

The London Gazette.

Published by Authority.

From Saturday January 26, to Tuesday January 29, 1799.

Dublin-Castle, January 22, 1799.

THIS Day his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant went in State to the House of Peers, and being seated on the Throne with the usual Solemnity, Thomas Lindsay, Esq; Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, was sent with a Message from his Excellency to the House of Commons, signifying his Pleasure that they should immediately attend his Excellency in the House of Peers. The Commons being come thither accordingly, his Excellency made the following Speech :

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

I Have received His Majesty's Commands to meet you in Parliament.

I congratulate you on the happy Effects which have followed the unparalleled Achievement of the Detachment of His Majesty's Fleet under the Command of Rear-Admiral Lord Nelson, on the total Defeat of the French Squadron off the Coasts of this Kingdom by that under the Command of Sir John Borlase Warren, and on the brilliant and important Conquest of Minorca. These Events, while they afford to us in common with every other Description of His Majesty's Subjects Matter of just Pride and Satisfaction, must at the same Time give Confidence to other Powers, and shew to all Europe the beneficial Effects of a System of Vigour and Exertion directed with manly Perseverance against the destructive Projects of the common Enemy.

I feel much Concern in being obliged to acquaint you, that a Spirit of Disaffection still prevails in several Parts of this Kingdom, and that the secret Agents of the Enemy are active in raising an Expectation of fresh Assistance from France.

In this Situation, and under the evident Necessity of continuing the War with Vigour, His Majesty firmly relies upon that Spirit and Magnanimity which have hitherto marked all your Exertions in Support of the Honor of His Crown, of the Interests of this Kingdom, and of the general Cause of the Empire.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I have ordered the Public Accounts and Estimates to be laid before you, and as I am confident your Wisdom will raise the Supplies which may be necessary in the Manner least burdensome to the Subject, to you may depend upon my Attention to their prudent and economical Application.

It is with great Satisfaction I observe that, notwithstanding our internal Calamities, this Kingdom, blended as its Interests are in the general Prosperity of the Empire, has participated in the Effects of the increasing Wealth and Commerce of Great Britain, and that our Revenues and Trade have increased.

My Lords, and Gentlemen,

It is my Duty to recommend to your Attention the various Objects of internal Regulation which have so long enjoyed the Benefit of your Protection and Support. Your Agriculture, your Manufactures, and particularly the Linen Manufacture, the Protestant Charter Schools, and other charitable Institutions will require, and will, I am sure, continue to receive, that Aid and Encouragement which they have uniformly experienced from the Liberality of Parliament. I am confident you will feel a particular Anxiety to give further Attention to the just and honorable Claims of those who have suffered from their Loyalty during the Rebellion.

His Majesty depends upon your persevering Energy to repress, by every wise Effort, the Spirit of Disaffection which still requires the Exercise of extraordinary Powers to check its malignant Effects: In recurring where the Occasion has required it to Acts of indispensable Severity, I have not been inattentive to the Suggestions of Mercy, and have endeavoured to mitigate the Effects of Penal Justice, and the necessary Exertions of the Powers of the State, with as much Forbearance and Lenity as could be consistent with the Public Safety.

In the general Cause which engages the Empire, our Prospect is highly encouraging, but in Proportion as a successful Termination of the War becomes probable, our Efforts should be redoubled in order to secure it.

The Zeal of His Majesty's Regular and Militia Forces, the Gallantry of the Yeomanry, the honorable Co-operation of the British Fencibles and Militia, and the Activity, Skill, and Valour of His Majesty's Fleets, will, I doubt not, defeat every future Effort of the Enemy: But the more I have reflected on the Situation and Circumstances of this Kingdom, considering on the one Hand the Strength and Stability of Great Britain, and on the other those Divisions which have shaken Ireland to its Foundations, the more anxious I am for some permanent Adjustment, which may extend the Advantages enjoyed by our Sister Kingdom to every Part of this Island.

The unremitting Industry with which our Enemies persevere in their avowed Design of endeavouring to effect a Separation of this Kingdom from Great Britain, must have engaged your particular Attention; and His Majesty commands me to express His anxious Hope, that this Consideration, joined to the Sentiment of mutual Affection and common Interest, may dispose the Parliaments in both Kingdoms to provide the most effectual Means of maintaining and improving a Connexion, essential to their common Security, and of consolidating, as far as possible, into one Firm and lasting Fabric, the Strength, the Power, and the Resources of the British Empire.

War-Office, Dublin-Castle, January 22, 1799.
