endeavoured to pass the Wood between both Armies, which the French having so fortified, that it was impossible to attack them that way, the Imperialists after much execution done by the Cannon on both sides, retired to their Camp. That the same night the Marechal de Crequi marching silently with his whole Army, gained an Eminence on the Left Wing of the Imperial Camp over against Nomeny, where they encamped, and that the Imperial Army continued their Camp between Clemery and Port-sur-Seille; That several Persons of Quality had been killed and wounded in taking a Redoubt lying between both Camps; That the Marechal de Crequi had his Horse killed under him in the dispute; and that the Count d'Arc, General of the Artillery of the Imperial Army, was dangerously wounded. The Armies continue in sight of one another, and the Canaan plays very fiercely. Our Governor General having dispatched his affairs at Antwerp, and received this day 300000 Florins from that City, is expected here to morrow. Yesterday the Prince of Orange was to take a general review of his Army.

Hague, June 25. We do not yet hear that the Ships which are designed for the Baltick, are yet sailed from the Texel; but Admiral Tromp hath positive Orders to depart, and the Danish Envoy who returned lately from thence, is gone thither again to hasten them out. The differences between the Princes of Oldenburg and the States, are now said to be in a fair way of composition, though the Assembly at Bremen be separated without coming to any determination about them. From Flanders we hear, that the Prince of Orange was lately in danger of being surprized by a Party of 40 French Horse, and as many Foot, who, upon intelligence of his going to Antwerp, laid an Ambuscade for him: But his Highness having had notice of them on the way, sent some Dragoons to charge them, who with little resistance made them all Prisoners, and among the rest took some Dutch Deferters, who are said to have directed them.
