Whitehall, May 29, 1798.

DISPATCHES, of which the following are Copies, have been received from His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland by his Grace the Duke of Portland, His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department.

Dublin Castle, May 24, 1798.

My Lord,

THE Intelligence contained in my last Dispatches must have prepared your Grace to hear of some Attempts being made by the Rebels to carry their traitorous Designs into Execution before every Possibility stability of Success was destroyed by the vigorous Measures which have lately been pursued.

For some Days Orders had been issued by the Leaders of the United Irishmen, directing their Partizans to be ready at a Moment's Notice, as the Measures of Government made it necessary for them to act immediately. Yesterday Information was received, that it was probable the City and the adjacent Districts would rise in the Evening; subsequent Information confirmed this Intelligence. In consequence of which, Notice was sent to the General Officers in the Neighbourhood, and Dublin was put in a State of Preparation. The Measures taken in the Metropolis prevented any Movement whatsoever, but I am concerned to acquaint your Grace, that Acts of open Rebellion were committed in the Counties of Dublin, Meath and Kildare. About Half past Two o'Clock this Morning, there was a regular Attack made by a Rebel Force upon the Town of Naas, where Lord Gosford commanded, with Part of the Armagh Militia, and Detachments of the 4th Dragoon Guards, and Ancient Britons. The Rebels consisted of about a Thousand Men, armed with Muskets and Pikes, and they made their Attack with Regularity, but were soon repulsed by the Armagh Militia, and then charged, and pursued by the 4th Dragoon Guards and Ancient British, and I understand their Loss amounted to near 200. Two Officers and a few Privates have been lost of His Majesty's Forces. It gives me pain to relate that a small Detachment at the Town of Prosperous has been surprized, and a Detachment at the Village of Clare cut their Way to Naas, with some Loss. There was also an Attack on a small Party of the 9th Dragoons, near Kilkullen, which suffered; but in the Course of the Day, General Dundas was enabled to come up with a considerable Body of the Rebels near the Hills of Killcullen, where they were entirely routed with the Loss of Two Hundred Men. There were also several Bodies collected last Night in different Parts near Dublin, which were attacked by the Rathfarnham Cavalry, and by a Detachment of the 5th Dragoons, and dispersed with some Loss, and some Prisoners and Horses were taken. A Rebel Party however assembled at the Borders of the County of Dublin, near Dunboyne, and overpowered some Constables, and afterwards took the Baggage of Two Companies, guarded by a small Party of the Reay Fencibles, coming to Town, and have, during the Course of this Day, committed many outrages, several of them however have been killed, but the Body remains undispersed. The City is tranquil, and I have no doubt will remain so this Evening, and I trust that To-morrow we shall entirely disperse that Body of the Insurgents which has not been entirely routed To-day.

I must add, that the Mail Coach going to the North was attacked, within a few Miles of Dublin, by a select Body, well armed; the Passengers were taken and the Coach burned. The Galway Mail-Coach was also attacked in the Town of Lucan, but the Rebel Party was driven off before its Destruction was effected.

In consequence of this desperate Conduct of the Rebellious, I issued the inclosed Proclamation, with the Advice of the Privy Council.

I shall in a future Dispatch detail to your Grace the particular Services which have been performed, but at present I am not furnished with regular Reports, except from Lord Gosford, who appears to have acted with great Firmness and Decision.

I am, &c. &c.

CAMDEN.

*Extract of a Letter from Lord Viscount Gosford, Colonel of the Armagh Militia, and Major
 Wardle, of the Ancient British Light Dragoons, to Lieutenant General Lake, dated Naas, Thursday Morning, Eight o'Clock, 24th May, 1798.*

THIS Morning about Half past Two o'Clock, a Dragoon from an Out post came in, and informed Major Wardle, of the Ancient British, that a very considerable armed Body were approaching rapidly upon the Town. The whole Garrison were instantly under Arms, and took up their Positions according to a Plan previously formed, in case of such an Event happening. They made the Attack upon our Troops, posted near the Gaol, with great Violence, but were repulsed. They then made a general Attack in almost every Direction, as they had got Possession of almost every Avenuc into the Town. They continued to engage the Troops for near Three Quarters of an Hour, when they gave Way, and fled on all Sides. The Cavalry immediately took Advantage of their Confusion, charged in almost every Direction, and killed a great Number of them. A great Quantity of Arms and Pikes were taken; and within this Half Hour many Hundreds more were brought in, found in Pits near the Town, together with Three Men, with Green Cockades, all of whom were hanged in the public Street. We took another Prisoner, whom we have spared, in consequence of his having given us Information that will enable us to pursue these Rebels; and from this Man we learn that they were above a Thousand strong. They were commanded, as this Man informs us, by Michael Reynolds, who was well mounted, and dressed in Yeoman Uniform, but unfortunately made his Escape; his Horse we have got.

