THEIR Majesties and Their Royal Highnesses the Princesses set out from Gloucester Lodge, Weymouth, a little after Five o'Clock this Morning, and arrived here a little after Six o'Clock in the Afternoon.

Downing-Street, September 20, 1796.

THE Dispatches, of which the following are Copies, have been received from Robert Craufurd, Esq; by the Right Honorable Lord Grenville, His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

Head Quarters of His Royal Highness the Archduke Charles of Austria, Lauffen, August 27, 1796.

MY LORD,

I Have the Honor to inform your Lordship, that the Main Body of the Austrian Army of the Upper Rhine passed the Danube at Donawert on the 13th Instant, and halted near that Place on the 14th; the Rear Guards still occupying the Road leading from Norlingen and Hockstadt to Donawert, the former at the Defile of Haarbarg, the latter at a Village about a League Eastward of Blenheim.

On the 15th, His Royal Highness, leaving General La Tour with a considerable Part of the Army of the Upper Rhine, to defend the Lech, marched with the Remainder down the Right of the Danube, with an Intention of re-crossing it, in order to operate against General Jourdan's Right Flank, whilst General Wartenleben should advance and attack his Front. The Rear Guards were of course withdrawn from the above-mentioned Posts, and Donawert evacuated in the Course of the Day.

When His Royal Highness commenced this Manoeuvre, General Wartenleben was in the Position near Amberg. To turn the Left of this Position, General Jourdan had detached a considerable Column on the great Road leading from Nuremberg, through Newmark, to Ratiibon; and, in order to oppose this Column, Major-General Nauendorf was advancing from the latter Place with a Corps of Four of the Battalions newly arrived from Austria and some Light Troops.

On the 17th the Troops, which the Archduke had brought from the Army of the Upper Rhine; re-passed the Danube, in Two Columns, at Neuburg and Ingolstadt, and encamped near those Places, the latter of which being capable of Defence, and important from its Situation on the River, a Garrison was thrown into it. The Column that passed at Neuburg was commanded by Lieutenant-General Hotze.

On the 18th the Troops halted.

The Intention was to proceed from hence with the Right Column from Ingolstadt towards Bilsgriefs; and Lieutenant-General Hotze's considerably further to the Left; but, in the Night from the 18th to the 19th, Intelligence was received that General Wartenleben had been obliged to quit the Position of Amberg, and return behind the Nab.

The above-mentioned projected Movement of the Archduke's Corps now became very dangerous, as its Communication with General Wartenleben would have been in the greatest Degree precarious, and its Retreat, in case of Defeat, (being cut off, as it might have been, from the Road to Ratiibon) extremely difficult. His Royal Highness therefore directed his March more to the Right, and arrived on the 20th Instant with his Right Column at Hemman. From this Time Major-General Nauendorf's Corps, which advanced the same Day to the Heights of of Tafwang, formed His Royal Highness's advanced Guard. Lieutenant-General Hotze's Corps marched towards Beilugrieffs.

By this March the Archduke secured the Road to Ratibon, and the Right Flank of Jourdan's Army was equally threatened; he having advanced to the Nab.

A heavy Cannonade, heard in the Direction of Schwartzfeld on the 20th Instant, and other Reasons, made it necessary to proceed but slowly until more certain Intelligence of General Wartensleben's Situation could be obtained, and a combined Plan of Attack finally arranged. The above-mentioned Cannonade afterwards proved to have been an Affair of no Importance.

On the 22d the Enemy's Corps, which had advanced from Neumark, and taken Post behind a deep Ravine, through which the great Road passes near the Village of Teining; was attacked by the advanced Guard under General Nauendorf, and obliged to quit it's Position and retreat towards Neumark.

On the 23d the Archduke and Lieutenant-General Hotze's Corps, having reunited, advanced in several Columns, and drove the Enemy from their Position behind Neumark. General Hotze pursued them to within a League of Aldorf, and at the same Time pushed forward a considerable Column of Cavalry, and some Light Infantry, under Major-General Prince John of Lichtenstein, on the great Road towards Nuremberg.

The Right Column of the Archduke's Corps encamped near Neumark.

