Weymouth April 8.

This morning arrived here the Marygold of this place, Fobys Master, from Maryland, from whence he came the 28 of February last; he tells us that the Indians on the East-side had committed some Hostilities, having killed four Men and a Woman near Nomani, which it was feared would have very ill consequences.

Madrid, March 24. Don Juan continues to raise all possible means for the raising of Money to be present pressing occasions of the Crown. We are assured that there will be a very good Army in Catalonia this Campaign, consisting in upwards of 20000 Men; and some add, that the King will go thither in person, to reside part of the Summer at Barcelona, to be so much nearer, to take the resolutions, to which any sudden incident may give occasion on that side. The King has given the Command of the Castle of Milan, to Don Louis Ferraro, Captain General of Biscay. An Envoy, who hath been some time on the part of the Bishop of Osabrug, is returning home, having had his Audience of Leave of the King.

Dantzick, April 2. About 8 or 10 dayes since we had an account by Letters from Riga, that the Suedes finding all the endeavors they had used with the Duke of Courland, for a free passage with their Army through his Territories ineffectual, had resolved to lay wholly aside the thoughts of attacking the Brandenburgs in Prussia, and instead thereof to send the Troops, which were to have been employed therein, to reinforce the Count Coningsmark in Pomeran, who with such assistance would be put into a condition to make head against the Enemy in those Parts. Since are arrived here two or three Vessels from Sueden, the Masters of which assure us, that before they came from Stockholme, 10 Men of War were sailed from thence, under the Command of the Sieur Wach-Meister, designed, as was said there, to transport the said Troops from Livonia to Pomeran. In Po and many persons begin to have apprehensions of a new War with the Turks, who on the one hand seem very much disposed to compose the matters in difference with the Moscovites, and to that end have made several Overtures, and on the other create daily new difficulties, to retard the ratifying the Treaty, concluded the last year, between the Crown of Poland and the Port, while at the same time they continue to apply themselves with great diligence to make preparations for a War. The affairs of this City are not yet quite settled, though the late determinations of the King, in those Points that were in Controversie between the Magistrates, and the Commonalty, have had a very good effect in some particulars, as we hope they will in conclusion have in all.

Spire, April 5. The Imperial Troops which have had their Winter-quarters in Franconia, Suabia, and on the Rhine, are drawing together; but, in all appearance, it will be the latter end of this month, before they are in a Body. A great many Imperial and Lorraine Officers are arrived at Strasbourg to furnish themselves with several things for the Campaign. Great quantities of Corn and Hay are daily brought to that City both by Water and Land, for the use of the Imperial Army. Orders have been given for the drawing the heavy Cannon out of the Arsenals at Philipsburgh and Vim, to be employed in the Siege of Friburg, which, it is said, as a thing most certain, the Imperialists will open the Campaign with. The States of Suabia are appointed to assemble the 15th of this month at Ulm; and we are told, it is in order to the desiring a Sum of Money of them, towards the defraying the charges of the Siege of Friburg.

Wormes, April 6. The Baron de Mercy, and the Baron de Chavira, with some other principal Officers of the Lorraine Troops, who attended his Highness in his journey to the Emperors Court, are arrived here, and assure us, that the Duke will be here himself by the 10th. Yesterday arrived here an Express with Letters to Prince Herman of Baden, who has commanded the Imperial Troops in his Highnesses absence; upon which the said Prince is gone this day to Eflingen, to meet the Duke there. All the news here is, that Friburg will be besieged by part of the Imperial Army, while the other part, which will be by much the greater, is employed in some other Action.

Hague, April 15. His Highness the Prince of Orange is come from the Army to Breda, from whence, some speak, as if he would make a trip hither, but that's uncertain. The Letters we receive from Denmark, confirm, that the Suedes having made an Attack upon Christianstade, had been repul'd with the loss of 14 or 1500 men.

Brussels, April 15. From Lille and Tournay we have advice, that great quantities of Ammunition were embarked at those two places, to be sent to Ghent. We here seem to apprehend, that the Enemy has a design upon Dendermond, wherefore his Excellency has sent the Regiments of Boslu and Demonde thither, to reinforce that Garrison. We have likewise advice, that the French are making great preparations at Maestricht, and other places upon the Meuse; and thereupon his Excellency has sent Lieutenant General Azurto into Kemperland, to draw together the Horle quartered in those Parts, and to have an eye upon the Enemys motions. The Prince of Orange is gone to Breda.

Marysilles, April 5. Two dayes since arrived here a Bark of this place from Messina, by which we understand, that the French have totally abandoned Sicily; which they did so on the sudden, and so unexpectedly to the Messineses, that they knew nothing of their intention, till they saw they begun to demolish the Fort of St. Salvadore, and to embark the Artillery
