The numerous and splendid Instances of Success, which, under the Direction of Divine Providence, have distinguished the eminent Exertions of your Majesty's Naval Commanders, have hitherto been observed by us with filent Admiration; but the recent signal Victories, so highly important to ourselves, and so beneficial to other Nations, will suffer us no longer to restrain our earnest Wishes of thus probledy manifesting to your Majesty the unseigned I in which we can ity participate with the most prolicly manifelting to your Majesty the unseigned it in which we can ily participate with the most is of your Mejary's Subjects.

The very important Advantages arising to these Kingdoms from such happy Events, it is difficult for us to calculate; but whilst the Enemy, with unremitting Industry, has been endeavouring to spread Sedition in every Country, we have perceived, with the sincerest Satisfaction, that your Majesty's Subjects, sensible of the Blessings which they enjoy under your good and virtuous Government, have shood forth with an undaunted Zeal to defend your Throng, and repel the Insults of a haughty Foe.

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

TYE, the Mayor, Bailiffs, and Commonalty of the City of Oxford, in Common-Council affembled, ever anxious to evince our Loyalty to your Majesty, beg Leave to approach your Royal Person with our most fincere Congratulations upon the Victorics lately obtained by your Majesty's Fleets over the Power of France.

So decifive have these Victories been, and so important will necessarily be their Consequences, that whilst we gratefully admire the almost unexampled Skill and Valour displayed by your Majesty's Forces on the glorious Oceasions, we are induced also, with well-founded Considence, to look forward, not only to the immediate Safety of the British Empire from the Attacks with which is hath been threatened and affailed by an implacable Foe, but in a more comprehensive View to regard, as further removed from impending Destruction; the System, so long established in Europe, of religious Belief and well-ordered Government. Animated by the successful Stand which your Majesty has made in Desence of the Independence and Rights of your Crown, we trust that other States will catch a similar Spirit, and exert a similar Degree of Perseverance.

We pray the Almighty that He will prosper with equal Favour your Majesty's Arms until it shall please Him to restore unto us, on a secure and permanent Basis, the Blessings of Peace: and that He will so far more peculiarly bless us your Majesty's Subjects, as to prolong, to a distant Period, your Majesty's Reign, under which we feel and know have been preserved inviolate our Civil and Religious Liberties, and in the fullest Persection have been all-ministered the invaluable Blessings of a free Constitution.

Given under our Common Seal, this 31st Day of October, 1798, and in the Thirty-ninth Year of your Majesty's Reign. Signed by Order, Taunton, Town Clerk.
