Extract of a Letter from General Eliott, Governor of Gibraltar, to the Earl of Hillsborough, One of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, dated Gibraltar, August 8, 1781.

YESTERDAY Morning I received your Dispatch of the 20th of July, with the Inclosure, by His Majesty's Sloop Helena, Captain Roberts, who arrived by Dint of Perseverance and Bravery, with the Assistance of our Two Gun-Boats (the Vanguard and Repulse) towed into the Bay, and posted by Captain Curtis himself. He personally conducted their Attack in his Barge with distinguished Success, notwithstanding a constant and heavy Fire of Round and Grape from the Enemy's Gun-Boats for nearly Two Hours. The Particulars of Captain Roberts's gallant Behaviour and his Ship will, no Doubt, be transmitted by Captain Curtis; but as he (Captain Curtis) is not a Man to speak of any Transaction so highly redounding to his own Honour, on my Part it is an indispensable Duty to inform your Lordship, that his Zeal for the Service is scarcely to be paralleled in forwarding every Operation that can any Way contribute to our Comfort or Defence.

Admiralty-Office, September 18, 1781.

Extract of a Letter from Captain Curtis to Mr. Stephens, dated Brilliant, Gibraltar, August 7, 1781.

IBEG you will be pleased to acquaint my Lords Commissioners, that His Majesty's Sloop Helena arrived here this Morning.

Her Approach was discovered by the Enemy and us, at the same Time, about Five o'Clock. She was in the Gut, to the Southward of Cabarita Point, and nearly a Third of the Way over from it towards Europa. It was perfectly calm, and the Helena was rowing for the Rock. I immediately took the Repulse and Vanguard Gun-Boats, with all the Boats of the Ships; and went for her as expeditiously as possible. Fourteen Gun-Boats of the Enemy, carrying each One Twenty-six Pounder in the Bow, moved also from Algaziras, accompanied by several Launches. These Boats got on faster than I could proceed with the Repulse and Vanguard, and before Eight o'Clock, those of them the most advanced commenced their Fire upon the Helena, being then within Half Gun-shot. She returned it with great Deliberation and Effect, but still continuing to use her Oars. The greater Part of the Gun-Boats were soon close to her, and the Clouds of Grape and other Shot, that seemed almost to bury her, were really astonishing. However she did not, without some Aid, bear long this very unequal Combat. The Repulse and Vanguard began a well-directed Fire upon the Enemy, being so placed as was deemed the most efficacious to cover the Helena, and annoy them. The Commencement of the Sea Breeze having got to the Helena; she soon reached us, the Enemy still persevering in their Attempt upon her; some of them firing at her Broadside, and others keeping a stern, taking her. However, the Steadiness and Bravery exhibited on Board the Helena, and the well-applied Grape from the Repulse and Vanguard, very soon made several of them retire; and they all fled by Ten o'Clock, allowing us to tow the Helena into the Mole without farther Molestation. A Kebeck, mounting between Twenty and Thirty Guns, which was lying near to Cabarita Point, got under Way when the Breeze came, and advanced to join the Gun-Boats; but, upon seeing them retire, she retired also. The Masts, Sails, Rigging and Furniture of the Helena are cut all to Pieces, and the Hull a good Deal damaged; but it is wonderful, as it is fortunate, the Boatwain was the only Man who was killed on Board her.

The Bravery, the Coolness, and the judicious Conduct of Captain Roberts † do him infinite Honour: His Officers and Men deserve the highest Commendation.

† Captain Roberts was First Lieutenant of the Quebec with Captain Farmer, when she was burnt in Action with the Surveillant.
