Two Thousand Cavalry, having formed a Junction with the Garrison of Alexandria, came against our Army on the 21st.

In this Action we have to regret about Five Hundred Men killed and wounded; while the Enemy positively lost Two Thousand Men killed and wounded, and Five Hundred taken Prisoners. On the preceding Wednesday, Aboukir Castle surrendered, and the British and Turkish Flags were slying

Extrad of a Letter from Colonel Anstruther to Colonel Brownrigg, dated Camp near Alexandria, 16th March 1801.

THE Fleet sailed from Marmaxie on the 22d February, and anchored in Aboukir Bay on the 2d March. From that Day to the 7th, the Weather was so boisterous, and the Swell so great, that it was impracticable to disembark. This Circumstance gave the Enemy full Leisure to collect Troops and Artillery, and to make every necessary Preparation to oppose us. The whole Infantry of the Garrison of Alexandria, Three Hundred Cavalry, and Fourteen or Fifteen Pieces of Cannon, were placed on a Space of little more than Two Miles, from near the Castle of Aboukir to the narrow Ishmus, which forms the Boundary of the Lake. Such was the Situation in which we found Things, on the Morning of the 8th, when the Defcent was made. Nothing, I believe, ever exceeded the Boldness and Perseverance with which the Boats continued to approach the Shore, under a Shower of Bullets, Shells, and Grape. Every Discharge was answered by a Shout from the Seamen, and all seemed totally insensible of Danger. The Reserved on the Right formed as if on the Parade, and in a Moment carried a Height nearly equal to, and very like to, that of Camperdown. The Left were charged by the Cavalry, the Moment they got out of the Boats. However, they drove every Thing before them; and in the Course of Three Quarters of an Hour, the Enemy was completely beaten, with the Loss of Half his Artillery. After a Halt of Two or Three Hours, in order to difembark Ammunition, and Part of General Coote's Brigade, which had not been landed, the Army advanced about Four Miles, where we remained till the 12th; the landing of Provisions and Stores being much impeded by the boilterous Weather.

On the 12th, we again marched about Five Miles, constantly skirmishing with the Advanced Guard of the Enemy, who had received a Reinforcement of Two Half-Brigades of Infantry, and One Regiment of Cavalry, from Cairo. We halted, for the Night, about Three Miles from the Enemy's Polition, which seemed and proved very advan-

Next Morning the Army moved to attack the Right of it, marching by Lines from the Left; the Reserve covering the Movement, and moving parallel with the first Fire. As the Columns advanced into the Plain, the Enemy attacked the Heads of both with all his Cavalry, supported by a considerable Body of Infantry, and Ten or Twelve Pieces of Cannon. This Attack was repulled by the Advanced Guard (the 90th and 92d), both of which behaved most nobly. The First Line then formed Two Lines to the Front of March, the Flanks of which were protected by the Referve, and continued to advance in that Manner, whilst the Second Line continuing still in Column (excepting the First Brigade of it), turned the Enemy's Right, and forced him to quit his Position. The Army followed in the Order above stated, and Sir Ralph had given Orders for renewing the Attack on the Heights close to the Town, to which the Enemy retreated; but on examining them with Attention, it was thought that they were under the Guns of the Forts, and could not probably be kept if carried; the Army took up in the Evening the Ground which the Enemy had quitted. -

The Force the Enemy opposed to us appeared about Five Thousand Infantry, Six Hundred Cavalry, and a large Proportion of Artillery; the Ground being particularly favourable to the Two last. The Movements, although under a constant Connonade, were regular and accurate: The General, in this last Action, had his Horse shot under

The Position we occupy is good; it cuts off the Communication between Alexandria and the Nile, excepting through the Desert: Our Supplies are conveyed by Means of the Lake with Ease and Se-
