

lately made upon it, beg Leave to approach your Majesty's sacred Person and to present to you our warmest and most sincere Congratulations on so signal an Instance of Divine Protection. We reflect with the utmost Horror on the Danger to which your Majesty was exposed, and consider your Majesty's providential Preservation as a fresh Proof of the Divine Goodness to these Kingdoms.

Feeling as we do the Blessings of our excellent Constitution strengthened and supported by your Majesty's unremitting Care and Attention, we humbly beg Leave to assure your Majesty that our Endeavours will ever be exerted in the faithful Discharge of our Duty as Magistrates in enforcing a due Obedience to the Laws, and in guarding a Life so truly dear to your People, and so important to the Security, Happiness, and Prosperity of your Majesty's Dominions.

[Presented by the Marquis of Titchfield and Mr. Mainwaring.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the President, Council, and Fellows of the Society of Antiquaries of London.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's most dutiful and loyal Subjects the President, Council, and Fellows of the Society of Antiquaries of London, filled with Horror and Indignation at the late daring and atrocious Attack on your Majesty's most sacred Person, beg Leave with all Humility to approach the Throne, and to offer our most sincere and heartfelt Congratulations on your Majesty's providential Escape,

Deeply impressed with a due Sense of the Honor conferred upon us by your Majesty's most gracious Patronage, as well as of the many inestimable Blessings which we enjoy in common with the Rest of our Fellow Subjects under your Majesty's mild and paternal Government, we hope and trust that that Almighty Being, who has on many Occasions signally interposed in Favour of these Kingdoms, by preserving to them your Majesty's most invaluable Life, will still guard and defend it from every Attack, either of secret Treachery or open Violence; and will graciously be pleased to grant that your Majesty may long continue to reign, as you now do, in the Hearts and Affections of a happy, dutiful, and loyal People.

Given under our Seal at Somerset-Place,
May 22, 1800.

[Presented by the President, the Earl of Leicester, Lord Steward, attended by the Vice-Presidents, viz. John Lord Bishop of Salisbury, Sir Henry Charles Englefield, Bart. the Reverend Anthony Hamilton, D.D. and Alexander Aubert, Esq.]

To the KING's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble Address of the President, Council, and Fellows of the Royal Society of London, for improving Natural Knowledge.

Most Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majesty's loyal and dutiful Subjects, humbly beg Leave to offer our sincere Congratulations to your Majesty on the late providential Escape of your Royal Person from the atrocious and treasonable Attempt of an unprincipled Assassin.

Fully sensible of the inestimable Importance of your Majesty's sacred Life to the Welfare and Prosperity of your Subjects, we zealously lift up our Hearts to Heaven, and fervently adore the Great Disposer of Events for this evident Manifestation of Divine Mercy towards the People of these Realms.

Happy under the munificent Patronage of a Monarch whose Virtues have drawn forth from his People Exertions hitherto unrivalled in History, for successfully resisting the Attacks of our foreign and domestic Enemies, it is our most ardent Wish that your Majesty may long continue to adorn the Throne of your Ancestors, and that that Throne may ever hereafter be, as it now certainly is, surrounded by the united Affections of Three grateful Kingdoms.

[Presented by the President Sir Joseph Banks, accompanied by General Rainsford, Lord Romney, Lord Sheffield, Lord Ranelagh, Sir H. Englefield, Dr. Hanuten, Dr. Reynolds, Colonel Aubert, Mr. Hatton, Mr. Rogers, Mr. Abbott, Mr. Morton Pitt.

Windsor, May 25, 1800.

THE following Address of the Dean and Canons of the Free Collegiate Chapel of Windsor, has been presented to the King, which Address His Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously:

WE, the Dean and Canons of the Free Chapel of Saint George, within your Majesty's Castle of Windsor, beg Leave to approach your Royal Presence, solicitous to express our most faithful Congratulations on an Occasion which takes no ordinary Possession of our Minds, and makes no ordinary Impression upon our Feelings. Affected with the most sincere Veneration for the many Virtues, public and private, which shed so bright a Lustre on your Majesty's Character, partaking in common with the Rest of your Subjects the Blessings of your auspicious Government, and in this Place of your Royal Residence the more immediate Witnesses of your Goodness; we cannot fail to perceive within our Breasts the strongest Emotions of Joy at your Escape from a most nefarious Attempt. It is a Joy which terminates not in itself, but inspires us with the warmest Gratitude to the Gracious Providence of God which has vouchsafed its Protection to a Life so important to the dearest Interests of ourselves, our Families, and our Country. Grateful for the past, we breathe to Heaven every anxious Wish for the future, with heartfelt Solicitude, imploring every Blessing which can contribute to the Splendour of your Majesty's Empire, the Glory of your Name; and the Happiness of your Person.
