W. Fawkener.

Whitehall, June 16.

The following Address of the Chancellor, Masters and Scholars of the University of Oxford, has been presented to His Majesty by the Vice-Chancellor and Delegates from the Convocation, being introduced by the Lord of His Majesty's Bedchamber in Waiting: Which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously:

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Chancellor, Masters and Scholars of the University of Oxford, impressed with a just Sense of your paternal Care and Solitude for the Security, Welfare and Happiness of your People; beg Leave to approach your Throne, with Hearts firmly and unalterably attached to your Sacred Person and Government, most gratefully to acknowledge your Majesty's Wisdom and Goodness in issuing your Royal Proclamation, to check and suppress those wicked and seditious Publications, which are disgraceful to every moral and civilized State, and which tend not only to the Destruction of Decency and good Order, but totally to subvert that necessary Subordination, which alone can give Strength and Efficacy to legal Authority.

Placed in a Seminary instituted for the Education and Instruction of Youth in the pure and unfulfilled Principles of the Civil and Religious Establishments of our Country, we feel ourselves in a peculiar Manner called upon to express our utter Abhorrence of all such bold and inflammatory Writings as are calculated to interrupt the present Peace and Harmony of the Wise and Virtuous, and which, by dissolving every sacred Tie, must eventually contribute to poison the Minds and corrupt the Hearts of the rising Generation.

Happy in the substantial Enjoyment of a Constitution (humanly speaking) the most pure and perfect, we view with Concern and Indignation the intemperate Zeal of wild Theorists, and will strenuously exert our utmost Efforts, directed and encouraged as we are by your Majesty's great Example, to transmit the same untainted and unimpaired to our latest Posterity.

Given at our House of Convocation, this 9th Day of June, in the Year of our Lord 1792.

The following Address of the Mayor, Bailiffs and Commonalty of the City of Winchester, has been presented to the King by Richard Gamon, Esq; One of their Representatives in Parliament, being introduced by the Lord of His Majesty's Bedchamber in Waiting: Which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Mayor, Bailiffs and Commonalty of the City of Winchester.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most loyal Subjects, the Mayor, Bailiffs and Commonalty of the City of Winchester, ever desirous to manifest our Duty and Attachment to your Majesty's Person and Government, most humbly beg Leave to offer to your Majesty our grateful Thanks, for having issued your Royal Proclamation to suppress certain seditious and dangerous Publications, tending to calumniate and subvert the happy Constitution secured to us by the glorious Revolution, and to lessen and depreciate the Blessings we enjoy under so rational and well poised a System of Government.

Grateful ourselves to that Providence which gave us Birth, in a Country where our Lives are protected, our Liberties defended, and our Property secured by Laws equally administered, under a mild and gracious Sovereign, we trust our Fellow Subjects, not less sensible of these Blessings, will never be induced by Pretences however specious, or Theories however plausible, to concur in any Measures to subvert that Constitution, from which we derive such inestimable Benefits; the Possession of which has, for more than a Century, rendered the Subjects of these your Majesty's Dominions the Envy and Admiration of surrounding Nations.

Given under our Common Seal, in our Council Chamber, this 9th Day of June, in the Year of our Lord 1792.

The following Address of the Bailiffs, Aldermen, Burgesses and Inhabitants of the Town of East Retford, has been presented to the King by Sir John Ingilby, Bart. One of their Representatives in Parliament, accompanied by Mr. Parker, Alderman of that Town, being introduced by the Lord of His Majesty's Bedchamber in Waiting: Which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Bailiffs, Aldermen, Burgesses and Inhabitants of the Town of East Retford in the County of Nottingham, beg Leave to approach your august Presence with Declarations of Attachment and Fidelity, more strongly cemented, if possible, by the gracious Regard evinced in your Royal Proclamation for the Continuance of these Blessings which have been the boasted Birthright of every honest Briton. We cannot express our Feelings on this momentous Occasion without reiterating those Sentiments of Loyalty so amply displayed in the Address of the Two Houses of Parliament: With them, with every good Subject, we will ever concur in maintaining Order and Decorum, so confessedly essential to the true Principles of our invaluable Constitution.

The following Address of the Gentlemen, Clergy, Merchants, Manufacturers, and other Inhabitants of the Town and Neighbourhood of Stockport in the County of Cheshire, has been presented to the King by the Right Honourable the Master the Rolls and Sir George Warren, Knight of the Bath, being introduced by the Lord of His Majesty's Bedchamber in Waiting: Which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Gentlemen, Clergy, Merchants, Manufacturers, and other Inhabitants of the Town and Neighbourhood of Stockport in the County of Cheshire.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Gentlemen, Clergy, Merchants, Manufacturers, and other Inhabitants of the Town and Neighbourhood of Stockport, beg Leave to express
