Constantinople, May 25. The Grand Signior has just issued an Imperial Edict, by which the British Merchants are exempted for the future from the Masavia Duty on all Goods imported from their Country to Constantinople, and on such unprohibited Merchandizes as they export from Constantinople to their own Country, after paying the other Customs prescribed by the Imperial Capitulations.

The Plague prevails in many Parts of this City, particularly in the Quarters of the Arsenal and Harbour, though its Progress is happily retarded by the Coldness of the Weather, and the Northerly Winds. The Accounts from the Islands are very alarming. At Smirna the Infection has increased considerably, and has again manifested itself at Kerfon.

Venice, June 5. The Plague still rages in Dalmatia, particularly at Spalatro, which City, consisting lately of about Four Thousand Inhabitants, is already nearly depopulated. The Suburbs however are yet free from the Contagion, nor has it hitherto extended itself further in the neighbouring Island of Brazza.
