Copy of a Letter from Captain Salter to Rear-Admiral Digby.

Santa Margarita, August 1, 1782.

I HAVE the Honor to acquaint you, that, at the Dawn of Day on the Morning of the 20th ult. I gave Chace to a Sail in the S. E. Quarter, the Wind being at N. E. b. N. Cape Henry then bearing West, distant about Five Leagues. Having approached within a Mile and Half of the Chace, I discovered her to be a French Frigate from the Signals and Manœuvres she made, and of equal Force to ourselves; but perceiving Eight Sail of large Ships bearing down for us under a Croud of Sail, Two of which at no great Distance, (after consulting my Officers) I wore Ship and stood from her to the Northward, having not only an Enemy but a Lee-Shore to encounter. The Frigate gave us Chace till Three P. M. when she tacked and stood to the Westward. As we then had lost Sight of the large Ships from our Mast-head, and the Weather being very clear, my Officers and Ship's Company expressing an eager Desire to bring the Frigate to Action, it was judged proper to tack and stand after her for that Purpose. In a Quarter of an Hour she tacked also, and stood towards us. At Five o'Clock, being within a Cable's Length of each other, she with her Starboard and we with our Larboard Tacks on Board, she opened her Fire and gave us her Broadside, and immediately wore: We reserved our Fire till an Opportunity offered to rake her while wearing, which was effected with a well-directed Fire from our Starboard Guns; then gradually closed each other within Pistol-Shot, keeping her on our Starboard Beam; and the Action was continued in this Manner warmly, on both Sides, for an Hour and Quarter, when she struck her Colours, and proved to be L'Amazone, mounting 36 Guns (long Twelve and Six Pounders) and carrying 301 Men, commanded by the Vicomte de Montquiote, who was killed in the early Part of the Action.

I sent a Lieutenant and One Third of my Ship's Company to take Possession of her. Every Effort was made to repair our Damages and to have the Prisoners shifted, in order to make the best of our Way here, and avoid the other Ships, which the French Officers informed me were Part of Thirteen Sail of their Line, besides Frigates; but unavoidable Delays happened, in having only One Boat fit for hoisting out (which transported on Board 68 Prisoners, including Officers) together with the wrecked and shattered Condition of the Amazone, she having lost her Main and Mizzen Masts soon after she struck, and from the Wounds received in Action, we kept her in Tow during the Night, with all the Sail we could set, and stood to the N. E. in Hopes of encreasing our Distance from the other Ships; but by Break of Day we plainly discerned the whole Fleet following us under a Crowd of Sail. I immediately recalled my Officers and Men on Board, cut the Hawser, and set adrift my Boat, not being able to hoist her in, and abandoned the Prize, after having ordered the small Remains of her Fore Rigging to be cut away. Had Time and Circumstances permitted me to have shifted all the Prisoners, I should have ordered her to have been burnt, to prevent her being retaken by the Enemy.

I cannot sufficiently extol the Conduct of my Officers and Ship's Company for their Gallantry and spirited Conduct during the Action, and for their vigorous Exertions afterwards in repairing, in the best Manner possible, the Damages sustained, so as to enable us to escape the Enemy. At the same Time I cannot pass unnoticed the gallant and Officer-like Conduct of the Viscount de Montguyoté, in leading his Ship to Action. After he was killed the Chevalier de Lepine, Second Captain, (on whom the Command devolved) did every Thing that an experienced Officer in his Situation could possibly do; for being himself, and all his Officers excepting One, and about One Half of his Men, either killed or wounded, and the Masts so crippled as to expect them to go over the Side every Moment, several Guns dismounted, and Four Feet Water in the Hold, will, I dare say, justify to his King and Country the Necessity of their Surrender.

The Damages sustained by His Majesty's Ship, and the Number of Men killed and wounded in Action, are but trivial, comparatively to those sustained by the Enemy. Our Mainmast was shot through in several Places; the Foremost, Fore, Main and Mizzen Topmasts, and several of the Yards, wounded; many Grape Shot lodged in our Copper, between Wind and Water; our Sail, Standing and Running Rigging, (except Mizzen Shrouds) were entirely cut to Pieces. Five were killed and 17 wounded on Board His Majesty's Ship during the Action: Amongst the former Mr.
Dalrymple, Midshipman, a worthy, deserving Youth, who, had he lived, would have been an Ornament to his Profession; and amongst the latter Mr. Otto, the Boatswain, who is shot through the Arm. Killed on Board the Amazone, according to the French Officers Account, about 70 Men, including Officers, and Wounded between 70 and 80.

I have the Honor to be, &c.

ELLIOT SALTER.
