

Stockholme, by which we understand the Suedish Fleet is not yet put in there.

Berlin, July 24. The Lunenbourg Troops, which have been so long near Magdebourg, are now come up to Stetin, where they are to be employed on the side of Creckaw. The Elector of Brandenburg has raised a Battery at the place called Laßadie, and has sent several Men and Cannon to take in another important Post upon the Oder, to facilitate the Siege of the Town. From Mechlenbourg we hear, that the Imperial Soldiers, consisting in 1800 Foot and Dragoons, are marched to Wismar, there to embark, in order to their Transportation to Schonen, being hastened the more, for that the two Armies were expected to engage suddenly, having some time continued very near each other.

Strasbourg, July 23. The Duke of Saxen-Eysenach being pretty well recovered of his late indisposition, is returned to Huningem, where his Army is still encamped, having suffered very much for want of Forage, which they have been forced to fetch at a great distance. The French Army under the command of Monsieur de Monclar is between Schlestadt and Brisac, where Monsieur de Duras has lately joined them with a detachment sent from the Marschal de Crequi. From Basse they write, that General Vertmuller was arrived near that place on his way to the Duke of Saxen-Eysenach, with 4000 Men and Artillery, with which it's believed, they will suddenly undertake the Siege of Schlestadt. Monsieur de Monclar was two days ago at Beffort with 500 Horse, to remove from thence to Brisac, the Money raised by Contribution.

Cologne, July 27. Passengers arrived here from Eyffel, say, that two Parties belonging to Maestricht, were fallen into that Countrey, and had put several places under Contribution. To morrow the Bishop of Gurck, the Emperor's first Plenipotentiary for the Treaty, is expected here from Coblentz, having lodged this night at Brisac, 10 Leagues from this place.

Dittio, July 28. The Bishop of Gurck, the Emperor's first Ambassador, is not yet arrived, though the several Companies here have been these three days drawn up to receive him. Yesterday morning he is said to have parted from Coblentz, and to morrow in the afternoon we expect him here at farthest. The young Prince of Lobcowitz is arrived here in the company of the Prince Palatine of Sultzbach, having lately married a Princess of the House of Nassau-Hademar.

Hague, July 30. The States of Holland, who are now assembled, have at length come to a Resolution in the affair of Groningen, and declared in favor of the Ommelands. The Deputies of Amsterdam, it's said, made some Protestation against the said Sentence, the Contents and Reasons whereof we yet know not. The States General have, however, resolved to allow the Town one month more to dispose them to an amicable composition of this difference, and have desired the Prince of Nassau, Stadtholder of the Province, to use his utmost endeavors; which yet it is much feared will prove ineffectual, by reason of his favour to the City, and the dissatisfaction those of the Ommelands have expressed against him, which hath proceeded so far, that in a Letter they have lately written to him upon occasion of the present difference, they declare they will no longer acknowledge him for Stadtholder of their part of the Province, in case he still continues to take part with the City against them. To morrow it is believed the States of Holland will separate, and adjourn themselves till the 24 of the next month, having not been able to agree about the raising of the 200th penny once more this year, for defraying the charges of the War. Yesterday the Deputies of the Admiralty had a long Consultation with the States about the Ships designed for the Mediterranean, and this week they intend to separate, and return home. From Amsterdam we hear, that the French Capers had taken 18 Fisher-boats on the Coast of Island, and were arrived with them late at St. Malo; The Prince of Orange is encamped with the Army near Grammont, from whence the Count de Waldeck is parted very much indisposed to Antwerp, the Prince of Vaudemont being appointed to command the Right Wing in his absence. From Nimegue they write of the 28 instant, that Count Anthony of Oldenbourg, the first of the King of Denmark's Ambassadors for the Treaty, was expected there that evening. Letters from Copenhagen of the 24 instant say, that an Express arrived there from Schonen, reports, that at his departure from thence the two Armies begun to play with their Cannon against each other. From Luxemburg of the 25 they write, That a sharp Rencontre had passed between a Party of the Duke of Lorraine's Army, and the Rear of the French, in their retreat towards Verdun, and that several had been taken Prisoners, and killed on both sides.

Brussels, July 30. On Tuesday night here arrived near 2000 Wagons, to fetch Bread, Provisions, and Ammunition for the Army, whither they were Conveyed by a detachment of 3000 men commanded by the Count de Lippe, five men being for that purpose drawn out of each Company of Horse and Dragoons. On Wednesday night the said Count having advice, that Monsieur de Louigny was come near Enguyen with 5000 Horse, to cover the Convoy, and that the Duke of Luxemburg had detached 10000 Horse to intercept it, gave the Prince of Orange notice thereof, who coming yesterday morning to Enguyen with the Duke de Villa Hermosa and Bishop of Osnaburg with 10000 Horse, to secure it, the French retired, and our Convoy arrived safe with the Army this morning. Our Army is still encamped at Grammont, and will certainly fall upon some considerable action within two or three days. This night the Prince of Orange's Cannon are expected here from Ghent, as are also the Pioneers, who are summoned in from all parts with Arms, and the Boots with their Wagons, so that it is generally believed they will begin to invest the Place they design to besiege on Sunday morning. To morrow our Army intends to march, and by the moving of our Cannon all conclude Charleroy will be attacked, where we are assured there are 4000 men in Garrison under the command of Monsieur de Monsal, Governor of the place. Count de Waldeck is removed from Dendermond to Antwerp, where he continues very ill of a burning violent Fever, which hath reduced him to that weakness, that his Physicians begin to doubt very much of his recovery. From Ruremonde they write, that 1400 of the Munster Troops passed there the 24 instant, to join the Confederate Troops at Mastich, who are not only fortifying Rebim and other places about Maestricht, but have visited Limbourg and Nauvigue with intentions to repair the Fortifications of both. Our last Letters from Luxemburg are of the 25, which only tell us, that the Duke of Lorraine with his Army was advanced towards Stenay and Marville, which last Town they had burnt, and that the French were between Dampvilliers and the Meuse. We hear from Alsace, that the Duke of Saxen-Eysenach continues encamped near Basse, and that Monsieur de Monclar was like to advance towards him, having received a Rekrut of 14 Squadrons of Horse from the Marschal de Crequi.

Bruges, Aug. 1. Yesterday morning marched hence 500 Pioneers, and 200 Wagons, to the Prince of Orange and Confederate Army, being the Quota furnished by this Town, the rest of this Province having furnished their Proportions accordingly. We cannot yet learn the certainty of the design of our Army, and are much troubled to see the Season of the year so far advanced, without any advantage obtained by them over our Enemies. The Troops of Zell and Osnaburg have lately received at Antwerp 20000 Crowns, each, for one months Subsidie.
