Constantinople, July 24. Our Apprehensions with regard to the Plague are fully confirmed by many Accidents which have happened in different Parts of this Residence, and in two Greek Villages situated on the Canal. It is probable the Disorder was brought hither from Ceres, nigh Salonica, (where it has broken out with Violence) as it was at first confined to the People who trade in those Parts. At present it begins to spread, and, as the Weather is very moist and unsettled, there is great Reason to fear it will become general.

Yesterday Evening, about Six o'Clock, a Fire broke out at Constantinople, in a Quarter called Balatta, mostly inhabited by Jews. As the Wind was rather high, the Flames spread with such Rapidity, that, notwithstanding every Effort, in about Three Hours the whole City was threatened with Destruction. It is impossible to paint the horrid Scene exhibited by this alarming Conflagration, which raged with equal Violence for about Fifteen Hours, and spread through one of the most inhabited Parts of the Town. The Number of Houses destroyed is computed at Ten Thousand, besides Mosques, Churches, and other Public Edifices.

At this Instant, (Three o'Clock P. M.) the Fire, which had appeared nearly extinguished, broke out anew in Three distinct Places, and proceeds in different Directions. The Wind, which had fallen, is again pretty high, and the greatest Apprehensions are now entertained for the Fate of the City. The Grand Signior, Vizir, and all the Grandees, have attended these Seventeen Hours, to encourage the Exertions of the People to check the Progress of the Flames.

ON the Night of Friday the Second Instant, my Counting-house in Copthall Buildings, Throgmorton-street, was broke open; and a Box, mark'd 1781, and a small Case of Drawers, carried away from it; they contained Papers, among which was a Bill of Exchange, drawn by Pat. Dease, Esq; of Dublin, on me for 191. os. 11 d. to Order of Mr. F. Cruise, and one drawn by Dom. Duany, Esq; of Warfield, for 15 l. to Order of William Lawrence; the first was accepted, but not endorsed; the latter was not accepted: There were also a considerable Number of Bills of Exchange on me, which I paid in the Course of last Year, as well as a Number of my Drafts, on Messrs. Fullers, Sons, and Vaughan, which were discharged by them during that Period: As Attempts may be made to obtain Value for some of these, I take this Method of cautioning the Public against being imposed on by any such.

A few of the Papers contained in the Box were found in the last Week near Whitechapel, and have been restored to me; should the Remainder come into the Possession of any Person by similar Means, I will pay such Person Ten Pounds or more, by delivering them to me; and I will pay Twenty Pounds to any Person who discovers the Perpetrator or Perpetrators of this Felony, so that he or they may be convicted of it.
