AT the Court at St. James's, the 18th of September, 1793.

P R E S E N T,

The KING's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS His Majesty was pleased, by His Order in Council bearing Date the Thirteenth of March, 1793, to order, that an Embargo should be forthwith laid upon all Ships or Vessels laden or to be laden in any of the Ports of Great Britain with Salted Provisions of any Kind whatsoever, and also upon all Ships and Vessels laden or to be laden with Butter and Cheese, Pease, Beans, Rice, Hay, Straw, or Forage of any Kind whatsoever; and with Hides or Leather manufactured or unmanufactured; but it was His Majesty's Pleasure, amongst other Things, that the said Embargo should not extend to any Ships or Vessels, being British Ships and Vessels, and navigated according to Law, which may be employed in carrying any of the Articles above-mentioned to any Country in or out of Europe, in Amity with His Majesty: And whereas it hath been represented, on Behalf of the Merchants concerned in the Exportation of Tanned Leather, and also of the Merchants concerned in the Exportation of Salted Pilchards, and other Salted Fish, that the Trade in the said several Articles will be greatly injured, if such Articles are not permitted to be exported in Foreign Ships, under proper Regulations; His Majesty, taking the same into Consideration, is pleased, by and with the Advice of His Privy Council, to order, and it is hereby ordered, that, from and after the Date hereof, the Exportation of Tanned Leather, and also of Salted Pilchards, and other Salted Fish, shall, notwithstanding the said

Order of the Thirteenth of March last, be permitted and allowed from any of the Ports in this Kingdom to any Country in or out of Europe, in Amity with His Majesty, in Foreign Ships or Vessels, provided the Merchant Exporter of any such Tanned Leather and Salted Pilchards, or other Salted Fish, do first make Oath of the true Destination of the same to the Places for which such Tanned Leather and Salted Pilchards, or other Salted Fish, shall be entered Outwards; before the Entry of the same shall be made, and do give full and sufficient Security by Bond, to the Satisfaction of the Commissioners of His Majesty's Customs, with Two sufficient Sureties, being known British Merchants, or other Persons of acknowledged Credit resident in this Kingdom, to be approved of by the proper Officers of the Customs, to carry the said Tanned Leather and Salted Pilchards, or other Salted Fish, to the Place for which the same are respectively entered Outwards, and to produce, within Twelve Months from the Date of the Bond, from the British Consul resident at the Port for which such Tanned Leather and Salted Pilchards, or other Salted Fish, shall be cleared out; or, in case there shall be no such Consul there resident, or he shall be absent from the same, then from Two British Merchants resident there, a Certificate or Certificates that such Tanned Leather and Salted Pilchards, or other Salted Fish, have been all duly delivered at the Ports for which the same were cleared out; and such Bonds or Securities shall not be cancelled or delivered up but on the Production of such Certificate or Certificates. And the Right Honorable the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury are to give the necessary Directions herein accordingly.

Whitehall, September 21.

THIS Morning one of His Majesty's Messengers arrived at the Office of the Right Honorable Lord Grenville, His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, with Dispatches from the Earl of Elgin, His Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary to the Court of Brussels, of which the following is an Extract.

St. Amand, September 16, 1793.

I Have the Honor of enclosing to your Lordship the Report of the Recapture of Menin, as sent in by General Beaulieu to Prince Cobourg.

September 15, 1793.

