And to Three Private Bills.

Admiralty-Office, March 12, 1782.

THIS Morning Captain Henry Edwin Stanhope, late of His Majesty's Ship the Ruffel, arrived here from Rear-Admiral Sir Samuel Hood, Bart. with a Letter to Mr. Stephens, dated Barfleur, Bassé-Terre Road, the 7th of last Month, of which the following is an Extract:

THE Design of the Count de Grasse was most undoubtedly against Barbadoes, could he have got to Windward; but, failing of that, owing to strong Easterly Winds, and a Lee Current, he bent his Course to this Island.

The Moment his Views were made known to me, I quitted Carlisse Bay, and got off English Harbour, with all the Haste in my Power; where I could only hear of a formidable Attack being made upon St. Christopher's, without any certain Information either of the Enemy's Sea or Land Force. I anchored in St. John's Road, and the Prudent having joined me, I sailed on the 23d in the Evening with 22 Sail of the Line, and was close off the South-East End of Nevis, at Day-Light next Morning, when I directed the Squadron to be formed in Order of Battle, with a Design of attacking the Enemy at Anchor, if I saw it practicable to any Advantage; but the Signal for the Line a-head was no sooner thrown out than Rear-Admiral Drake made that for speaking with me, and brought to; I did the same, and soon learnt he only repeated the Signal of the Alfred in the Rear; and that that Ship had run on board the Nymphé, and almost cut her asunder. It was reported to me, each had received so much Damage as to be unable to keep the Sea. I immediately ordered a Survey on both, and was happy to find the Alfred could be put in a State for present Service in the Course of the Day and following Night; but that the Nymphé could not. I therefore shifted the Troops, she had on board, to another Frigate, and ordered her to English Harbour, where she arrived safe. This Misfortune to the Alfred, obliged me to remove her from being the leading Ship, into the Center of my Line, and to place the St. Alban's in her Room. That Morning the look out Frigate a-head fell in with and took a very large King's Cutter of 16 Six-pouuders, but Seven Months old, and commanded by a Knight of Malta: She is named L'Espion; she came from Martinique about Thirty Hours before, and was full of Shells and other Ordnance Stores. In the Afternoon the Count de Grasse quitted this Road, and kept a few Miles to Leeward of me the whole Night.

At Day-light we plainly discovered 33 Sail of the Enemy's Ships, 29 of which of Two Decks formed in a Line a-head. I made every Appearance of an Attack, which threw the Count de Grasse a little from the Shore; and as I thought I had a fair Prospect of gaining the Anchorage he left, and well knowing it was the only Chance I had of saving the Island, if it was to be saved, I pushed for it, and succeeded, by having my Rear and Part of the Center engaged.

The Enemy gave a Preference to Commodore Affleck; but he kept up so noble a Fire, and was so supported by his Seconds, Captain Cornwallis and Lord Robert Manners, that the Loss and Damages sustained in those Ships were very trifling, and they very much preserved the other Ships in the Rear. The Prudent had the Misfortune to have her Wheel shot to Pieces the first Broadside, which occasioned her Loss to exceed that of any other Ship.

Would the Event of a Battle have determined the Fate of the Island, I would, without Hesitation, have attacked the Enemy, from my Knowledge how much was to be expected from an English Squadron, commanded by Men, amongst whom is no other Contention than who should be most forward in rendering Services to his King and Country: Herein I placed the utmost Confidence, and should not, I fully trust, have been disappointed.

I anchored His Majesty's Squadron in a close Line a-head; but Commodore Affleck having acquainted me that the Bedford had driven off the Bank, I ordered her into the Van.

Next

Next Morning, about Eight o'Clock, I was attacked from Van to Rear, with the whole Force of the Enemy. (29 Sail) for nearly Two Hours, without having the least visible Impression made upon my Line. The French Ships then wore, and stood off again, and in the Afternoon began a second Attack upon my Center and Rear, with no better Success than before: Since which the Count de Grasse has kept at a safe Distance. Many of the French Ships must have suffered very considerably, and the Ville de Paris was upon the Heel all the next Day, covering her Shot Holes.

By Information from the Shore, the French Ships have sent to St. Eustatius upwards of 1000 wounded Men.

I think my Situation perfectly secure here against the Enemy's present Force, superior as it is; and am happy to find, by a Letter I have received from Governor Shirley, that Brimstone Hill, to which his Excellency retired, is in the most perfect Security. I have not a Thought of moving, and think the Count de Grasse will not venture to attack me again, unless he should attempt something by Fire-Vessels, which I am prepared against as much as possible: If therefore Brimstone Hill can hold out, which I have not a Doubt of, the Marquis de Bouillie, (who landed with 8000 Men upon the Island) as well as the Count de Grasse, will, I think, be glad to retire. When I sent an Officer to Brimstone Hill, he was accompanied by one from General Prescott, (who embarked with the 28th Regiment, and two Companies of the 13th, from Antigua, at my Request, knowing well Brimstone Hill and every Part of the Island) who brought the following Message from that brave old Soldier General Frazer: "That as he had taken the Trouble to come with Troops to his Assistance, he should doubtless be glad of the Honor of seeing him; but that he was in no Want of him or his Troops." Upon my being made acquainted with this spirited Message from General Frazer, I proposed to General Prescott his taking a Post on Shore in the Vicinity of Basse-Terre, and offered to land two Battalions of Marines, of 700 each, Rank and File, with the 69th Regiment, which, with the 28th Regiment, and the two Companies of the 13th, would make a Body of 2400 Men: His Answer was, He did not think it practicable to maintain a Post, but was sanguine in his Wishes to be put on Shore, with his Antigua Troops and the 69th Regiment. They were accordingly landed on the 28th, immediately got into Action, and drove the Enemy with considerable Loss. He remained on Shore all Night, and next Morning the Marquis de Bouillie appeared at the Head of upwards of 4000 Men; but not caring to attack General Prescott, on a Hill he possessed just to the Eastward of Frigate Bay, where he landed, led his Troops back to his Encampment under Brimstone Hill: And as it then appeared to me, that no solid Purpose could be answered by the Continuance of our Troops on Shore, I submitted it to the General's Consideration, whether it would not be adviseable to reembark, and he readily concurring, all were taken off that Evening without the Loss of a Man. The General had about Forty killed and wounded in his Skirmish with the Irish Brigade.

General Skeene landed with the 69th Regiment, and had his full Share in putting the Enemy to the Rout.

All Communication being now cut off with Brimstone Hill, I thought it expedient, as did the General also, to send him and the Antigua Troops back, and they sailed in the Convert and Fortunée on the 1st instant.

On that Day the Tisiphone joined me, and I propose shall return to England with an Account of the Situation of Things here, which I think of Importance their Lordships should know.

I send the Copy of my Line of Battle, and an Account of the killed and wounded. I have much Pleasure in telling you His Majesty's Ships under my Command are very immaterially injured in their Masts and Yards, perfectly healthy, and the People in the highest Spirits.

The Count de Grasse appears one Day with 32 Two-decked Ships (the whole of the present Force in this Country) and another with only 29, so that I imagine two or three are constantly watering at Old Road.

THE following are Copies of Sir Samuel Hood's Line of Battle, and of his Accounts of the Number of Officers and Men killed and wounded in each of the Ships under his Command.
