if that design go on, a Magazine will be provided for them in this City. The Munster Troops which passed the Khine at Neuwit, have taken their way towards Montabour, in order to their joining with some other Troops of that Bilhop. From Ments they write, That the zt instant two Regiments of Foot, and the day following a Regiment of Horse, of the Elector of Saxony, passed the Rhine there, taking their march towards Trier and Luxembourg. The Letters from the Imperial Camp say, that the Duke of Lorrain being unwilling to lose so much time as the Siege of Friburg would probably take up, had rather chosen, to enter forthwith into some Action with the French Army, and in order thereunto, was resolved to pals the Rhine.

Bruffels, May 27. On Wednesday morning early. the Most Christian King decamped from Calken, passed the Schelde at Wetteren, and encamped that afternoon at Holftat, a Village on the other fide the Dender, a League from Alost, between that place and Dendermond, where his Camp still continues; but we are told that the King has taken a turn to Oudenarde, and that he will there expect the Answer of the States General of the United Provinces, to the Letter he lately writ to them, concerning the Peace, which all People believed to be very far advanced, and that this Court is likewise very much inclined to it. morning the Sieur Boreel, the States Deputy, returned hither from Holland, and has had a long Conference with his Excellency. We talk here much of a Cesfation of Arms; and the more, fince we understand that the French Army had yesterday Orders to decamp early this morning, but that they were last night countermanded. The Mareschal d'Humieres is advanced from Cambron Abby this way, and, as we hear, is encamped on this fide Ninoue at Wambec-Lambee, which hath given a great Alarm to the Countrey people, who come flying hither this afternoon with their Cattle,&c. This day our Mailtrede Camp General, and Prince Vaudemont, took a review of the Spanish Troops, which were all drawn together at Dighen near Vilvord, being in all not above 2000 Men. We are told from Liege, that the Mareschal de Schomberg is marching with his Army towards Maestricht, having passed the Meuse at Dinant, and was encamped the 24 at Spontin, betwixt the Meuse and the Ourt. And from Strasburgh we have an account, that the Duke of Lorrain had quitted the defign of besieging Friburg, and was resolved forthwith to pass the Rhine, to engage the Marcschal de Crequi, who continues encamped near Schlestadt, having fortified all the passages from thence as far as Benfeild, as also the other way towards the Mountains. The Marquis de Grana is arrived here this afternoon from the Hague.

Antwerp, May 27. Yesterday Count Egmont, Ambassador Extraordinary from Spain, embarked on the Yacht that was to transport him for England. The same day passed through this City on their way to the French Camp, the Trumpet that had carried a Letter from the King to the States General, with another Trumpet of the States, who, it's said, carried back an Answer to the said Letter. The French Army having passed the Schelde over several Bridges at Wetteren, marched towards the Dender, and encamped between Dendermond and Alost.

Bruges, May 28. The 25 inflant arrived here the Lord Allington's Regiment, together with 100 Recruits for those Companies of the Dukes Regiment that are here; and this day arrives the Lord O Brian's Regiment. This Garison here consists at present of 6000 M.n., of which 5000 are English. Our Letters from Ghent say, that a great number of Wagons and Pioneers are commanded to be in readiness. The French have ravaged 8 Villages of the Jurisdiction of Ghent, for Arrears of Contribution.

Hagar, May 27. On Tuesday the Stares of Holland reassembled, (the Members, as we told you in our last, having been to consult their Principals in so weighty a matter) and in the afternoun a Conference was held with the Mini'ers of the Allies residing here, to communicate to them, as is said, the Resolution of the States, upon the Letter they had received from the Most Christian King. And that evening, we are told, Orders were sent to the Heer Beverning, one of the Ambassadors of this State at N magnen, to part immediately, upon the receipt of them. from thence, on his way to the Most Christian Kings Court in Flanders and to represent to his Majesty the matters contained in his Instructions; and here is much discourse, asif a Cestation of Arms was designed by the States and the Allies. The next day the French Trumpet of two whom was made a Present of 100 Duckets was dispatched back, with another Trumpet of this State, who carried an Answer to the Letter the States had received from he King, signifying, among other things, their Resolution of sen ing Deputies to his Majesty. Iti, not to be thought, but that People here are in a very great impositence to se what their le of this great
in a very great impositence to se what their le of this great Affair will be, which all sorts of People wish may produce a Peace; though the L ters we receive from ugland say, that the preparations for War there, are continued with the same vigor, as formerly.

Paris, May 28 The last Letters we have from the Camp before Pullarda, ace of the 18 instant, thy say, that sive pieces of Cannon had for some sayes battered the place, but that the greatest shooting a Ball of 36 pounds, had been dismounted by the Besseged, and that the other four, being only 16 Pounders, did no great execution in the wall, where the breach was intended to be made, and therefore the Bessegers had wholly turned themselves to sapping and mining; that their first endeavors therein had been unsuccessful, the Miners having met with a hard Rock, so that they were fore d to go to work in some other place, and by that means time was lost. That at length they had fixed to two Bastons, that the 16 at night one Mine was sprung with very good success, but the second had a contrary essed, having buried 200 of our own men. The next morning a person was taken who endeavoured to get into the Town, his errand was to assure them of a relief the next day. Accordingly next morning several of the Enemies Troops appeared, and their design was to have thrown some men into the place, but the passages were everywhere so well secured, that they could not effect it. The last Letters we have from Germany, are of the 21, they tell us, that that day the Duke of Lorrain marched with the Imperial Army from Virisffe to Altenberm, with intention, as was believed, to pass the Rbine, upon which the Mareschal equi was likewise advan-

ged that way, to observe his motions.
