And the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners of His Majesty's Treasury, the Commissioners for executing the Office of Lord High Admiral of Great Britain, and the Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports, are to give the necessary Directions herein, as to them may respectively appertain.

Horse-Guards, August 1.

DISPATCHES from General the Honorable Sir John Vaughan, dated Martinico the 22d and 23d of June, 1795, of which the following are Extracts, have been received by the Right Honorable Henry Dundas, one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State.

" I have the infinite Concern I acquaint you, that Brigadier-General Stewart was under the Necessity of evacuating the Island of St. Lucia on the 19th Instant.

The natural Strength of Morne Fortune had encouraged me to hope that I should be able to maintain that Post until the Arrival of a Reinforcement; but by the Capture of Pigeon Island, when least expected, and the subsequent Loss of the Vigie on the 17th Instant, on which alone depended our uninterrupted Communication with the Carenage, this Evacuation was judged absolutely unavoidable. It accordingly took Place on the Evening of the 18th, and was happily effected undiscovered by the Enemy.

We are indebted to the great Assiduity and uncommon Exertions of Captain Barrett, of His Majesty's Ship Experiment, that the Garrison was brought off with the Loss of only a few Sick, who were unavoidably left behind."

" I have the Honor to forward you by this Opportunity some Letters and Papers, which will give you a full Account of the Success that has so happily attended His Majesty's Arms in the Island of Dominique.

The whole Body of the Enemy, amounting to 400, having consented to become Prisoners of War, has relieved us from the Anxiety we were under for the Fate of that Island."

Extract of a Letter from Lieutenant-Colonel Edward Madden to General the Honorable Sir John Vaughan, dated Prince Rupert's, June 22, 1795.

" I have the Pleasure to inform your Excellency, that Captain Bathe, having made a most judicious Disposition of his Detachment, so as nearly to surround the Enemy in both their Encampments, on the 17th Instant the first Encampment sent in a Flag, requesting Liberty to lay down their Arms, which Captain Bathe assented to. The Conditions have not been as yet reported to me.—Captain Bathe on the 19th Instant sent a Flag to the second Encampment, offering the same Terms that had been granted to the first, which they immediately submitted to.—I have now Twenty-five Officers Prisoners here, Two they call Generals, and Two Hundred and Forty-nine Rank and File. I am informed that Captain Bathe, who is still in Camp, has Seventy-nine more with him.—There are a Number of them dispersed in Two's and Three's in the Woods, that the English Negroes are in Pursuit of, and are hourly bringing some in.—I am sending out small Parties of Militia (who have behaved uncommonly well) to the different Parishes, in order to root them out entirely, and hope very soon to have to report to your Excellency that there is not a Brigand in the Island."

Extract of a Letter from Lieutenant-Colonel Madden to General the Honorable Sir John Vaughan, dated Prince Rupert's, June 27, 1795.

" I have the Pleasure to inform your Excellency, that the Invasion of and the Rebellion in this Island is now entirely settled, every Frenchman that landed being either killed or Prisoner, and the Inhabitants of the rebellious Parishes sent Prisoners to Roseau, there to be disposed of by the Governor.

The Enemy made a third and a fourth Expedition against this Part of the Island, but perceiving that we were prepared to give them a proper Reception, they returned to Marie Galante, firing a Gun and shewing National Colours.

Horse Guards, August 1, 1795.

By Dispatches received from General the Honorable Sir John Vaughan, dated Martinico, the 28th of June, it appears, that in the Island of Grenada the White French People, who had joined the Brigands, were daily surrendering themselves at the British Out-Posts; that in the Windward Part of the Island most of the Negroes had returned to their Estates, and on some were making Sugar; that a Party of the Brigands, consisting of picked Men, with their Chief Fedon at their Head, had been routed with considerable Slaughter by a Detachment of His Majesty's Troops under the Command of Lieutenant Hinuber, of the 68th Regiment. In this Action Lieutenant Darling, of the 9th Regiment, and 4 Privates, were slightly wounded.

By a Letter from Lieutenant Colonel Leighton to General Sir John Vaughan, dated St. Vincent's, the 23d of June, it appears, that on the 12th of that Month the Enemy's Post on the Vigie had been carried by Assault, and that the Commandant was wounded and taken. The Enemy are said to have left in this Affair 250 Men. The Loss of the British consisted of

Killed,

Captain Piguet, of the 60th Regiment, and 9 Privates.

Wounded,

Captains Law and Forster, of the 16th Regiment. Lieutenant Tomson, of the 60th, 1 Serjeant and 46 Privates.

It is further stated, that very few of the French, who had taken Part with the Charaibs, were left throughout the Island; and that Lieutenant-Colonel Leighton, after this Success, had advanced into the Charaib Country, and taken Post on Mount Young.

