Madrid, December 26.

The first Care of his present Majesty, when he received the unwelcome News of his August Father's Death, was, that the Body should be interred with proper Solemnity and State. His Excellency the Marquis de Santa Cruz, Chief Steward of the King's Household, was appointed to conduct the Funeral Ceremony, and his Excellency the Marquis of Valdecasana, his Majesty's Chamberlain, to give the necessary Directions for the Delivery of the Body to the Chief Steward.

Their Excellencies the Marquis de Cogulludo, the Marquis de Villadarias, and the Dukes of Montelano, and Granada de Ega, Lords of the Bedchamber in Waiting, attended by Nine Gentlemen of the Bedchamber, laid out the Body in the Presence of the Chamberlain, placed on it the Ribbands and Collars of the different Orders of the Holy Ghost, Saint Januarius Constantine, the Golden Fleece, and Charles the Third, and laid it in a Lead Coffin, cased in a Wooden one, under Two Keys, and covered with a Tissue Cloth. On the 14th of December, at a Quarter past Five in the Evening, the Body was removed by the Lords in Waiting, summoned for the Purpose, and others in the Service of his Majesty, preceded by the Chamberlain, from his Majesty's Bedchamber
