

Prospect of future Plenty, from the present Appearance of the Harvest.

I am persuaded that the great Measure which is now accomplished, could never have been effected but by a decided Conviction on your Part that it would tend to restore and to preserve the Tranquillity of this Country, to increase its Commerce and Manufactures, to perpetuate its Connection with Great Britain, and to augment the Resources of the Empire.

You will not fail to impress these Sentiments on the Minds of your Fellow-Subjects; you will encourage and improve that just Confidence which they have manifested in the Result of your Deliberations on this arduous Question; above all, you will be studious to inculcate the full Conviction, that, united with the People of Great Britain into one Kingdom, governed by the same Sovereign, protected by the same Laws, and represented in the same Legislature, nothing will be wanting on their Part but a Spirit of Industry and Order, to insure to them the full Advantages under which the People of Great Britain have enjoyed a greater Degree of Prosperity, Security, and Freedom, than has ever yet been experienced by any other Nation.

I cannot conclude without offering to you, and to the Nation at large, my personal Congratulations on the Accomplishment of this great Work, which has received the Sanction and Concurrence of our Sovereign on the Anniversary of that auspicious Day which placed His illustrious Family on the Throne of these Realms. The Empire is now, through your Exertions, so completely united, and by Union so strengthened, that it can bid Defiance to all the Efforts its Enemies may make, either to weaken it by Division, or to overturn it by Force. Under the Protection of the Divine Providence, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland will, I trust, remain in all future Ages the fairest Monument of His Majesty's Reign, already distinguished by so many and such various Blessings conferred upon every Class and Description of His Subjects.

After which the Lord Chancellor, by His Excellency's Command, said:
