Genova, July 24.

THE 18 French Gallies which have been at Barcelona, being Commanded by the Duke de Vivonne are expected in these Seas to joyn the 12 others Commanded by the Chevalier de Novailles. The 18th Instant parted from hence four Gallies belonging to this rate, under the Command of Dun Hippolito Centurione, in search of two Turkish Gallies and a Brigantine which had been on these Coasts, and yesterday they returned hither again without any adventure. The Gallies of Tuscany were abroad on the same design, but did not succeed better. The Sieur de Louvigny is arrived here, intending to pass from hence by Sea to Messina, of which he is Governor.

Naples, July 26. The 12th instant Four French men of War and two Fireships commanded by Monsieur du Quesne appeared upon this Coast; of which he gave notice to our Viceroy by one of his Officers, who, when he returned was accompanied by one sent by his Excellencie to complement Monsieur du Quesne, and to make him a present of Fruits and fresh Provisions. The said men of War are still at Anchor near the Isle of Procida being bound for the Levant.

Leghorne, July 30. The Cardinal d' Estree is expected at Florence, which is the reason the Grand Duke will not remove from thence until September. The French are working with all diligence at Amièze to enlarge the Port, which they intend to make capable to receive their light Frigates, for whose security, when the Port is finished, they will build a Fort there. Three or four days since arrived here a Vessel from Argiers with 30 English that have been redeemed from that Slavery; by whom we are told, That the Dutch are not like to enjoy so great a Benefit by their Peace concluded with that Government as they expected, those people pretending to search all their Ships for Strangers Goods, which because the Dutch Consul at Argiers opposed, they have confined him to his House; and that those Pyrates have at present 10 Ships abroad. From Genova they write, That the Senate had an Intention to fill up the place where they keep their Gallies, to avoid the dispute which they may have with the French, who pretend to have the use of it for their Gallies.

Leopol, July 14. We were extremely Allarmed here this week, by the advice we had that all the Gentlemen living in this Palatinate had caused their Cattle to be secured on the other side of the Ripula, apprehending, it seems, an Invasion of the Turks and Tarrars, which begot so great a fright among many people here, who imagined the Enemy to be ready to assault this place, that they began to remove their Families and best Goods, but their first fears being over, and understanding that the King was on his way hither, they returned to their former ease and quiet.

Warsaw, July 22. Since the departure of the Moscovite Ambassadors from hence, we have more and more cause to be jealous that the Czar is now Treating with the Turks, without any regard to this Crown, and if a Peace be concluded we have sufficient reason to believe that the design of the Ottomans in it is to turn their Arms against this Kingdom, or else against Hungary. The advices we have of late received from the Port seem to persuade the latter, the Turks having a greater Prospect of Success on that side, because of the ill State the Emperors Affairs there are in through the Civil Commotions that have so long afflicted that Country, and which will the more easily make it a Prey to a Foreign Enemy.

Vienna, July 25. This place, God be thanked; is quite freed of the Plague, which at present extremely afflicts all the Emperors Hereditary Countreys, so that Commerce is forbid with above 50 Places. The Imperial Court, as we have already told you, is at Limz, and will continue there till it return hither, which will not be till towards Winter. From Hungary we have an account of the ill pollure of things there, That the Rebels are very strong, Tockely and Petrozi having joyned their Forces together, and threatening to fall into Silesia and other Neighbouring Countreys; That the Viceroy of Offen, was, with a Body of 10 or 12000 men, encamped near Newbansel, having with him a Train of Artillery, and that it was feared he would joyn with the Rebels, who of themselves are 10000 strong; to make head against whom, the Emperor has sent orders to all his Troops quartered in his Hereditary Countreys, to march towards Newstadt, near which place they are to Rendezvous; and at the same time directions have been sent to the Bishop of Firnaw, to use his endeavours in order to the bringing the Rebels to such Terms as it may be proper for the Emperor to grant them a Peace upon.

Ratisbonne, Aug. 1. The Letters which the States assembled here, resolved to write to the King of England, and to the French King, to complain of the proceedings of the French Officers, and their many Contraventions of the late Peace, are ready, being both Signed and Sealed, but not yet sent away, because of some new Matter offered by the Deputies of Austria; for the Sealing of those Letters, three Deputies were appointed by the three Colleges, and each Letter is Sealed with 24 Seals.

Strasburg, July 30. The first account we had of the Marschal de Crequi's arrival in these parts made people somewhat uneasy, for they presently imagined that he came to put some great design in execution, and that it was against this place, which has of late been frequently Allarmed with advices of this kind; but those fears are for this time over, for the Marschal, after having visited several places, and taken an account of the forwardness