On the 24th the long-intended combined Operation took Place against General Jourdan's Army. This Operation was performed in Seven Columns. That of the Right of General Wartensleben's Army advanced towards Weger; another large Column proceeded from Schwartzfeld, having a third smaller Force to its Left, and a Fourth advanced from Swandorf towards Amberg, in the Neighbourhood of which Place the Three latter Columns were to unite, and that of the Left to form a Junction with the Archduke's Right, which proceeded from Neumark, by Castell, to Amberg, having Two strong Corps to the Left, of which the one under Lieutenant-General Staray advanced to Herfchpruck, and the other under Lieutenant-General Hotze to Lauffen. This excellent Disposition would certainly have been followed by a very decisive Battle, had not the Enemy, alarmed at the menacing Movements of the Archduke's Corps, retreated so precipitately as to make it impossible. Their Loss must, however, have been considerable; and Two Battalions of their Rear Guard, which defended as long as possible the Defile of Amberg, were completely annihilated by some Squadrons of Austrian Cavalry. The different Corps encamped in the Evening in the Neighbourhood of Amberg, Herfchpruck, Lauffen, &c. General Jourdan is continuing his Retreat towards Forchheim.

Whilst these Operations were carrying on, General Moreau crossed the Danube at Donawert, and acted with his whole Army against General La Tour, who has been obliged to quit the Position of the Lech, and on the 24th took another behind the Iser. General La Tour's Loss has been very inconsiderable; although the great Superiority of the Enemy obliged him to retreat.

Thus, my Lord, have I endeavoured to give your Lordship an accurate Account of the late Events and Movements; and it is with the deepest Concern I must conclude it by informing your Lordship that my Brother, Lieutenant-Colonel Craufurd, was unfortunately wounded and taken on the 25th Instant.

The Archduke has been pleased to write to General Jourdan, reclaiming him; and I have no Doubt of their giving him up, as it would be contrary to every Rule to detain a Person as Prisoner of War, who was not, at the Time of his being taken, employed in a Military Capacity.

It is impossible for me to express to your Lordship how much the Archduke, and, I may say, all the principal Officers of the Army, have shewn themselves interested about Colonel Craufurd; nor can I conclude without assuring your Lordship that his being taken was not owing to any Imprudence; though, indeed, his Conduct, ever since he has had the Honor of being attached to the Austrian Army, has been marked by that conspicuous Zeal, Activity and Courage, which he cannot help displaying, even when only a Spectator of Military Operations.

I have the Honor, &c.

(Signed) ROBERT CRAUFURD.

Head Quarters of His Royal Highness the Archduke Charles of Austria, Bamberg, August 31, 1796.

MY LORD,

I Have the Honor to inform your Lordship, that after the Affair of the 24th Instant, General Jourdan continued his Retreat in several Columns through Velden, Pegnitz, &c. in the general Direction of Ebermantadt and Forchheim, he has been closely pursued by the Archduke's Army, under which Denomination I comprise that lately commanded by General Wartensleben, as well as those Troops which His Royal Highness brought with him from the Danube.

On the 25th Instant the Advanced Guard, under Lieutenant-General Kray, marched by Sultzbach to Hohenstadt, and a considerable Column of the Enemy's Baggage was taken or destroyed in the Defile between that Place and Velden. The Troops which had encamped the preceding Evening near Amberg, followed General Kray's March, and the Archduke took his Head Quarters at Sultzbach.

On the 26th Lieutenant-General Kray pursued the Enemy in the Direction towards Graffenberg, and Lieutenant-General Hotze advanced from Lauffen towards Erlangen on the Rednitz; the former having his Right covered by Major-General Elfnitz, in the Neighbourhood of Velden, Neuhang, Blech, &c. as had the latter his Left by Major-General the Prince of Lichtenstein, who had passed through Nuremberg. The Archduke's Columns marched from the Camp of Sultzbach to Herfpruck on the Pegnitz.

On the 27th Lieutenant-General Hotze, having crossed the Rednitz, moved towards Hochstadt on the Aisch, Prince Lichtenstein's Corps forming his advanced Guard, Lieutenant-General Kray's Corps marched marched to Graffenberg, Betzenstein, &c. and the Army from Herspruck to Lauffen.

On the 28th the Prince of Lichtenstein's Light Troops approached on the Left Bank of the Rednitz, very near to Bamberg. Lieutenant-General Kray marched to Neukirch, and the Archduke to Heroldsberg.

On the 29th, upon the Approach of the Advanced Guard, the Enemy abandoned precipitately the strong Fort of Forcheim, setting Fire to the Mills and Bridges on the Wisent to cover their Retreat. Their Rear Guard, consisting of nearly a Division, took Post in the Night with it's Left to the Heights of Eggesheim, and it's Right to the Rednitz, on the Road from Forcheim towards Bamberg. The Army encamped between Baiersdorf and Forcheim.