Admiralty-Office, August 1.

DISPATCHES have been received from Sir J. B. Warren, Bart. K. B. dated La Pomone, at Sea, July 24, 1795, stating, that the Peninsula of Quiberon, with Fort Penhievre, which had been taken Possession of by the French Regiments in the Pay of Great Britain on the 3d of that Month, was surprized by the Enemy on the Night of the 21st. It appears, appears, that owing to the Desertion and treacherous Behaviour of some private Soldiers belonging to some of the Regiments above mentioned, the Enemy were enabled to get Possession of the Fort before any effectual Disposition of Resistance could be made. A Part of the Troops, to the Amount of about 900, together with near 1500 of the Royalist Inhabitants, who had joined the Regiments in the Pay of Great Britain, effected their Embarkation on Board the Ships. The Remainder fell into the Hands of the Enemy, together with such Stores and Ammunition as had been landed. A great Proportion of the principal Articles were, however, still on Board the Transports which accompanied the Expedition. The Squadron proceeded to the Islands of Houat and Hedic, where the Troops were landed.

Barcelona, June 20.

On the 4th Instant the Enemy attacked the Spaniards towards Rivas, and on the 7th near Befalu, but were repulsed in both Places with considerable Loss. On the 14th, at Day-Light, upon the Appearance of some considerable Bodies of the Enemy, the whole Spanish Line was got under Arms, and quickly after General Urrutia, seeing the advanced Posts to the Right and Left engaged, passed the River with the whole Center, except a Reserve, on the Bridge just finished at Biscara. This Passage was opposed by a very smart Fire of Cannon and Howitzers, placed in advantageous Situations, but the Enemy were nevertheless attacked and driven from all the Posts they occupied in about Two Hours, during a violent Storm of Wind, Thunder and Rain, and pursued to within Musket-Shot of their Camps. The Whole of the Spanish Line was formed in Battle beyond the Hermitage of Pontos, and then retired and repassed the River, after having taken all the Artillery which the Enemy had with them, viz. 1 Eight-Pounder, 1 Four and 1 Republican Two Pounder, 2 Six-Pound Howitzers, with their respective Ammunition Carts; the Camp Kettles and Messes, and a Quantity of Blankets and Hand-Barrows. When the greater Part of the Spanish Troops had repassed the River, the Enemy appeared again, and attacked those that were yet on the other Side; upon which a Second Action took Place, and was still more obstinately disputed than the former. This Second Action began about One o'Clock; at Three the French retreated precipitately, but the Spanish Light Troops pursued and harassed them till Six, when the whole Army retired across the Fluvia.

Though no correct Statement has been received of the Loss, on the Side of the Spaniards, in the Action of the 14th, it may be computed, according to the different Accounts, to amount to 36 Officers and about 700 Men killed and wounded. The Regiment Fixo de Malaga is said to have suffered much, having borne, with great Firmness, the Fire of Two of the Enemy's Batteries for a considerable Time. The most considerable Loss, on the Part of the French, was on the Right, where the Spanish Cavalry passed the River, and attacked the Division of the Enemy, commanded by General Sorot, encamped at Castillon, consisting of near 6000 Men: They were thrown into Confusion, and killed in great Numbers by the Spanish Horse, who made no Prisoners: They left a Number of their Dead on the Roads, but carried off the greater Part of their Wounded. All the Spies and Deserters agree in the Report that the Enemy lost about 2,000 Men.

According to the Officer's Report, 25,000 Men had, in the Evening of the 13th, taken the Posts which they occupied the next Morning, in order to protect a general Harvest of Wheat in Lampourdan; 600 Reapers were brought for this Purpose out of Roussillon, and the Troops had Orders to keep their Position to the last Extremity.

Genoa, June 30.

Intelligence has been received here, that, on the 24th Instant, General De Vins had attacked and carried the different Posts of the Madonna del Monte, from which the French, stationed on the Heights behind Vado, had attempted in vain to dislodge him; that Two Battalions of Thourn and a Division of Croats of Carlstadt, commanded by General Cantu and Lieutenant-Colonel Marquette, had attacked and driven the French from their strong Intrenchments on the Mountain of St. Giacomo; that Two Companies of the free Corps of Julay had also carried the French Intrenchments on the Mountain of Settepani; that General De Vins, having driven the Enemy from all those Posts, had established himself on the Sea-Coast between Savona and Vado; and that on the Night of the 28th the French had abandoned their Intrenchments at Vado, and fallen back upon Finale, leaving behind them Thirty Pieces of Cannon and Two considerable Magazines of Provisions and Forage.

It appears that General Colli, at the Head of the Piemontese Army, has attacked the French on the Side of Ormea, and succeeded in driving them from several very important Posts, particularly from that of Spinarda.
