

Ambassadour, intending for this place, are already arriv'd, himself daily expected.

The Holland Ambassadour for the Ottoman Court, continues still here, but talks of Imbarquing very speedily for Constantinople. Our Ambassadour Girolamo Giaverina, is Imbarqued with Morofini, intending to disbarque at Zante, uncertain as yet whether to proceed for Constantinople, or Smirna.

Vienna, Feb. 22. The Venetian Ambassador having earnestly solicited in this Court for assistance in the Wars of that Republick against the Turks, has obtained the favor to raise forces upon their own Expences in the several Provinces of Austria. And such farther care will be taken to satisfy their just demands in this common Cause of Christianity, as may not interfere with the Treaty formerly made, between this and the Ottoman Court.

The Levies go on vigorously, the Ten Regiments that are to be raised with the Spanish money, lately returned hither, are to be commanded by General Montecuculi, for the service of his Catholick Majesty

General Wrangle is at present in Pomerania, and 'tis said he is there taking order with the States of that Province, for the quartering of several Regiments, which he intends to send thither from the Dutchy of Bremen, where the Country is over-press'd, that it is not able any longer to entertain them.

Dantzick, Jan. 25. Letters from Warsaw inform us, That the Tartars and Cossacks have done very considerable mischiefs by their late Irruption, carrying with them a inestimable Booty, by the plundering of several rich Cities, and have in chains above 30000 persons. Our last intelligence informs us, that the Muscovites and Tartars have lately defeated the Poles in a great fight, wherein they had slain a great part of the Polish Nobility, and above 15000 men upon the place. Of which, we must expect farther confirmation.

The Turks likewise threaten them with a War this next Summer, having placed new Officers upon the Frontiers, and preparing all things necessary in pursuance of their intentions, but his Majesty of Poland is dispatching Curitzky, Governor of Elbing, as his Ambassador to the Grand Seigneur, to compose (if possible) those differences, and divert the storm, which otherwise will inevitably fall on that Kingdom.

Hague, Feb. 1. The States General are to assemble within few dayes, when all the vacant Charges and Commands are expected to be filled up. Prince Maurice continues still here, and 'tis as yet uncertain when he shall begin his journey towards Germany.

The Huissiers sent to Rotterdam to execute the Sentence formerly given against the Heers Kievit and Vanderhorst, being opposed by the Citizens at Rotterdam, gives us some apprehensions of our increasing troubles. We expect shortly the Arrival of the Deputies from that City, who are by them ordered to give an account to us of the reason of their proceedings.

The Swedes increase our jealousies by their new Levies and Preparations, but the Arrival of the Count de Donna, who is daily expected, will give us more certainty of the inclinations of that Crown.

We are informed of the Arrival of our Fleet with French Wines, by Zealand, consisting of above a hundred sail, of which five fell into the hands of the English.

From Amsterdam we are advised, That upon the new Election of Magistrates in that City, the Pensionary has prevailed for the election of several of his own Creatures; but at Rotterdam, and some other places, he is not at all pleased with their Elections; whose Deputies and Commissioners he fears may create him some difficulties in the Assembly of the States General.

Some dayes since a Merchants Ship going from Holland with English exchanged prisoners, was examined and seized by the French, and carried into Dunkerke, where they declared her Prize, having some Holland Merchandize found aboard her; which infinitely dissaishes the Dutch Merchants.

Doctor Maddowell's business continues in the same posture as formerly; no late proceedings being made against him.

Paris, Febr. 9. The Popes Nuncio is very zealous in this Court in defence of his Holiness Authority, and seems highly concern'd at the late Debate in Council, for prescribing and prefixing the time of Admission of Religious Persons of both Sexes, pressing it as a kinde of Schism, to restrain Persons that were willing to resigne themselves up to the service of God.

The Archbishop of this place has likewise used all his Endeavours to obstruct the passing of the Edict, urging it as an Intrenchment upon the Rights of the Church, and an Injury to all Families, that will by it be hindered from disposing of their Children with that convenience as formerly; and 'tis believed, no further progress will be made into it.

The Here Van Leuninghen Envoyé from Holland, has earnestly solicited his Majesty, for a free Commerce of their Manufactures, especially their Cloath, which is granted them; but in the mean time, Monsieur Colbert has ordered the chief Merchants of this City, not to Import any of them upon their Accounts.

The Code is still under Examination at the Chancellours House, where there arose lately some Disputes between the Presidents des Enquestes, and the Commissioners of the Grand Chamber, for Precedency, which the Chancellour has represented to his Majesty, for his determination; and 'tis believed, they shall take their places for the future according to their Seniority of admission into their places.

A Courier is here arriv'd from Rome, with a Bull from his Holiness, empowering sixteen Bishops to examine and proceed against several other Bishops, upon their refusal to subscribe the Formulair against the Farsenists.

Brussels, Feb. 6. The Spaniards having bought 180000 pound weight of Saltpeter at Amsterdam, the States fearing it might have been employed to their prejudice, thought fit to make stop of it: Whereupon the Governor of this place, caused many new Pieces of Cannon lately founded at Mechlin, for the use of the States, to be seized on; of which, the Holland Resident made his complaints to the Marquis de Castel Rodrigo, who answered him: That so soon as the States would dismis their Saltpeter at Amsterdam, the Cannons should be immediately restored: Which upon the Residents Letter to the States there, was effected on both sides, to their mutual satisfaction.

'Tis said, that the Hollanders will for the future, prohibit all their Ships and Boats that come from Holland, to pass through to this place, but to unload at Lillo, a Port of theirs not far distant from Antwerp, where the Vessels from hence are to take in what is brought out of Holland; which is expounded to be an invention for the raising a new Tax, but is thought somewhat inconsistent with the Articles between the States, and these parts; and invites the Merchants here to seek after a Trade with other Countreys.

The Council of Brabant are consulting about the making a new Channel, by which Vessels of 300 Tuns may pass securely to Antwerp, and not by Gent and Bruges.

Weymouth, Feb. 4. The 2d. of this Month arriv'd here two prizes from Guernsey, that were lately taken by the Hopeful Providence.

Bristol, Feb. 4. We have here News brought us from Rockell, that the Prophet Elias, a Vessel of this Town, was in her way for Lisbon set upon by a French Man of War of about 35 Guns, with whom she maintained a fight for six hours, with much courage and resolution; having aboard her near 30 Men, and 18 Guns: but then the Masters-Mate, with ten of her Men being killed, most of the rest disabled; and the Ship no longer able to make resistance, she became a prey, and with much difficulty was brought into Rockell; having in the fight killed above 70. of the French, and left in the Man of War very considerable Marks of her stout resistance.

Alborough, Feb. 4. A Hoy belonging to Harwich, was in passing by this place, attempted by a French Shallop, which came up close with her, to have laid her aboard; but was so warmly entertained with her Guns; that she was forced to quit her design, and escape to the Northwards, being in vain for some time pursued by the Hoy.