THIS Morning the French, to the Number of Twelve or Fourteen Thousand Men, advanced from Wevelghem to Bisseghem, where they attacked the Advanced Posts on the Left of General Beaulieu's Army. The Attack was brisk, and would have completely succeeded on the Side of the French, if General Beaulieu had not sent speedy and successive Reinforcements to the Post of Bisseghem. The French had then Recourse to their numerous Artillery, in order to dislodge the Austrians from their Position behind the Landerberg; and they would have been successful there, if they had not suddenly found their Left turned by a Body of Austrian Infantry, headed by Captain Malkisham, of the Regiment of Beaulieu, who attacked them with Cannon on the Left Flank, and also in the Rear. This Movement of the Austrians on the Left Flank of the French had such an Effect upon the latter, that they began to give Way. General Beaulieu then availing himself of this Circumstance, charged them in Front, and put them totally to Flight. They retreated towards Menin. General Beaulieu having collected his Cavalry, which had routed the French, waited for Reports from his Right, in order to be assured that he might pursue the Enemy without Interruption. The Reports arrived about One o'Clock, P. M. In consequence, General Beaulieu, without a Moment's Hesitation, marched towards Menin; the rather as he had learnt that General Ehrbach, with Four Battalions and Eight Squadrons, was on his March from Roulaer. In the Pursuit General Beaulieu's Advanced Guard had several Skirmishes, in which it had constantly the Advantage, repelling the Enemy quite to the Gates of Menin. At Four in the Afternoon General Beaulieu arrived with his whole Corps under the Walls of that Town, and attacked the French with Cannon; at the same Time he assaulted the Ramparts near the Gate of Roulaer, when the French, without any further Resistance, totally abandoned the Place, and passed the Lys with Precipitation, leaving at the Bridge only a weak Rear-Guard, which was entirely killed or taken by the Austrian Troops, who entered at the Gate of Courtray. In this Interval General Ehrbach arrived with his Corps, and immediately passed the Lys. Two English Squadrons joined the Austrian Hussars in the Pursuit of the French, who retreated towards Roncq. In this Action we lost about One Hundred Men, killed or wounded. The Loss of the French is between Four and Five Hundred Men. We are not able at present to compute the Number of Prisoners. At the Departure of the Messenger, who brought this agreeable Intelligence, about 150 were arrived in the Square of Menin, together with Two Pieces of Cannon, and Eighteen Ammunition Waggon.

Whitehall, September 21.

THE following Dispatch from Colonel Sir James Murray, Adjutant General to the Forces under the Command of His Royal Highness the Duke of York, was this Afternoon received at the Office of the Right Honorable Henry Dundas, His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department.

Menin, September 17, 1793.

S I R,

I HAD the Honor of informing you, that upon the Retreat of the Dutch Troops from Menin, His Royal Highness intended to march upon Thourout, in order to oppose the further Progress of the Enemy, and to act in Conjunction with General Beaulieu, who commanded a Corps of Austrians near Courtray.

This March was executed upon the 14th. Lieutenant-General Erbach, with Two Battalions of Austrians and Two of Hessian Infantry, and Four Squadrons of British Cavalry, under the Command of Major-General Harcourt, was ordered to advance the same Day to Roufelaire. Upon the 15th the Main Body of the Army advanced to Roufelaire, and Lieutenant-General Erbach's Corps to Ledeghem, it being His Royal Highness's Intention to attack the Enemy, and force them to repass the Lys. Information was received at Roufelaire of the Prince of Cobourg's being in March towards Lille with a large Body of Troops, which His Serene Highness had put in Motion, as soon as he had learnt that Menin was evacuated.

During the March of the Army, the Enemy had attacked General Beaulieu's Advanced Posts; Eight Battalions were sent to his Support; but the Enemy had been repulsed before their Arrival.

This appears to have been only intended to cover their Retreat, as they had begun to evacuate Menin early in the Morning. In the Course of the Day they entirely abandoned that important Post, which was taken Possession of in the Evening by Lieutenant-General Erbach. Yesterday the Army marched again: A Camp was taken near Menin, and the advanced Posts pushed on to Werwick, which the Enemy had likewise abandoned, so that by these Movements Austrian Flanders has been protected, and this Part of it recovered.

I have the Honor, &c.

J. A. MURRAY.

Admiralty Office, September 21.

A Letter hath this Day been received from Vice-Admiral Lord Hood, Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Ships and Vessels in the Mediterranean, to Mr. Stephens, dated on board the Victory, in the Outer Road of Toulon, the 1st Instant, of which the following is an Extract.

Yesterday Afternoon a Part of Carteaux's Army, consisting of 750 Men, approached near Toulon. Captain Elphinstone, whom I had appointed Governor of the Great Fort of Malgué and its Dependencies, marched out, at the Head of 600 Troops, and put it to the Rout, took Four Pieces of Cannon, their Ammunition, &c.

Herewith I have the Honor to send you Governor Elphinstone's Letter; and most exceedingly lament the Loss of a very excellent Officer, Major Douglas, whom I had appointed Fort-Major, and whose Zeal for going out with the Troops could not be restrained. The Ball entered his Breast, and was extracted at the Shoulder Blade. He died last Night.

Upon

Upon the Troops leaving the Fort, the appointed Signal was made for a Number of Seamen that were kept ready, and 400 were on Shore immediately, to put the Fort out of Danger.

Rear-Admiral Goodall has taken upon him the Charge and Command of Governor of Toulon, and Rear-Admiral Gravina that of Commandant of the Troops.

