Whiteball, May 21.

THE following Address has been presented to the King: Which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty,

The humble Address of the Mayor, Aldermen, Common-Council, Freemen and Inhabitants of the Borough of Plymouth in the County of Devon.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Mayor, Aldermen, Common-Council, Freemen and other Inhabitants of the Borough of Plymouth, in the County of Devon, beg Leave to approach your Royal Presence with Sentiments of the most zealous Attachment to your Majesty's Person and Government, and to that happy Constitution, which has ever experienced in your Majesty a faithful Guardian and a decided Friend.

The Necessity of that awful Appeal, which has been made to the Sword, we at once acknowledge and lament: We have seen your Majesty compelled to it by the frantic Arrogance of a powerful and ambitious Neighbour, not only invading our Peace and that of our Allies, but, with an unexampled Insolence, decreeing the Subversion of the established Politics of Europe.

To curb the wild Exertions of this domineering Spirit in so formidable a Foe, we cannot but consider as the common Cause of Nations; and we rejoice therefore in that equal Wisdom and Vigour of your Majesty's Counsels, by which our Efforts have been so seasonably combined with those of a just and powerful Confederacy, for so salutary a Purpose.

We congratulate your Majesty on the late Repulse of the common Enemy from the Territories of our Allies; and we look with the greater Confidence for the Divine Blessing on our united Arms, convinced as we are that the Triumphs of the Combined Powers will have no Object but the Tranquillity of Europe.
