PRESERVATION OF HIS MAJESTY'S LIFE.

Under the gracious Patronage of, and inscribed by Permission to the QUEEN.

PROPOSALS to commemorate the signal Interposition of Divine Providence in shielding the sacred Person of our beloved Monarch in the late awful Moment of an Attempt upon his Life, by publishing, by Subscription, an elegant interesting Print, expressive of the superintending Hand of Heaven averting the Assassin's Blow, and preserving the recovered Life of the Sovereign, whose Safety and Happiness is ever the unfeigned, the sincere Prayer of his affectionate People!

THE CONDITIONS.

It is engraving from the Picture painted for her Majesty, in Commemoration of the Event, by R. Corbould, Esq.

The Portrait of His Majesty is to be taken from an original Enamel Painting, by R. Collins, Esq; to be copied purposely on the Occasion at the express Desire of the Queen, it being considered by the Royal Family as unexceptionably the most perfect Likeness of the King that has been painted.

The Whole to be engraved by F. Bartolozzi, Esq; R. A. who has engaged to exert his eminent Abilities to enable the Print to commence delivering to the Public by January next.

Price of Impressions to Subscribers, 1l. 1s. Fine Proofs, 2l. 2s. elegantly tinted in Colours, to the interesting Effect of the Painting, 2l. 2s.

APPEAL TO THE FEELINGS OF THE COUNTRY.

If ever parental Care for his People's Welfare, if ever a long Reign of inviolate and constitutional Integrity, justly endeared a Monarch to his Subjects, that Claim, that Tie upon his People's Gratitude belongs, in a superior Degree, to our beloved and gracious Sovereign. Not more exalted by Rank than Virtue, he is himself the bright Example of those Duties, civil and moral, which it is his Prerogative to protect, maintain, and enforce. Enthroned in the Hearts of his Subjects, he supports his Empire there, by gaining their Affections, and so identifies their Interests with his own, that they are strictly "one and indivisible." That this is not the Language of Panegyric, that such are truly the Feelings of Britons, every Occasion of national Appeal has plainly and incontrovertibly evinced. But in no Instance has the Sense of Loyalty more universally demonstrated itself than on the Occasion of the late atrocious Attack upon His Majesty's most sacred Life. Peculiarly grateful must it have been to the Royal Breast to witness the Ebullitions of his People's Love, Veneration, and Esteem. The Empire spoke, and still speaks but one Language; one is their Voice, as one the Feeling of their Hearts on this Subject. All party Distinctions were instantly led aside and forgotten; Sentiment knew no Division; all equally flocked round the Throne to pay that willing Homage to a beloved Sovereign, which his Virtues, not less than his illustrious Station, command. Vows of Thanksgiving were offered up, and still continue to be offered to that Heaven, by whose Appointment "Kings rule, and Princes decree Judgment," for the gracious Interposition of Providence in protecting the Life of a Monarch, whose Value his Subjects feel how to appreciate. To perpetuate the Remembrance of this Event, to transmit the Feelings of our Hearts to the rising Generation, to Generations yet unborn, is then an Attempt worthy the sublimest Efforts of the human Mind, and to render the national Gratitude coeval and immortal with its Object, these Proposals are submitted to the Country.

The Print will be the exact Size of the Painting, viz. Fifteen Inches wide by Twenty-two Inches high; with which will be delivered to Subscribers, elegantly printed in a handsome Volume, a brief characteristic Sketch of His Majesty's Life, detailing, rather than the History of his Reign, the Soul of our beloved Sovereign! that the World may more intimately see the Man, the Prince, the Father of his People, against whom was raised the Assassin's Hand! To which will be added, a List of all the different Corporate and Public Bodies who have congratulated His Majesty on the most providential Preservation of his Life, and the Names of the Noblemen and Gentlemen who have presented the respective Addresses; with also an alphabetical List of all the Subscribers to the Print. The whole intended to form a lasting and expressive Record of the ardent Sense of the Nation.

Subscribers Names receiving in London by the Publisher, G. Riley, No. 65, Old Bailey, Ludgate-Street.

As the List of Subscribers must speedily commence to be prepared for the Press, it is wished their Names may be received as early as possible.