When we are able to collect further Particulars you shall be made acquainted with them. About Thirty Rebels were killed in the Streets; in the Fields we imagine above an Hundred; their Bodies have not yet been brought together.

It is impossible to say too much of the Cavalry and Infantry; their Conduct was exemplary throughout.

By the LORD LIEUTENANT and COUNCIL of IRELAND.

A P R O C L A M A T I O N,

CAMDEN.

HIS Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, by and with the Advice of the Privy Council, has issued Orders to ALL the General Officers commanding His Majesty's Forces, to punish all Persons acting, aiding, or in any Manner assisting in the Rebellion which now exists within this Kingdom, and has broken out in the most daring and violent Attacks upon His Majesty's Forces, according to Martial Law, either by Death or otherwise, wife, as to them shall seem right and expedient for the Punishment and Suppression of all Rebels in their several Districts; of which all His Majesty's Subjects are hereby required to take Notice.

Dublin Castle, May 24, 1798.

My Lord,

I Have the Honor to send your Grace a Copy of a Message which I sent this Day to both Houses of Parliament, in consequence of the Proclamation referred to in my other Dispatch of this Date; and I request you will lay the same before His Majesty.

Both Houses of Parliament have unanimously voted Addresses in Answer to the said Message, which I shall have the Honour to transmit to you Tomorrow, with an Account of what passed in each House upon the Occasion.

I have the Honor to be, with the greatest Truth and Respect,

My Lord,

Your Grace's most obedient humble Servant,

CAMDEN.

His Grace the Duke of Portland, Esq. &c. &c.

CAMDEN,

I HAVE thought it my indispensable Duty, by and with the Advice of the Privy Council, under the present Circumstances of this Kingdom, to issue a Proclamation, a Copy of which I have ordered to be laid before the House of Commons.

Dublin Castle, 24th May, 1798.

Dublin Castle, May 25, 1798, Half past Three,
P. M.

*Extract of a Letter from Lieutenant-General Dundas to Lord Viscount Castlereagh, dated Naas,
May 25, 1798.*

IN Addition to the Account which I had the Honor of sending you Yesterday, I have the Satisfaction to inform your Lordship, that about Two P. M. Yesterday I marched out again to attack the Rebels, who had assembled in great Force on the North Side of the Liffey, and were advancing towards Kilcullen Bridge: They occupied the Hills on the Left of the Road leading to Dublin, the Road itself and the Fields highly inclosed, on the Right. The Attack began between Three and Four; was made with Gallantry; the Infantry forcing the Enemy on the Road, and driving them from the Hills on the Left; the Cavalry, with equal Success, cutting off their Retreat. The Affair ended soon after Four. The Slaughter was considerable for such an Action; One Hundred and Thirty lay dead. No Prisoners.

I have the further Satisfaction of stating to your Lordship; that His Majesty's Troops did not suffer in either Killed or Wounded. The Rebels left great Quantities of all Kinds of Arms behind them, and fled in all Directions.

This Morning all is in perfect Quietness. General Wilford, from Kildare, joined me last Night; an Officer with whom I serve with unspeakable Satisfaction.

The Troops of every Description, both Officers and Men, shewed a Degree of Gallantry which it was difficult to restrain within prudent Bounds.

Captain La Touche's Corps of Yeomanry distinguished themselves in a high Style.

Lord Chamberlain's Office, May 26, 1798.

SUCH Ladies as desire to dance Minuets at the Ball which is to be at St. James's on Monday the 4th of June next, are requested to send their Names and Rank, in Writing, to this Office, on or before Friday the 1st of June, and to send for their Tickets the next Day (Saturday) between the Hours of Ten in the Morning and Two in the Afternoon.

And to prevent the Inconveniencies which have arisen from the Space before their Majesties, which is allotted for Minuet Dancing, being exceedingly crowded, it is requested that those Ladies only who mean to dance will send for Dancers Tickets, and sit in those Places, as the Seats have been found too few to accommodate the Dancers.

DUCHY OF CORNWALL.

May 10, 1798.

THE Prince of Wales has been graciously pleased to signify his Commands to the Council of His Royal Highness, that Renewals of the Leasehold and Copyhold Estates of the Duchy of Cornwall shall pass, WITHOUT FINE, for replacing any Life or Lives that may happen to be lost thereon, in the Defence of the Country, in case of an Invasion.

GRAY and BIRCH, Clerks of the Council.