The Signal is, this Moment, for the Convoy's being in Sight, with a considerable Body of Spanish Troops, from the Army in Rouffillon.

Toulon, August 31, 1793.

MY LORD,

IN consequence of the Information I had the Honor to send your Lordship Yesterday Forenoon, and the repeated Applications which I had received from the Committee of War and Safety, I thought proper to send out a Patrole towards Ollouiles; to reconnoitre the Enemy and to examine their Force; at the same Time I ordered 300 British, and the same Number of Spanish Troops, to be under Arms, and I directed the Committee of War to furnish a Proportion of their best Troops, and Six Pieces of Cannon, with Ammunition and Waggon, to be in Readiness. About Three o'Clock the Patrole returned with some Peasants, who had been wounded by the Enemy's Dragoons, who informed me that certain Troops of Carteaux were posted at Senary and P'Ollouiles, about Five Miles from hence, to the Amount of 600 Men, with Ten Pieces of Cannon, and a few Cavalry: I instantly marched out with the British and Spanish Troops, taking the Road to Ollouiles, having Four Guides along with me (belonging to that Place) and having left Directions that the French Troops, with the Cannon, &c. should instantly follow. On the Road I met wounded Peasants, who informed me that their whole Force was now posted in Ollouiles. When we approached within Half a Mile of that Place, I observed a Party of the Enemy endeavouring to gain an Eminence on our Right. I detached Captain Haddon and Wemys, of the 11th Regiment of Foot, to prevent this, and to advance with their Parties, keeping Possession of the high Grounds, and sent Lieutenant Knight, with a Party of the same Regiment, on the like Service, to the Left, both of which Duties were admirably executed. I then advanced with the Aide du Camp to reconnoitre the Enemy's Situation, and found they were posted in the Village of P'Ollouiles, upon the Side of a steep Hill, a deep Ravine in their Front, with a Stone Bridge over it, defended with Two Pieces of Cannon, and the Windows filled with Musquetry; about Two Hundred Yards further up the Hill, at a ruinous Castle, there were Two more Pieces of Cannon, and the Walls of the Vineyards lined with Musquetry. It was now Half past Six in the Evening, without any Appearance of the French Troops or the Cannon from Toulon; it became therefore necessary, either to attack immediately or to retire: I preferred the former, and ordered the Flanking Patty to keep up an incessant Firing upon the Cannon at the Bridge; I then ordered the Column, under Cover of a Stone Wall, cautiously to advance within Two Hundred Yards, and then, being open to the Fire of the Enemy, to rush forward, which was executed under a very severe Fire; when the Enemy instantly abandoned their Posts, on all Quarters, leaving us in Possession of their Cannon, Horses and Ammunition, Two Stand of Colours, Drums, &c. They were pursued up a very steep Hill to the further End of the Village. It was now become nearly dark, and the Ammunition was expended, which induced me to order the Troops to occupy the Eminence, as we were in an unknown

Country, and abandoned by the Guides (who fled upon the first Fire. After halting for an Hour, I led the Troops back to Toulon, with the Prisoners and Cannon taken from the Enemy, and on the Road we met the French Troops and the Cannon, which ought to have left Toulon with us, but which unfortunately had been delayed. From the Information that we received in the Village, and from the Prisoners, we found that we had beaten the Elite of Carteaux' Army, consisting of between Seven and Eight Hundred Men and some Cavalry, which had been sent from Marseilles, for the Purpose of overawing Toulon, and that they expected to have been joined the next Day by 400 Men, and 8 Pieces of Cannon. In this little Affair, it becomes my Duty to inform your Lordship, that the Conduct of the Troops, those of His Majesty as well as those of the King of Spain, was highly meritorious. Captain Moncrief, of the 11th, Commandant of the British Troops, headed the Column with a Degree of Intrepidity worthy of Imitation; and Don Monteiro, Commandant of the Spanish Troops, conducted himself with equal Valour. But the Credit of the Day was chiefly derived from the great Exertion and gallant Behaviour of Captain Douglas, Town-Major of Toulon; and it is with Grief I add, that he was mortally wounded, and is since dead: In my Mind, the King's Service has sustained a great Loss. The Conduct of Ensign Forster, of the 30th Regiment, my Aide du Camp, was such as to give me the fullest Satisfaction, and hope will render him an Object of Attention.

I have the Honor to be,

My Lord,

Your Lordship's most obedient humble Servant,

G. K. ELPHINSTONE.