Early on the Morning of the 30th, Lieutenant-General Kray moved forward to attack the Enemy in their Positions near Eggesheim, but they abandoned it so quickly that no serious Affair could be engaged, nor could the Column, which had been sent through the Mountains to turn their Left, arrive in Time to fall upon their Retreat, so that their Loss was not considerable. Lieutenant-General Kray pursued them towards Bamberg, and the Archduke took his Head Quarters at Hirschaid. On the Left of the Rednitz Lieutenant-General Hotze advanced to Burg Eberach, pushing forward his Advanced Guard under the Prince of Lichtenstein to Eltman on the Meyn. Lieutenant-General Staray's Corps, which had followed General Hotze's March, advanced to Closter Eberach. Very early on the Morning of the 30th, Jourdan's Army, that is, the heavy Artillery, &c. began to cross the Meyn, at Hallstau.

During the Whole of the Operations which I have had the Honor of desiring to your Lordship in this and my last Dispatch, His Royal Highness's great Aim has been to bring General Jourdan to a decisive Battle; but the bad Roads and Defiles the Troops had to pass between the Danube and Amberg considerably retarding their March, gave Jourdan Time to get off; and he has since succeeded in avoiding a general Engagement, wherein he has been greatly favoured by the Nature of the Country, which is so extremely hilly, woody and intersected, as to make it impracticable to employ the Cavalry.

Notwithstanding it is much to be regretted that it was not possible to bring the Enemy to a general Battle, yet there are strong Reasons to hope that those masterly Manœuvres, by which the Archduke has forced them to so sudden a Retreat, and has already driven them considerably out of the Direction which Jourdan undoubtedly must have wished to take, may ultimately have as happy an Effect upon the general Issue of the Campaign, as they, at all Events, will be honorable to His Royal Highness.

I am not yet enabled to inform your Lordship of the Number of Prisoners made by the different Columns: A considerable Number were taken on the 23d in the Affair near Neumark, and in the Affair of Amberg there were between Nine Hundred and a Thousand. Of what has been taken since I shall have the Honor to acquaint your Lordship in my next.

A Corps under Major-General Nauendorff was detached on the 25th Instant to reinforce General La Tour, who is behind the Iser.

On the 27th Colonel Craufurd was left behind by the French, with a Safeguard, at Betzenstein, they having found it impossible to transport him any further without endangering his Life; they exacted his Parole not to serve against the Republic till exchanged, which will, I believe, take Place immediately. He has been most severely wounded in the Head by a Musket Ball, but I have the Happiness to inform your Lordship that the Archduke's own Surgeon, whom His Royal Highness (whose Goodness on this Occasion has been great indeed) was pleased to send to him, as well as the other Surgeons who attend him, give me the greatest Reason to hope for his Recovery.

In case of my Absence from the Army for a few Days, Captain Anstruther of the Guards, who came lately from Berlin, will have the Honor of informing your Lordship of every Thing that happens.

I have the Honor to be, &c.

Whitehall, September 13, 1796.

Whereas it has been humbly represented to the King, that, on the Afternoon of June the 11th, Mr. William Stephens, an Officer of Excise, accompanied by an Expectant, came up with Two Men on Horseback, on the Road between Penryn and Gweek, one of whom had a single Horse, the other Two Ankers, which the Officers supposing to contain smuggled Spirits, attempted to seize, when One of the Offenders immediately cocked his Gun, and presented it at Stephens, swearing, with horrid Imprecations, that if he attempted to touch it he would shoot him. That at this Time Three more Men had come to the Smugglers Assistance, armed with large Bludgeons, which obliged the Officers to desist, and as they were going off one of the Offenders fired at them, and lodged several Shots in the said Stephens's Hat.

His Majesty, for the better apprehending and bringing to Justice the Persons concerned in the daring Outrage above-mentioned, is hereby pleased to promise His most gracious Pardon to any one of them (except the Person who actually fired the said Gun) who shall discover his or their Accomplice or Accomplices therein, so that he or they may be apprehended and convicted thereof.

PORTLAND.

And, as a further Encouragement, a Reward of TWO HUNDRED POUNDS is hereby offered to any Person or Persons making such Discovery as aforesaid, (except as is before excepted) to be paid upon the Conviction of any one or more of the Offenders.
