I THANK you for this loyal and affectionate Address. The constant Zeal and Attachment of the University of Cambridge to My Government, as well as their Attention to the Encouragement of useful Learning, and to the Education of Youth in the Principles of Loyalty, Virtue and Piety, will ever ensure them My Countenance and Protection.

The following Address of the Mayor, Bailiffs, and Commonalty of the City of Coventry, has been presented to the King by Sir Sampson Gideon, Bart. and John Wilmot, Esq; Representatives in Parliament for the said City, being introduced by the Lord of His Majesty's Bedchamber in Waiting: Which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Mayor, Bailiffs, and Commonalty of the City of Coventry.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Mayor, Bailiffs, and Commonalty of the City of Coventry, truly sensible of the Blessings we enjoy under your Majesty's Government, beg Leave to approach your Royal Presence, to testify our deepest Concern for the late Attempt which has been made on your Majesty's Life, and to congratulate your Majesty on the providential Escape from an Act which (had it succeeded in its Object) must have involved your Majesty's affectionate Subjects in a Scene of inexpressible Calamity and Distress.

When we consider the Value and Importance of your Majesty's Life to the Happiness of your People, we cannot be induced to believe, at a Period of general Prosperity, that any Individual in your Majesty's Dominions, unless under the Influence of a disordered Mind, could have been found wicked.
